TAXATION CUT MADE POSSIBLE BY TREASURY

Officials Shaping Up Tax Reform Program For Year.

Plans Will Slash One Hundred Million Off Revenue

Washington, Nov. 11.—A material cut in taxation will be made possible by the tax reform program drafted by the United States treasury.

It is believed that the program will slash more than $100,000,000 off governmental income for 1926 and yet maintain a few million dollars surplus.

The real drive for tax revision is anticipated at the initial session of the Sixty-ninth congress. Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon, in his annual report to the December congress, however, will deal with the tax situation, making similar recommendations to those partially disregarded at the last session.

Figures compiled at the treasury show that the 1924 revenue act cut government income $470,000,000 this calendar year; $351,000,000 resulted from income tax cuts. In 1925 the government's income will increase about $150,000,000 over 1924, under the present tax act, according to estimates.

The ever-dwindling number of home-seekers moving westward to settle on public lands totaled only 13,886 in the past year, 5,056 fewer than in 1923. Interior department figures give the total area of public lands homesteaded in 1924 as 3,873,172, compared with 5,524,159 in the preceding year.

Acting Secretary of Commerce Stephen B. Davis made the prediction that radio, which played such a prominent part in the presidential campaign just ended, will be so developed during the next four years that voters in 1928 will not only be able to hear the candidates, but see them as well by broadcast movies.

Although Davis believes that there will be few persons within the United States in 1928 who will not hear the broadcast speeches of presidential aspirants, he declared that the old-time political meeting, with its red fire and enthusiasm, will never go into the discard in American politics. "There's got to be something to put the pep and hurrah in the campaign," he added.

Radio's greatest accomplishment of the 1924 campaign is that it has given a maximum number of the voters an opportunity to hear the voices of candidates, and thereby to study their character, personality and ideas, according to Davis.

POLICE SAVE DRY LAW MEN FROM MOB

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 11.—Interference by police last night saved Mayor A. R. Pugh of North College Hill and four of his dry law deputies from a mob at Cheviot, O., where the officers had gone to face trial on assault charges.

The case grew out of a raid under the Crabbe law, folowing which Mrs. Mary Smith, of Dent, O., accused the North College Hill mayor and three deputies, one of them a clergyman of having beaten her. The clergyman is the Rev. L. R. Graham.

As soon as the accused dry raiders appeared in Cheviot for trial, a mob gathered, trying to get at the North College Hill party in the city hall. For four hours the latter were besieged but Cincinnati police rescued them before the mob, numbering a thousand, could execute plans to burn the city hall to get the dry raiders.

Appeal to Supreme Court.

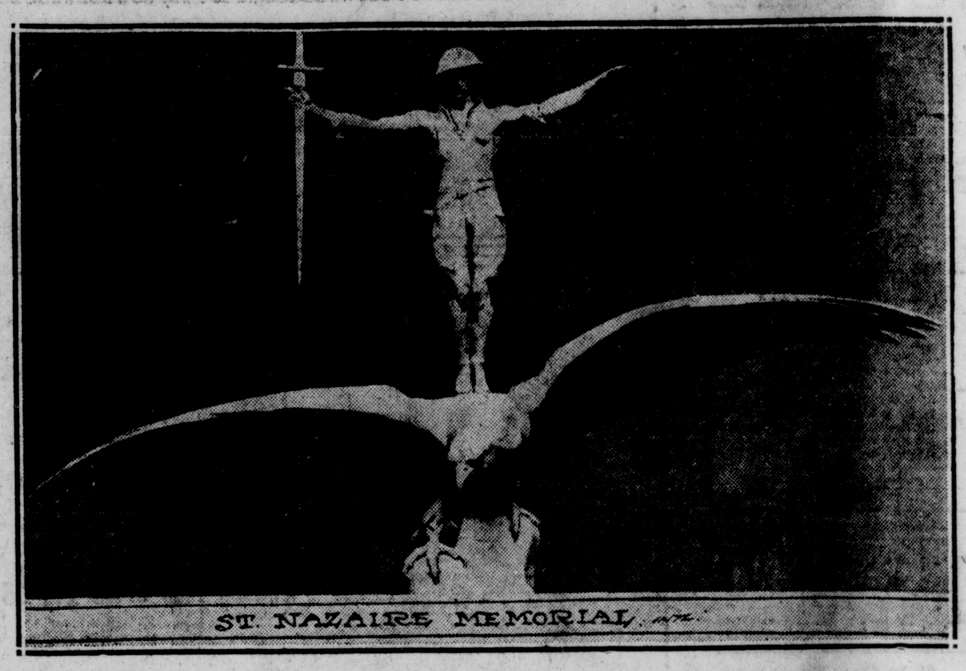
Columbus, Nov. 11.—The Northern Ohio Traction and Light company appealed to the supreme court from the ruling of the utilities commission that the Akron-Lakemore bus line could operate a system of jitney buses within the city limits of Akron under its present certificate. Railroad counsel contend the decision of the commission was contrary to law and the evidence. The court granted a stay of execution of the ruling.

MRS. WHITNEY PREPARES WAR MEMORIAL FOR FRANCE.



ST. NAZAIRE MEMORIAL

Above is shown the model of the war memorial designed by Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, wife of the multi-millionaire New York sportsman, to be unveiled June 26, 1926, on the rocks in the harbor of St. Nazaire, France. It is called the "Spirit of the American Eagle," and will be the gift of the American St. Nazaire Society to the French to commemorate the landing of the first American troops at St. Nazaire on June 26 1917.

GOVERNOR TO NAME SUCCESSOR TO LATE SENATOR HENRY CABOT LODGE

LA FOLLETTE PROGRESSIVES, THOUGH LICKED AT POLLS, NOT TO DROP FIGHT IN CONGRESS

Washington, Nov. 11—The LaFollette progressives may have been overwhelmingly licked at the polls a week ago, but they do not intend to abandon their fight in congress for the reforms in which they believe.

Evidence of this fact was forthcoming today in the announcement that a new fight will be started in the session of congress beginning December 11 for changes in the rules of the house that will make the procedure more responsive to the demands of members. It will be lead again by Representative John M. Nelson, of Wisconsin. Nelson led a revolt against the house in bringing about important liberalizations. Among changes effected was one providing for recall of bills from committee after a reasonable length of time for committee consideration with failure of a committee report and consideration by the house of the recalled bill.

When this was tried with the Barkley Howell railroad bill which legislates out of existence the railroad labor board, it was found the bill had to go on the house calendar and its consideration was possible only on the days this calendar was called. The result was that a house vote of this bill was blocked at the last session.

Nelson, Moore, of Virginia, Cooper Wisconsin, Fish, New York and others who had led in the fight for rules revision, admitted they had not accomplished all they desired in liberalizing house rules. Nelson gave notice he would move when congress reconvened for correction of defects in the rules demonstrated by inability to secure an immediate vote on the Barkley Howell bill.

During the recess of congress Nelson directed the fight for election of the LaFollette-Wheeler presidential ticket. Making of congress responsive to the will of the Progressives or any repesenative number of congressmen is one of the policies most strongly urged by the LaFollette followers. Nelson is expected to move in this matter without delay and he will command the assistance of many members of the house bill on going to each of the old line parties.

BUILDING BILL TO TOP FOUR BILLION IN NATION IN 1924

Washington, Nov. 11.—The American building bill for 1924 is expected to exceed the enormous sum of $4,500,000,000, and the construction of homes, accounts for about 40 per cent of that total, according to figures made public today by the federal reserve board and the department of commerce.

It has been a boom year in the building industry.

There still is a national housing problem, but the situation is the best it has been since the war, officials said.

Residential construction: 1923, $1,607,436,000.

Road building, it was estimated by the federal reserve board will aggregate about $1,400,000,000 this year.

The volume of construction in 1924 has given direct employment to more than 2,500,000 persons.

MOTORIST MADE TO VIEW VICTIM'S BODY

Cleveland, Nov. 11.—Police Judge Sawicki declared that all automobile drivers charged with manslaughter in the future will be ordered to view the bodies of their victims at county morgue. The judge directed police to escort Clarence Walker, 28, to the side of the body of John Dunnigan, 56, who was run down, it is charged, by an automobile driven by Walker. After testimony to show that Walker, a mail carrier, had driven away after Dunnigan had been struck, the court continued the case for a week, set bonds at $20,000 and delivered a lecture to Walker. Guarded by two patrolmen, Walker was led into the room at the morgue, where the body of Dunnigan reposed on a marble slab. Dunnigan denies that he ran down the victim.

SELECTION TO BE MADE AFTER FUNERAL RITE

William M. Butler Is Mentioned as Possible Appointee

Speaker Young Also Named as Possibility; Service Wednesday

Boston, Nov. 11.—Governor Cox is expected shortly to announce appointment of a successor to Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, who died Sunday night. Lodge's successor will serve for two years, when an election will be held.

William M. Butler, who was President Coolidge's campaign manager, is spoken of as a possible selection.

A successor to Senator Lodge will not be named until after the funeral tomorrow. Under an act passed last year the governor has authority to fill the vacacy in the senate until the next general election in the state, which will be in 1926.

In addition to Butler, Benjamin L. Young is prominently mentioned for the vacant senate seat. Young is speaker of the Massachusetts house of representatives. Supporters of Mr. Butler urge his services to the party in the recent presidential campaign as giving him the call. Speaker Young on the other hand stood aside from the contest for the senatorial nomination to oppose United States Senator David I. Walsh in the late election.

The death of Senator Lodge has removed from the senate the senator of longest service, the Republican floor leader and the chairman of the all-important foreign relations committee, who played so great a part in history during the league of nations fight. Senator Borah of Idaho will succeed him as chairman of the foreign relations committee.

Funeral services over the remains of Senator Lodge will be held from Christ's Episcopal church Wednesday noon. Interment will be at Mount Auburn cemetery in the Lodge family plot. The senator, whose opposition to American participation in the league of nations made his name a household word throughout the world, passed away after he had been ill for several weeks, and a stroke last Wednesday left him unconscious except for short periods until the end. Senator Lodge was in his 75th year. He had represented the state of Massachusetts continuously in the senate for 31 years.

Girl Beheaded.

SERVE HEAD OF NAVY IN ACTION TO SAVE VESSEL

Battleship Scheduled For Scrapping Under Emulation Order

Washington, Nov. 11.—Secretary of the Navy Wilbur was today served with an order from the District of Columbia supreme court, requiring him to show cause on Friday why he should not be restrained from destroying the battleship Washington, one of the vessels scheduled for scrapping under the naval limitation treaty.

The Washington is enroute to the Virginia capes to serve as a target for naval gunners.

RAILROADS ARE IN PROSPERITY WAVE REPORT INDICATES

Washington, Nov. 11.—The prosperous condition of the nation's railroads, reflected in soaring prices on the stock market, was still further exemplified today by the announcement by the American Railway association that loading of revenue freight continues to be the greatest in history for this season of the year.

During the week ending November 1, the total of cars loaded was 1,073,430, a great increase over corresponding weeks in previous years.

With two months of 1924 still to be accounted for, 41,156,593 cars have been loaded with revenue freight by American railroads this year, this record for ten months being almost equal to the twelve months of previous years.

SPANISH PLOT HAS BEEN SUPPRESSED

Barcelona, Spain, Nov. 11.—The revolutionary plot against the Spanish military dictatorship has been suppressed, officials say, with the execution of two anarchists here. Seven other anarchists are held, awaiting sentence, and roundup of suspects continues. One policeman was killed and one wounded in the fighting in which the anarchists were taken.

The outbreak in this city occurred almost simultaneously with other revolutionary movements, all apparently directed against the Spanish government and king.

Parties of Spaniards were arrested at various points on the French border. In each instance they were found to possess arms, and several confessed to a plot to slay Prima De Rivera and others of the directorate. Twenty-two were held at Perpignan, the ancient gateway city between France and Spain. At Vera, a running fight resulted in the death of six revolutionaries and two policemen.

WOMAN SENTENCED ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Bangor, Me., Nov. 11.—Mrs. Laura Patten, church and temperance leader of Machias, was sentenced to two months in jail by Judge Peters in federal court here when she pleaded guilty with her husband and a dozen other men to charges connecting them with a liquor smuggling conspiracy for which seventy four indictments have been issued.

Federal officers say the rum scandal will shake Maine society.

Mrs. Patten has two children. Her husband received a six months' sentence.

Jack London's Daughter Sues for Divorce.

MRS JEAN LONDON ABBOTT

Mrs. Joan London Abbott, of San Francisco, has sued for divorce there from Park Abbott because he objected to the daughter of Jack London, famous novelist, using her maiden name on her writings. She is determined to link her name with that of her father in her literary career.

MOVE TO DIVORCE HEALTH BUREAU FROM POLITICS

Columbus, Nov. 11.—At the opening of the fifth annual conference of Ohio health commissioners a move was started to divorce the Ohio department of health from politics.

Promoters of the movement are determined to seek a revision of the reorganization act, which will take appointment of the director of health out of the hands of the governor and put it back in the hands of a bipartisan board, such as functioned prior to the enactment of the bill.

Director Monger told health commissioners that Governor Donahey "believes with us that this change should be made and will use his efforts to that end." "It was a mistake to have thrown our health system into the spoils class, and I ask you to give us your aid in placing the appointment of the director back into the hands of the public health council," Monger said. "The position of any director of health under our existing law is an intolerable one. A health department is not an individual proposition based on the ideas or personality of a single individual. It is rather a complicated organization of a great number of specialists, each working at his individual problem and all corelated by the director into an efficient and complete whole."

Director Monger rapped part-time health commissioners who employ political influence to obtain their position and then make of it a cynosure. This type of official he branded as "the most despicable slacker in the whole social fabric."

Touching upon the program for the coming year, Director Monger announced that "aside from minor legislaive details we have no legislative program." Creation of machinery to properly administer health laws relating to public parks and tourist camps will be asked, he said, as will also the extension of the force necessary to follow through the "Seal and Safety" campaign.

Dr. E. J. Emerick of the bureau of juvenile research followed Director Monger, with a recapitulation of his plan to district the state and hold periodical mental clinics in every county in an effort to uncover possible delinquents and defectives before they get into difficulties with the law. Mr. Emerick appealed for support of his program and the response he received indicated that a big majority of the health commissioners were in sympathy with his plans.

The conference will continue through Saturday morning.

PROGRESSIVES DECLARE WAIT IS DANGEROUS

"Old Guard" Advises President To Call No Special Met

Washington, Nov. 11.—With the cheers of a Republican victory still echoing in the distance, President Coolidge was confronted today with a first class division of opinion in his party over the question of how soon the administration is going to embark on a program of carrying out its campaign pledges. The congress that was elected on the crest of the Coolidge landslide, cannot meet for more than a year yet, thirteen months to be exact unless Mr. Coolidge calls a special session to convene after March 4, next.

The question has been put up to the president in about this form:

"Can the party afford to wait thirteen months before undertaking to carry out its pledge to business to lower taxes, particularly in the higher brackets, and accomplish the other legislative reforms that it promised to business during the campaign just ended?"

The "old guard" advisers among the president's friends have advised him not to call any special session. Business they contend, is all right and wants nothing so much as to be left alone. They point out for instance, that Judge Elbert H. Gary, head of the steel corporation, recently said in a public speech that the country would be better off if congress went on an extended vacation and stayed there.

On the other hand the Progressively inclined Republicans of the Borah type believe that neither this administration nor any administration can afford to delay thirteen months the attempt to enact its campaign promises into legislation. If it does, this school of thought contends, then the inevitable reaction will set in that will cost the Republican party dearly in the by-elections of 1926—perhaps to the extent of overturning the fairly comfortable majorities which the administration has in both houses of congress.

What happened to the Harding administration is being pointed to as an example. Harding came in on the crest of a landslide too, but the by-elections of 1922 saw the overwhelming Republican majorities wiped out and control of congress placed in the hands of the LaFollette insurgents.

No further reduction of income taxes along the lines of the original Mellon plan, can be expected from the lame duck congress that meets three weeks hence. This congress defeated the Mellon plan once and the influences that defeated it once can do it again, the progressives-conservatives point out. Those influences are LaFollette insurgency.

No immediate decision is in prospect concerning the special session. For the time being, it was said today, the administration will content itself by recommending again to the 68th congress the enactment of the Mellon plan and repeal of the publicity clause affecting income taxes. It is altogether improbable that either can be put through the sixty-eighth congress.

The voice of Wm. M. Butler, of Massachusetts, is expected to play an important part in the president's decision. Butler's appointment to the United States senate to succeed Henry Cabot Lodge is expected to succeed within the next three weeks.

In the senate he is expected to become the chief spokesman for Mr. Coolidge, the liasion officer between the senate and White House.

What Mark Hanna was to McKinley, Butler will be to Coolidge, unless the political observers of the capitol are entirely wrong. Their careers are astonishingly similar.

MOVE TO RESTORE GERMAN PATENTS

Philadelphia, Nov. 11.—Attorney General Stone arrived here to act as leading counsel for the government in its appeal in the federal court to obtain restoration of more than 6,000 German dye and chemical patents from the Chemical Foundation, Incorporated.

The patents, seized during the war, were sold to the foundation for $250,000. The government charges that the sale was made by Francis E. Garvan, former alien property custodian and now president of the foundation, in conspiracy with other government officials and private individuals in violation of the criminal code. The foundation denies the irregularity in the transaction and asserts that the sale was made by A. Mitchell Palmer, while he was alien property custodian.

PUBLIC INVITED TO VISIT SPACIOUS NEW HOME OF JOBE BROS. STORE HERE THURSDAY

Complete in every detail after months of effort, the new Jobe Bros., department store, East Main Street, will be formally opened to the public Thursday.

The official opening will be at the hours of 9 in the morning and 9 in the evening, when C. L. Jobe, owner and manager of the store, Karl B. Bloom assistant manager and the entire staff of department heads and clerks will receive the public as their guests on an inspection tour of the new home of an old and established firm.

The general public is invited to the opening, the public being extended a cordial behest to inspect the new store at the hours appointed. As a result of this general invitation to the public it is expected the store will be crowded all day by people anxious to see the new home of the company. In connection with this invitation, Mr. Jobe issued the following statement Tuesday: "We have sent out formal invitations for our opening Thursday and Thursday evening to our business associates in kindred lines and merchants in Xenia and near-by cities only. We are issuing a general invitation to our customers and friends through the Gazette and the Republican today. Everybody is invited to be present at our opening Thursday."

Guests will be permitted to linger in the new store, inspect all the departments with their new and modern equipment and beautiful furnishings and make the store their headquarters. The formal opening marks a new and important epic in the commercial life of the city and the importance of the event has attracted unusual interest that is expected to pack the store for its formal reception to friends Thursday.

"L' INCONNU MORT"

(THE UNKNOWN DEAD)

The din of musketry is still'd;
The messengers of death have fled.
We mourn one, whom America will'd,
Should be honored as "Our Unknown Dead."

Once engaged in war's cruel game,
The supreme sacrifice was made;
The world honors now, his fame,
Forgetting not the price he paid.

Mirroring from his past; a scene,
Of joyous youth carefree,
We see the steel ribbons gleam,
On tie-paths of Eternity.

CENTRAL GRIDDERS MEET ROOSEVELT IN CONTEST SATURDAY

Central High School's football eleven is in good shape for the Friday game with Roosevelt High of Dayton, at Cox Memorial Athletic Field, with the exception of Spahr at end who received an injury to his hip in Greenfield game, and will probably be kept on thee side lines Saturday.

The game with Roosevelt is Xenia's last home game of the 1924 season, and with a not overly pleasing record f six straight defeats, Central is anxious to make good for the home fans, and chalk up its first victory of the season.

The Teddy Bears are practicing hard for the Xenia game it is said, and are anxious to wipe out the 33 to 7 defeat last Saturday at the hands of Steele of Dayton.

Roosevelt has amassed a fine record this season, winning six games and losing but two. In the first game of the campaign, the Scarlet and White totalled twenty-one joints to a zero for Tipp City Traveling to Troy, they beat the Trojins by the colse score of 7 to 0. Next in order came Germantown and Springfield, and these teams were both defeated by a score of 26 to 6

Then the worm turned, and the Teddy Bears received their first setback of the season, when Stivers High administered an overwhelming 60 to 0 defeat to the Roosevelt School.

After this nightmare, the Peden mentored gridders annexed the lightweight championship of Dayton by downing Moraine Park 19 to 6. Last Saturday Roosevelt again found the going rough and Steele High gave the Teddies their second defeat of the season by a 33 to 6 count.

In all its games, Roosevelt has scored 108 points to its opponents' 117. However Stivers accounted for more than half of this number and Steele did most of the rest. Discounting these two games, the Teddies have scored 101 points to the opponents' 24, in the other five games an average of twenty to the game, while the other eleven was acquiring five points.

This is an enviable record but with probably hardest game of the season to face Friday, Central is preparing to pull the unexpected, and give the Teddy Bears their third walloping of the season.

ETHYLIZED GASOLINE

For one year and nine months ethylized gasoline has been on sale. It is now being distributed through about 20,000 filling stations covering one third of the territory of the United States.

About 200,000,000 gallons have been used by more than 1,000,000 motorists with complete safety and satisfaction.

Recently a distressing accident occurred at an experimental plant, where a new process for the manufacture of tetraethyl lead, one of the constituents used in ethylizing gasoline, was under development.

Tetraethyl lead is a poison, as are many raw materials which enter into the manufacture of harmless compounds. Ethylized gasoline consists of 1300 parts of ordinary gasoline containing less than one part of tetraethyl lead.

This statement is issued to make plain the all-important difference between tetraethyl lead, the raw material, and ethylized gasoline, the commercial product.

Ethylized gasoline is more than an improved fuel, giving smoothness to the motor and eliminating knocks; it is a scientific discovery which, in its ultimate development, will contribute largely to the conservation of the world's supply of gasoline.

Exhaustive tests have been conducted which have established the safety of ethylized gasoline when used properly as a motor fuel. These tests have been confirmed by the United Sttes Bureau of Mines, which is making additional studies to determine whether any possible injury can result from continued contact when used for other than motor purposes. Scientific data based on these studies will be submitted to any health commissioner or other public health official on request.

MARIONETTE PROGRAM AT ANTIOCH DELIGHTFUL

A delight to both children and grown-ups who love the art of mimicry, Tony Sarg's Marionettes were enthusiastically received at both the afternoon and evening performances, Monday at the Antioch College gymnasium, Yellow Springs.

Known to be without a peer among doll actors, the marionettes lived up to their reputation. In addition to the main feature, three acts of the "Pied Piper of Hamelin," the afternoon program offered a varied performance. One of the cleverest masterpieces, was that of the doll imitator of Paderswski with a tiny piano. The movement of the hands and the entire attitude of the marionette was a delightful treat.

Another skit that met the appreciation of the audience was the "man with the dog." The tiny marionette dog was put through various dog-like tricks, which appeared very real. "The Parade of the Wooden Soldiers" was another feature of the afternoon program.

One of the most unique and difficult performances of the marionettes was given for the evening audience, when "Treasure Island" was presented in eight scenes. The entire story of Robert Louis Stevenson was enacted by the wooden characters, deftly handled.

The gymnasium stage was altered to conform in proportion to the tiny actors and was elevated and placed back on the regular platform.

The unusual opportunity offered by the appearance of the famous marionettes was realized by large audiences for both performances.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY HOLDS THANK OFFERING

The thankoffering meeting of the Sara M. Chew Missionary Society of Trinity M. E. Church, was marked with dinner and a program in the church parlors, Monday evening.

A large representation of members attended the dinner which was served at 6:30 o'clock. The business meeting of the society followed, when plans were made to send a Christmas box to a southern mountain school.

Each of the guests brought jelly or preserves which are to be sent to Friendship Home, Cincinnati, which is conducted under the auspices of the missionary societies.

The evening's program was featured by a dialogue, demonstrating the work of the home mission societies, by Mrs. George Street and Mrs. Homer Spahr. Reports of the missionary meeting held last week at Greenfield, O., were given by the delegates.

The thankoffering collection was taken and a large amount realized. A clever song, composed to the tune of "The Old Oaken Bucket," especially for the meeting, was sung during the evening.

ALL-DAY MISSION MEETING HELD AT HOME

ARMISTICE DAY IS OBSERVED QUIETLY IN XENIA TUESDAY

Armistice Day was celebrated in Xenia quietly Tuesday and observance of the day was limited to a display of flags in betoken of the anniversary of the day when peace was declared and the World War was at an end.

Observance was individual and voluntary and in striking contrast to previous observances of the day, there was no parade, no speeches, and nothing scheduled that would indicate that the day was a holiday, as proclaimed by the governor, other than a closing down of all the city and county offices.

The Hooven & Allison Company, in observance of the day, posted a bulletin in the factories, declaring that all work should cease at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning for one minute, to reflect in reverence upon the occasion.

The bulletin follows:

"At 11:00 a.m., November 11, 1918, the armies of the nations engaged in a World War, ceased fighting. So ended the greatest war in the history of the world. A war in which sixteen million lives were lost, four million men were crippled for life, and which brought upon countless other millions of women and children four years of misery and suffering.

"Tuesday being the anniversary of the Armistice, when men laid aside their arms, we shall, at eleven o'clock that morning, lay aside our work for one minute, in order that we may reflect upon the peace and prosperity which we now enjoy.

"The Hooven & Allison Company."

MAD DOG EPIDEMIC PREVALENT HERE

Citizens are warned by Deputy Sheriff George Spencer to beware of a mad dog epidemic which has broken out in the city, several dogs, suffering from hydrophobia having been already discovered and killed by authorities.

The creatures are curiously affected about this time of year, according to Deputy Spencer, and are dangerous if let roam at large.

Half a dozen cases have already been taken care of by Deputy Spencer and persons noticing dogs acting in a suspicious manner, are requested to inform Deputy Spencer.

MAIL DELIVERIES AT HALT CHRISTMAS

All persons are urged to mail their Christmas gifts to the rural districts as early as possible, as there will be no rural delivery Christmas Day and no city deliveries, according to word sent out from the local Post Office.

SOCIAL SERVICE LEAGUE NURSE HAS GIVEN HER REPORT

The report of Miss Jennie Moffett, Social Service League public health nurse, for October, submitted at the monthly board meeting, Monday night, showed activity along both health and educational lines.

During the month, cases of many descriptions came under Miss Moffett's care, ranging from cancer, tuberculosis and near pneumonia to burns, cuts and bruises among the children.

Twenty-four people were under the care of the nurse, and 154 calls were made. Thirteen came to the office for advice or treatment for minor ailments, where twelve dressings were done.

Six dressings for burned hands were done in the home. Medicine and surgical supplies were given six families.

Miss Moffett assisted at one Rotary clinic; made three trips to St. Elizabeth Hospital, Dayton; one to the state hospital; and one to the clinic at the Miami Valley Hospital.

Two school children were taken to a physician for special examination. The nurse spent two days in attendance at the public health Nurses' Institute at Cincinnati and gave a talk along the local line of work before the local Twentieth Century Club.

BURGLARS ENTER YELLOW SPRINGS DEPARTMENT STORE

For the second time in a month the N. H. Straus dapartment store in Yellow Springs was entered by thieves, Monday night. The robbers escaped with eight pairs of shoes, two sweaters, all the Beechnut chewing gum in the store and a box of cigars.

Three weeks ago Monday night the store was entered also, when a small amount of money was taken. Entrance for the second robbery was gained through a transom in the front. The thieves left by a side door which was left standing open. No clueto the identity of the burglars has been gained by officials.

HUNTERS MAKING READY FOR RABBIT SEASON SATURDAY

Hunters in the city and country are getting ready for a general exodus to the woods Saturday, November 15, when the big hunting season of the year, the rabbit season opens. The season lasts just one month and a half, and will close the first day of the new year.

Aspiring hunters are warned that ten rabbits may be taken on every day in the week with the exception of Sunday, when rabbit hunting is barred to everyone excepting land owners and tenants who find the little animals destroying property. Owners and tenants may take the animals in such cases in any number.

The animals may also be taken between one hour before sunrise and one hour after sunset, thus precluding night hunting.

Rabbits may be bought or sold in any number during the open season, but the use of ferrets in taking is prohibited to all except land owners and tenants.

A 'CIRCUIT RIDER" OF 300,000 MILES

The latest statue to be raised in Washington is along the new line, and a fine example of its spirit. It is to a pioneer preacher whose home was on his horse's back, and who carried the gospel and the message of Christian love over mountains and across streams to colonists, settlers and Indians. He preached about 17,000 sermons, traveled on his horse about 300,000 miles, and at the height of his career got his largest salary of $85 a year.

The man so honored is Bishop Francis Asbury. The statue represents him on his weary little horse, whose drooping head indicates its fatigue. It is quite different from the fiery "steed' or "charger" the warrior usually sits on, but is very true to life. The statue is the work of Augustus Lukeman, and was erected by the Methodist church to its first bishop in America.

Here is recognition of in permanent are of accomplishment of a different character from that usually so represented. Future generations will look on this statue and be inspired, and who shall say that the inspiration will not be worth that received from gazing on the figure of a gallant warrior? President Coolidge in his speech at the unveiling declared that Asbury "is entitled to rank as one of the builders of the nation." He added that it was as the result of the preaching of Bishop Asbury and others that "our country has developed so much freedom."

Young Asbury, an Englishman, came to the colonies in 1771, a few years before the Revolution, when there were only 371 Methodists in this country. When hedied, in 1816, there were more than 200,000. He trailed the Indians and hardy pioneers across the Alleghenies 60 times, sometimes making his horse swim streams behind his boat. He preached from th eborders of Florida to the wilds of Canada, traveling as much as 8,000 miles in one year. With him usually went his faithful Negro servant, "Black Henry," who sometimes preached in his master's stead and who founded the African Methodist Church. No circumscribed pastorate could suit this pioneer evangelist; he was the man on horseback in the Christian warfare, and he boldly carried his campaign to remote places.

IMPROVED ON HIS ORDERS

Mark Twain while at his summer residence prepared one evening to take a drive and, expecting to remain out until late, told his hostler that he need not wait for him. He instructed the man, however, when he had finished his work to lock the stable and place the key under a stone, the location of which Mr. Clemens described with much exactness. When the humorist reached home after his drive he was surprised to find that the key was not in the place selected. When his patience had been exhausted he awoke the hostler, who explained, as he started out to find the missing key, "Mr. Clemens, I found a better place to hide it."

THE "FAVORITE SON" A MYTH

John W. Davis is a native of West Virginia and has lived there most of his life. He is now a resident of New York. Chas. W. Bryan has lived in Nebraska half a lifetime and is its Governor. Senator Burton K. Wheeler is a citizen of Montana. All these men were candidates in the national election. Not one of them carried his home state. West Virginia, New York, Nebraska and Montana all found their way into the Coolidge columns. The "favorite-son" sentiment was paralyzed by the Coolidge atmosphere in all States having candidates except Wisconsin. This is one more of the many indications of how the people of this Nation felt Tuesday, Nov. 4th.

LUCKY SNOOK

It pays to patronize, especially when the prerequisite of patronage is a fine painting freely given by its author.

Last week, in Manhattan, the names of all the lay members of the co-operation Painters' and Sculptors' Gallery Association were hidden away, lottery-wise, then drawn forth. In the order of their names' forthcoming, the lay members were then entitled to choose one work apiece from amongst upwards of 150 pieces executed by leading artists of the U. S. The artists had donated their creations as tokens of their gratitude to the lay members for their support of the Association.

As the name-drawing began, patrons from many a state stood tensely by to learn their luck. Out come the first name: Albert Snook, of Aurora, Ill., publisher of The Aurora Beacon-News. Without hesitation, Mr. Snook marched to John Singer Sargent's canvas, The Chess Game, and claimed it for his own.—Time.

Handmade Magazine Rack

An attractive magazine rack may be made by covering an old rack with cretonne or any other decorative material. Simply cut the fabric into pieces of the right size, allowing a half inch for turning under on all edges, and glue it to the rack with best quality liquid glue.

Where an old rack is not available, an inexpensive new one of unfinished wood may be used or the rack may be made by hand from an old packing box or from discarded pieces of lumber.

JUST FOLKS

Edgar A. Guest

Hey, you with your constant pleading,
Can't you see I'm busy reading!
Don't you know my legs were never
Made to run and romp forever?
If I leave you for a minute,
There's a cash and you are in it;
Guess I'll have to rope and bind you.
Next time I'm left to mind you.

Goodness gracious, I can't think well!
How'd you ever get that ink-well?
See that dreadful mess you've made now!
Mercy on me, I'm afraid now
When your mother comes we'll get it!
Don't touch that, or you'll upset it!
Stay right there where I can find you
Oh, but it's a tough job to mind you!

Two years old, and full of pepper!
My, you're certainly a stepper!
No, no, Janet, do not take that;
It's cut-glass and you will break that
There, you've dropped it and it's broken,
And it was a wedding token!
Now look out, the lamp's behind you
Oh, but it's a chore to mind you!

Gosh, my nerves are all a-flutter!
Yes, I'll get you bread and butter,
But I tell you that I wish now
That your mother—watch that dish now!
Hey, that knife don't run away with!
Knives are not for babies to play with!
Who to mischief so inclined you?
Wow! but it's a task to mind you!

Young Housewife: "Can you suggest a novel way of finishing the upper and lower edge of a silk lamp shade I have just made? I am so tired of fringes."

Answer: Silk ribbon about one-half inch wide, run through glass colored beads is now being used as a lamp-shade edging. Have the beads as far apart, or as near, as you desire.

Mrs. B. B.: "I wish to know how to paint or enamel old flower pots so that the paint will not blister and chip off in a few days. Surely there is some special process for doing this but I cannot find anyone who knows how. Also can the pot be painted with a plant in it without injuring the plant?"

Answer: Suppose we ask some of our other Reader Friends about this? Perhaps one of them has tried it and To steam clams, put them into a large pot with boiling water just to cover and can give us some advice.

A Reader: "Please tell me how to boil eggs. Sometimes the white of mine are crisp, but at other times tough and leathery. Also tell me how to steam clams."

Answer: To boil an egg, simply put it into rapidly boiling water. If you like it quite soft remove it in three minutes. If you like it medium-soft, but so that the white is firm, boil it four minutes. Five minutes of boiling will produce a hard-boiled egg. A little experience, and the use of good fresh eggs will give you good results.

the bottom of the pan (only a cupful or two of water). Put on a tight-fitting cover and let the water boil till the clam-shells are wide open.

Mrs. K.: "Please tell me how to clean tapestry furniture."

Answer: Simply apply gasoline or benzine, but not near heat or flame because these fluids are extremely flamable.

Answer: Gasoline will remove it but sometimes this leaves a ring on very delicate material. So you had better use chloroform or ether instead. If the spot is in a very conspicuous place on the garment, it would pay you to have a professional cleaning establishment do the work as they will achieve perfect results.

MRS. BUSH TELLS OTHER WOMEN

How Pains in Side and Dragging Down Feelings Were Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Massena, N.Y.—"I had terrible pains in both my sides and a dragging-down feeling that affected me so that I could hardly walk, and I got rundown. A friend who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advised me to try it and I have taken it with the best results. I do my housework and also some outdoor work on the farm. The Vegetable Compound has given me back my health and I can not praise it enough. I am perfectly willing that you should use these facts if my letter will help other women who still suffer."—Mrs. DELBERT BUSH, R. F. D. 1, Massena, N.Y.

The spirit of helpfulness shown in the letters we are constantly publishing is worthy of notice.

These women know by experience what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will do. Your troubles are the same as theirs. Isn't it reasonable to expect the same results?

If you have pains and a dragging-down feeling and are nervous and irritable, profit by Mrs. Bush's experience and give the Compound a trial.

THE AIM AND END AFTER ALL

Anyone who is healthy and alert is able to get quite a thrill out of the ordinary thing of making money for instance.

But he will quickly tire of it all because he can see no definite and happy end.

The chef end and aim of life should be to enrich this life—which by the way, is all life. And this enriching process is one of individual selection whereby beauty and love prevaills over all.

You can't get very much fun out of building a house in which you are to live alone.

Imagine the kind of a world this would be if you and everyone else sought to make it whole and exclusively a personal possession.

I often think of what a wonderful organ the heart is. It never seems to get tired. For nearly a hundred years it keeps beating away, putting up with all manner of abuse, always hoping and hoping.

But this heart much prefers to beat for something!

If only to say once every night: "What a sky, what stars!"

I saw an actor the other evening who merely acted. He made me think of another actor who forgot all about acting and played the part He made me think of this great man who on being asked how to be a great actor repled: "Study everything you can about acting—then forget it all."

The chief end and aim of life, according to my idea, is to be an artist through and through: to be one without thinking whether it is going to pay or not, or whether you you are going to be notieed or rewarded.

Give the world a rollicking laugh, a smooth and even attempt at doing something better than it has ever been done before and be kind and thoughtful while you are doing it.

HUSBANDS BLAMED FOR POOR TASTE OF WIVES IN DRESSING

Husbands are to blame as often as not for whatever poor taste their wives may have in buying and wearing clothes, says a clothing extension specialist at the Ohio State University after several years experience with groups of Ohio farmwives.

"It often happens," says the specialist, Edna M. Callahan, "that when we think we have convinced a certain woman with a medium complexion that she should avoid grays and black as much as possible, she will continue to dress in these colors.

"If you ask the woman why she insists on gray, she will usually say that her husband likes her best in that color. Occasionally it be that her mother always liked her in gray and she doesn't feel right in brighter colors.

"Women of medium complexion are no means the hardest to convince in color combinations but there are more of them than all other tpye put together. The pure brunette is quite frequent, but true blondes are scarse, and we seldom find more than one typical red head in fifty."

CONDITION OF MRS. HARDING IMPROVED

Marion, O., Nov. 11.—With the dawn of Armistice Day, today, Mrs. Warren G. Harding's spirits seemed to rise and those at her bedside noted what they believed to be a slight improvement.

At midnight last night Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, reported her condition remained the same as it had during the day.

RELATIVE OF TEDDY GETS NAVY OFFICE

Washington, Nov. 11.—The assistant secretaryship of the navy is to remain in the Roosevelt family, it appeared here today. Theodore Douglas Robinson, a nephew of the former president, has been virtually decided upon for the post. He will succeed Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, his cousin, who resigned two months ago in order to run for the governorship of New York, for which office he was defeated by Governor Al Smith.

LABOR SECRETARY TO RESIGN MARCH 4

Washington, Nov. 11.—Secretary of Labor James J. Davis is the only member of the cabinet who has indicated to President Coolidge his intention to resign on March 4. it was announced officially at the White House today.

Davis is now enroute to South America to make an investigation of immigration problems.

COMMITS SUICIDE

Canton, O., Nov. 11.—Oliver Brumbaugh, 62, part owner and superintendent of the Louisville Brick and Tile Company, and owner of the Louisville Feed and Grain Company, killed himself today at his farm near Louisville. He went to the barn on the farm, which is occupied by a tenant farmer, placed his shotgun on the floor, put the muzzle of the gun in his mouth, pressed the trigger with his foot and blew the entire top of his head off.

PRINCE EXPELLED

Brussels, Nov. 11.—Prince Don Luis Ferdinand of Spain, mysteriously expelled from Paris last month, was requested today to leave Belgium immediately. His effort to comply with the request by sailing for England, was thwarted when the British embassy refused to vise his passport.

HERE AND THERE

Dean O'Bannon, known to the police as one of the wealthiest and most active beer runners in northern Illinois, was pumped full of lead at Chicago by three unidentified men, who escaped.

St. Vincent de Paul's Catholic church at Montreal was destroyed by fire with a loss of $300,000.

Clinched in a death grip with their hands on each other's throat, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Zagac broke through a railing on the rear porch of their flat in Chicago and plunged three stories. The husband was killed and the wife has a fractured skull.

The government budget fixed expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1926, at $2,980,000,000, the lowest since the war.

CHILD SCALDED TO DEATH TAKING BATH

Canton, O., Nov. 11.—Placed in bathwater, so hot that it scalded, Mary, 10 day old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Novic received burns which caused her death here late yesterday. She was burned over her entire body several days ago when a woman helping in the Novic home attempted to bathe her in hot water.

Coroner T. H. Shorb, investigating the case found it to be an accident and said that there was no evidence of criminal negligence.

LEGION HEAD MAKES PLEA FOR DISABLED VETERAN IN SPEECH

Indianapolis, Nov. 11—A plea for the disabled veteran was made here today in the Armistice Day message of James A. Drain, commander of the American Legion.

The message reads:

"On the eleventh hour, of the eleventh day of the eleventh month six years ago today, the order to 'cease firing' brought an end to the greatest war the world has ever known.

"The sigh of relief that went up around the world attested eloquently to the feelings of peoples toward the most abominable of all legalized business, killing.

"Armistice Day always should be a reminder of that bloodiest war, it should be dedicated each year to the message of world peace, the great goal which we all seek.

"Permanent world peace rests upon international justice and without that justice there will always be war. Justice must be automatic and it will depend on the erection of some form of world court.

"The people of the United States are prone to forget but on this day they should give a thought for those wrecks for whom the Armistice has never come."

NATION OFFERS ITS HOMAGE TO SOLDIER DEAD AT SERVICES

Washington, Nov. 11—This nation today paid its reverent and respectful homage to those who gave their lives that the country might survive.

Six years ago today at 11 a.m. the world war came to an end—a victorious end.

Throughout the entire nation memorial and patriotic celebrations took place in honor of those who perished at the altar of honorable victory.

Services here in the national capital were centered about the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington cemetery.

Memorial services were also held in the chapel wherein lies the remains of America's wartime president, Woodrow Wilson.

President Coolidge placed a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier and led in the observance of the day. He was accompanied by Assistant Secretary of War Davis and Secretary of the Navy Wilbur.

See It Today!

-get the facts about this new way of home heating

Do you want furnace heat for your home—quickly, and without the trouble and expense of installing a basement furnace?

Come in, then, and let us show you the Estate Heatrola—a heating plant that sets in one of the living rooms, just like a stove, but supplies warm, moist air to every room—upstairs and down—just like a furnace. The most healthful way of heating, as any doctor will tell you.

Estate Heatrola burns any kind of coal, also wood, and uses no more than a stove. Its beautiful grained mahogany finish is everlasting. You can rub and dust it with a cloth, just as you do your furniture.

Thousands of Heatrolas are in use everywhere. Users are delighted. Don't doubt. Come see the Heatrola and let us prove our claims.

BUTTER PRODUCERS MEET DANISH TRADE BY SELLING ABROAD

American butter producers are now meeting Danish competition by shipping butter to Denmark's chief market, England, according to information received by rural economists at the Ohio State University.

"While the American farmer has a protective tariff on butter of 8 cents a pound, it apparently isn't doing him much good at the present time.

"Butter prices on the New York market are now about 39 cents a pound, while London prices are 50 cents a pound. This is a drift from about 13 cents a pound in favor of New York in the early months of the year to about 10 cents a pound in favor of London now.

"Production in the United States for 1923 was about 17 per cent greater than in 1920, and storage holdings of butter in the nUited States were 60 per cent greater on October 1 than a year ago.

"As a result the American butter trade, instead of worrying about competition from Danish butter on the New York market, shipped to London during the first week in October about 7000 tubs of butter to compete with Denmark's product.

BARBARA LA MARR AND HUSBAND TOO MUCH ALIKE HE SAYS

By PRINCESS PAT
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

Chicago, Nov. 11—"Barbara and I," explained "Mr. Barbara LaMarr," who, rumor says, is about to make legal application for the right to resume his bachelor name of Jack Dougherty, "are too much alike. That's the trouble with us."

But, to paraphrase Merton, if the too beautiful Barbara is no longer the sweetheart of her fifth husband, she is still his best pal.

Mr. Dougherty said so himself as he stepped from the Twentieth Century Limited here today and, hat and stick in one gloved hand, ran the other through his glorious auburn hair in which the marcel is perfectly natural.

"Why Barbara came down to the train in New York yesterday and kissed me good bye,, and wished me luck.

"We think it's perfectly splendid being separated, if you know what I mean.

"And if there's any divorce suit brought it will be by someone else, not I."

MONDAY MORNING COLDEST OF AUTUMN

According to a report of the various weather forecasters, a low mark for this year was established Monday morning at about 5:30 o'clock, when the mercury dropped to 29 degrees for about one half hour. The former record, established in the region of the Miami Valley was established October 23, at 32 degrees it was declared.

A cold air current shortly after 5 o'clock is believed to have caused the sudden lowering in the temperature. At 7 o'clock the thermometer registered about normal again or 34 degrees was probably the lowest registered Sunday morning.

TRAFFIC CLUB TO HOLD MEETING HERE

Because of the fact that a district conference of the Miami Valley Regional Advisory Board is to be held at Louisville, Ky., November 24 and 25, the meeting of the Miami Valley Traffic Club has been postponed until December 1, at Xenia, according to an announcement Monday.

The speaker at the December 1 meeting will be J. C. Harraman, Washington, D. C., attorney examiner of the interstate commerce commission.

LIGHTING THE BATH ROOM

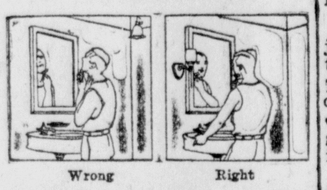
Have you ever watched your father shave? Does he try to keep shadows away by turning his face this way and that? Or can he shave comfortably and easily with a smile on his face like the man in the second picture? Shaving is really the best test of lighting in bathrooms. A man shaves each side of his face and under his chin, and if he is to see well, he needs a light on each side down low enough to light underneath the chin.



Wrong Right

Lighting the mirror in the bathroom is exactly the same problem as lighting the mirror in the bedroom, and two bracket fixtures are needed for good lighting—one at either side of the mirror at eye level or a little above. The fixtures should point upward and should have long dense milk-white shades open at the top to conceal the 50-watt "bulbs" inside.

If the bathroom is large, you may have a fixture in the center of the ceiling just like the fixture used in the kitchen. If this is properly put in and equipped with a bulb of 75-watts or more, it will furnish good general lighting all over the room on occasions when the mirror is not being used.

When sister goes to curl her hair in front of the mirror, does she find it necessary to take the bulb out of the light to connect her electric iron?

If she does, she probably does not curl her hair in the evening, because many bathrooms are lighted by only one fixture. And if your bathroom has two fixtures, and sister uses one for a curling iron, then she must twist and turn her head because she cannot see well when only one is used for lighting.

That curling iron of sister's is just one of the handy little electric appliances which should be provided with an outlet of their own—a convenience outlet 36 inches or more above the floor, so that good lighting is always ready when it is most needed.

LIGHTING THE SUN ROOM

In the sun room we usually want a ceiling fixture to give us general lighting and to flood the whole room with warm, soft light and an atmosphere of cheerfulness; we also need lighting from portable lamps for reading or sewing, or as decorative spots of light and color around the room. Do you remember the lesson which told how to light the living room? It was much the same as this, for the sun room or sun porch is really another living room in most homes.

In the sun room, however, the furniture and decorations usually require lighting fixtures which will look well with wicker and cretonne and which will make the sun room feel like a sun room even after dark.

Absolute Security in THE XENIA NATIONAL BANK

The One Thing Above All Others That Every Depositor Wants and Every Real Banker Seeks to Provide

THROUGHOUT the period of progress that marks the history of our community the banks have stood as barometers of financial ascendancy. Fortunate indeed are we who have at all times had institutions in which implicit confidence could be placed.

The Xenia National Bank

has served in this community, always with the idea of better and more efficient service for its depositors and at all times standing for progress and promotion of the best interests of the "Home Sector."

Protection and Service

are essential and are regarded as a sacred trust.

We protect your savings, your securities and your valuables. The Xenia National Bank has spared no expense in order that it might give to its depositors better protection and more efficient service.

Safety is paramount and for this reason the Xenia National Bank has installed A Complete Electric Burglar Alarm System thereby reducing to a minimum the chance of loss from this source either to our customers or to ourselves.

This system protects our entire vault against every kind of attack possible for burglars to make. It likewise provides means of alarm in case of daylight holdup. We strive to give to our depositors

Absolute Security

"THE OUTWARD SIGN OF INWARD SECURITY"

Let Us Show You What We Have Done to Protect Your Valuables

THE XENIA NATIONAL BANK

"McClintock Burglar Alarm

THIS system has been installed, during the past 20 years by Banks and Trust Companies, in Federal Reserve Banks, Sub-Treasuries and Federal Buildings. It is one of the most complete systems put out, and during the past twenty years not one of the thousands of those in operation has ever failed to do its duty; although burglars have attempted in every conceivable way to defeat it, they have never got beyond the first attempts.

The system is so complete that no one part of the vault or doors has a single form of protection, the protection on all parts being either duplicate or triplicate, both the open and closed circuits being used, so that any attempt to cut cables or wires, drill through the vault linings or doors, or the use of the oxy-acetylene flame, would immediately turn in an alarm.

The system has its own electrical energy, not depending on any outside source. This electric energy is installed inside the vault, as is everything else connected with the system, except the big alarm gongs.

The system has proved so successful that it has become recognized by all vault engineers, bank architects, underwriters, and bankers, themselves, as the only real protection against burglary and is highly recommended by all States, and the National Bankers' Association.

GENERALS SUGGEST ARMISTICE DAY BE GESTURE FOR PEACE

Washington, Nov. 11—James G. Harbord and John F. O'Ryan, two of America's fighting generals in the world war, today joined President Coolidge in the suggestion that Armistice Day be made the occasion of efforts in the interests of permanent world peace. Their statements were made public through the federal council of churches.

"Armistice Day this year marks the close of the sixth year of world peace following a period of armed conflict without parallel in the history of the human race," General Harbord said. "The anniversary of this memorable day should be the occasion for indelibly establishing in the minds of all Americans the wastefulness, the horrors and the immeasureable destruction of wars.

"Let this day be observed for the study and discussion of ways and means of abolishing all possible future wars by substituting a practicle plan of action based on common sense, reasoning, justice and law."

General O'Ryan suggested international co-operation as the best way to end war.

"The maintenance of world peace is a world problem," O'Ryan said. "And therefore must be dealt with by a world organization. From the beginning the world has always been organized for war and the world intermittently had war. Now, for the first time in history, the world is organizing for peace and when the organization is complete the world will secure peace.

"So long as any civilized nation remains outside the obligations of membership in a world organization, organized for peace, the world is not fully organized for peace and such a nation, but rather in terms of its manpower and military forces."

Lawyer's Clients Defined

A group of lawyers was conversing on divorce subjects recently in one of the corridors of the courthouse. They were joined by a young member of the profession who was bitterly denouncing the stupidity of his client who had just been cross-examined on the witness stand, and had become hopelessly confused by the opposition.

"Why, the darn fool," the young man began, but was stopped by Henry Spaan, one of the attorneys in the group, who said:

"Young man, did you ever stop to think that were it not for the darn fools, we lawyers would be without means of support?"—Indianapolis News.

First Aid

"What did you do when Bluebelle fainted from the heat?"

"Rushed her into a drug store for first aid."

"Did that help her?"

TWELVE ORPHANS ASK $100,000 FOR LIFE.

DUGAN ORPHANS

Here are the twelve orphans who appeared in a New York City court to ask that Sullivan Brothers, contractors, pay $100,000 for the death of their father, John Dugan, who was killed by an auto truck. Their mother, who was ill, died of the shock. The girls have managed to keep the brood together. Left to right, they are: Mary, twenty; John, seventeen; James, fifteen; Fred, thirteen; Patrick, ten; Margaret, eight; Hugh, seven; Katherine, five; Frances, three; Eugene, two; Raymond, one, and Elizabeth, eighteen.

HUMAN FACTOR IN INVESTMENTS TOLD BY ROGER BABSON

Babson Park, Nov. 11—The recent death of Andrew W. Preston, President of the United Fruit Company, has again brought up the much discussed question of the human element in investment values. The business world has lost another leader. I, for one, believe that the investment world is poorer, in spite of the fact that book assets remain the same.

The business of the United Fruit Company with all probability will continue to go on successfully. We should however, consider the possible effect of the death of its president in the light of previous financial history. The company has suffered a severe loss, a loss impossible to estimate at this time.

Mr. Preston not only knew the fruit business thoroughly but had the confidence of both employees and stockholders. He was a real captain of industry, a man of great vision, power and judgment. Although the company may continue to increase its fruit business and its stock may yet sell at record high figures, it would be surprising indeed if it does not ultimately suffer marketwise from Mr. Preston's death. A vessel is always a vessel, and a crew is always a crew but the profits of both vessel and crew depend to a large extent upon the skill and ability of the captain in charge. Wage workers and stockholders are entitled to their fair share of the profits of every business, but in the last analysis it must be admitted that these profits are largely due to the character, judgment, vision and energy of some one individual.

In discussing the possible effect of Mr. Preson's death several bankers and investment experts have recalled the effect of similar previous losses. They have cited the fact that the Great Northern and Northern Pacific reached their highest point under the personal management of James J. Hill and that since his death a decline in the prices of these stock has been almost continuous. They have reminisced concerning Harriman and what happened to the market price of Union Pacific and other Harriman stocks after his death. Other instances in our business and financial history substantiate the general rule that industrial securities reached their peak previous to the death or retirement of the founder of the company. These men still have confidence in the United Fruit Company knowing that it is a sound business and is well entrenched both as to the production and distribution of fruits. Most of them are optimistic on the market as a whole and believe that United States Fruit will continue to go up with the others, but the situation does bring to the mind the fundamental fact that the value of securities lies not in the real estate or buildings owned, nor in the temporary earnings of the corporation, but in the character, judgment, vision and energy of the men in control. Moreover this fundamental principle applies to all businesses, large and small.

This same idea has been brought out recently by Edna Ferber in her book "So Big." In her "Aug Hemple" she draws a picture of the founder of the packing industry as it exists today in America. It shows how that great industry reached its peak before his death and that no son or relative has since been able to put into it the vision and energy that this founder possessed. Quite by coincidence you can get a detailed picture of this same "Aug Hemple" in George Horace Lorimer's book "Letters of a Self Made Merchant to His Son." The present editor of the Saturday Evening Post was once his private secretary.

We see this principle again as it works itself out in a community. American development is not dependent upon national resources, location nor inherent wealth. Every city worth while today owes its growth to some one or more men of character, vision and courage who threw their energy into the building up of a town. The great danger threatening most of our cities today is that after the community has secured a certain momentum of growth it is apt to think that it can run along without further leadership. This is a great mistake and the best thing that a Chamber of Commerce can do is to clearly recognize this fact. The men who are giving their lives to the building up of your city should be helped and encouraged.

Business is still dull. I have just returned from a trip to some of the leading cities in the eastern section of the United States and of Canada. The bankers, manufacturers and merchants with whom I talked, seemed puzzled. They say that there is no surplus of goods on the shelves of the merchants, that the corporations are not overexpanded financially, and that fundamentally things are in pretty good shape. The most common expression I heard was that business seems to lack 'pep' or seems to be 'drifting.' The actual situation is pictured on the Babsonchart which continues to show general activity at 7 per cent below normal.

I wonder if it is possible that our business men, owing to burdensome taxation, government interference, or some other cause apparently beyond their control are losing interest in their business? If this is true it presents an exceptionally serious problem, a problem more vital than that of business depression or even a business panic. If statistics teach anything, they teach that men make values—and that souls make men.

Certain political leaders are preaching today that there should be a redivision of things. Perhaps there should be if such a redivision could come about in a natural way; but in attempting to divide things up we must be very careful that we do not sever the artery upon which business depends for its very life. It is possible that the uncertainty of the political situation is a contributing cause but I return from this trip convinced that the country business men are sorely in need of courage and confidence today. They need this confidence much worse than they need any more legislation or new rules. It may be a good drama for certain politicians to berate and belittle men like Harriman, Hill, Armour and Preston, it may win them a few votes with the unthinking but before we discount these men—before we lend our support to 'the under dog' just because, as a sporting proposition, it appeals to us—let us appraise these captains of industry. Let's figure what their initiative and vision meant in the development of America and just how much of the comforts, conveniences and living that we enjoy today is directly due or indirectly due to them. Then let us come out into the open and back the people we believe in, that confidence may again be restored and that we may go forward toward better times for everyone

Pine Tar and Honey Still Best for Chest Colds and Coughs

Our mothers and grandmothers would never be without pine tar syrup in the house for coughs, chest colds, etc. This was many years ago, but modern medicine has never been able to improve on this time-tested remedy. Doctors say the pine tar is hard to beat for quickly loosening and removing the phlegm and congestion that are the actual cause of the cough. At the same time pine tar and honey soon soothe and heal all irritation and soreness.

The kind that has been used with never-failing success in thousands of families for years is that known as Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar Honey. This is scientifically compounded of just the right proportions of pine tar, honey and other quick-acting, healing ingredients which the best doctors have found to aid in quick relief. It contains absolutely no opiates, narcotics or harmful drugs, so can be given to young children—fine for spasmodic croup. It tastes good, too. If you want the best, a medicine that often stops the severest cough overnight, be sure you get Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar Honey. It costs only 30c at any good druggist's.

Finds Kellogg's Bran "Easy way to avoid constipation" after suffering for years

Constipation is a dangerous disease. It can lead to many others. Twenty years' suffering with constipation undermined this man's health. Kellogg's Bran restored it—as it has done for thousands. This is what he says:

"Gentlemen:

After eating Kellogg's Bran twice a day for one month I find it not only an 'Easy Way to Avoid Constipation,' but an easy and most pleasant way to cure it. I have been troubled with constipation . . . for more than twenty years . . . after adopting the milk and bran diet I find my stomach greatly improved, and find it a specific for constipation. . . . I deem it only justice that you should know what your product has done for me, and what it is capable of doing for others."

(The original of this letter is on file at the Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Mich.)

Kellogg's Bran relieves mild and chronic constipation because it is ALL bran. It brings sure results. It sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine in nature's own way. Don't experiment. Only ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is guaranteed to bring permanent relief—or your grocer returns your money. You should eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

The flavor is delicious—nut-like—cooked and krumbled. Enjoy it with milk or cream, sprinkled on other cereals, cooked with hot cereals, or in the delightful recipes on every package. Made in Battle Creek. Sold by grocers everywhere.

INVESTIGATION OF ANTIOCH ROBBERY FAILS OF RESULTS

A complete investigation of the premises and a thorough questioning of suspects, has revealed no clues, which might lead to the solution of the mystery surrounding the theft of $240 in cash, an overcoat valued at $65 and platinum valued at $700 taken from the college buildings about a week ago.

Sheriff Morris Sharp and Prosecuting Attorney J. K. Williamson, assisted by a special detective, have been working on the case for nearly a week in an attempt to uncover clues but their efforts have been fruitless.

The $700 worth of platinum was taken from the chemical laboratory at Antioch and was discovered the morning of November 5 by Dr. C. F. Adams head of the department. It is believed the platinum was stolen when $240 in cash and a $65 overcoat were taken from the bursar's office at the college and the bookstore the Saturday night preceding.

The platinum was kept in the strong box in the laboratory. Dr. Adams found the box locked last Wednesday and when he opened it the metal was missing. The door to the laboratory was locked.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

Baby's Basket

The lining of baby baskets is a simple matter if gluing is substituted for the tedious stitching process. The ribbon for this dainty basket is gathered on the thread of its own selvage and fixed into place around the sides with glue. A piece of cardboard the size of the bottom is padded with flannel and covered with blue satin held full and glued into place. The top of the box, lined in the same manner with satin, is decorated with a big blue bow.

COURT NEWS

JUDGMENT GRANTED

In the case of James I. Patterson and others against Ancil Wright and others in Common Pleas Court, the plaintiff has been ordered to collect from the defendants, Ancil Wright and Harry P. Thomas, $155.42, with interest, making the total $159.92.

DIVORCE CASE ENDS

After hearing both the petition of the plaintiff and the cross petition of the defendant, and the evidence in the divorce case of Rosa Mills Compton against Lester M. Compton in Common Pleas Court, the court decided that the defendant was not entitled to a divorce as asked in the cross petition, and ordered that the case be dismissed.

The custody of the minor child, aged 11, was left to the child who decided in favor of the plaintiff. The court ordered that the plaintiff be given custody of the child, with the defendant having the right to visit the child or have it visit him.

The court also ordered the defendant to pay the plaintiff $8 a week alimony for the support of the child.

DIVORCE GRANTED

Marie Tate has been granted a divorce from Floyd Tate in Common Pleas Court on the grounds of gross neglect of duty. The custody of the child, Theodore Tate, has been awarded to the plaintiff and the defendant enjoined from interfering with the child or visiting him, until further order of the court.

SUES ON ACCOUNT

Dilver Belden has brought suit in Common Pleas Court against Paul M. Stiles and Lorena Stiles doing business as the Stiles Baking Company, charging that the defendants are indebted to him in the sum $491.86 by reason of merchandise sold and delivered to the defendants by the plaintiff. Miller and Finney are attorneys for the plaintiff.

COUNTESS TITLE IS FOUND TO BE EMPTY MYTH BY HEIRESS

New York, Nov. 11—Subsequent to discovery today that the mysterious Countess who had been a patient for a week in city hospital on welfare island, was the former Millicent Gilpin, of a prominent Philadelphia family, she announced that she would institute divorce proceedings against Rodney Bathurst Birch, cousin to Seymour Henry, seventh earl of Bathurst.

Mrs. Birch, who said she was about to bear a child, charged that the son of Reginald Bathurst Birch, noted illustrator, had deserted her after she had been talked into marrying him by his mother, Mrs. J. W. Whitmore, whose son he was by a former marriage.

Mrs. Birch said she had been led to believe that she would be a countess, might engrave a coronet on her writing papers, and live comfortably on Rodney's imaginary allowance.

Instead she said, she found he had no title, had no allowance and was in such financial straits that she would have to work.

Her wealthy father, Charles Armond Gilpin, who had been displeased by the match, refused to help her, Mrs. Birch said. She added that Birch left her a note dissolving their relations and fled. Then she took work in a department store, but fainted three times on her first day there and was sent to welfare island.

Her husband's father denied his son had deserted his wife and contended that on the other hand, she had deserted her husband. He, too, refused her help, saying she was extravagant and "spoiled by her wealthy and eccentric father."

Bit of Advice

A fresh youth on a Florida beach eyed a fair bather longer than she considered necessary. She shot him a glance or two that evinced no friendliness. A good-natured native thought fit to offer the young man a word of advice.

"Son," said he, "maybe we Southerners are a trifle fiery. Anyhow, when you see a pretty girl coming out of the surf, remember the words of 'Dixie.'"

"What words?"

"Look away."—Atlanta Constitution.

Flower Pot Camouflage

This charming flower pot cover can be made from card-board or buckram cut in an oblong strip and joined with glue. It is then covered with figured chintz or cretonne drawn smoothly over the foundation and held in place with glue. It can be lifted off while the flowers are being watered.

Gluecraft Panels

A great variety of wall panels of beauty and distinction can be made at home with a bit of care and ingenuity, a tube of liquid glue, a dash of originality, and a few scraps of chintz.

This decorative panel is made on a background of soft material such as tan duvetyn, which is framed with darker ribbon held in place with glue. Motifs are then cut from cretonne, chintz or any other figured material and appliqued to the foundation with a light touch of glue.

ARCADE BOWLERS WHIP OPPONENTS

The experienced five representing the Arcade bowling team, proved to be too strong for the Wilson Engineering and Contracting Company five Monday night at the Arcade alleys, and won by 340 pins in three games, rolling scores of 756, 822, and 748 for a grand total of 2,326. The contracting company rolled games of 642, 675 and 669 for a total of 1,986.

Arch Jeffries rolled the highest single game of the evening, with a score of 215 and was also good for the high three-game average, with a total of 574 for three games or an average of 191 1-3.

Horner was best for the contracting company with an average of 153 in three games.

The next match game is scheduled for Tuesday night on the Arcade alleys with the Pennsylvania Railroad five and the bowlers of the Xenia Quoit Club opposing each other.

This match will start at 7:30 o'clock.

Full Military Honors at Squaw Man's Burial

Sam Terry, beloved "Siksela" and squaw man of the Sioux, lies buried in the Rosebud Indian reservation in St. Francis, S. D. Full military honors were accorded the old United States scout and former Indian fighter by the American Legion as his body was lowered to its last resting place.

Samuel Mark Terry, nephew of General Terry of Civil war and Indian war fame, was born in New York September 1, 1830. Sam joined the United States army in 1858 and a gunshot wound received in the Civil war caused him to wear a silver plate in his throat for the rest of his life.

Handicapped by the wound and undaunted by loss of his toes by freezing while he was engaged in army messenger and scout work for Uncle Sam around the army posts in the land of the Sioux Indians, Sam Terry continued in the government service until romance conquered him.

His detachment was about to attack an Indian village in 1867, with orders to kill every man. During the fighting figures were seen hiding in the tall grass. One of the soldiers was about to shoot when Sam ordered him to wait. Search of the grass revealed two Indian girls. After the attack, one of these persisted in pursuing Terry until he became a squaw man and a real lover of the Indians.

Old-timers declare Sam Terry was a noble character. He served his country for 23 years, and after his adoption by the Indians he helped bring about a mutual understanding between them and Washington.

Meaning of "Alabama"

It has long been a matter of tradition that the name "Alabama" had the romantic meaning of "Here We Rest." This originated about seventy-five years ago and gained widespread popularity through the writings of Judge Meek, who handled the history of the state in a volume which was very generally accepted. Some recent philological research has upset this. Rev. Allen Wright, a highly educated Choctaw, says that it means "thicket clearers." That was originally the name of a tribe of Indians which inhabited that part of the country and the name was always given to the river and afterwards to the state. In his opinion the word is compounded from "Alba," meaning a thicket or mass of vegetation, and "amo," to clear or gather up. Another student of tribal dialects concurs in this belief, with the slightly different definition of "vegetation gatherers."

Ohio Girls Held.

Detroit, Nov. 11.—Charged with burglarizing John Miller's grocery, four Ohioans, two girls and two youths, are held here. The girls, giving their names as Dorothy Holk, 18, and Etta Setter, 20, both of Cincinnati, are said to have confessed. They are wanted in an Ohio reformatory, from which they escaped recently, it is claimed. The young men also hail from Cincinnati.

NEW X-RAY WILL AID BUILDERS.

X-RAY FOR BUILDERS (Below) CLOSE UP

The X-ray, hitherto used almost exclusively for medical purposes will now be put to practical use by builders, plumbers and artisans generally. A new device, constructed by Dr. W. D. Coolidge and his associates in the Research Laboratory of the General Electric Company plant in Schenectady, N. Y., weighs only 30 pounds and is connected to the nearest available electric light socket. Then, with the fluoroscope, builders and plumbers can look through walls to locate broken pipes and wires and the like. The upper photograph shows a mechanic looking through a wall, and the lower shows a photographic reproduction of a water pipe with nails driven all around it.

MAGIC WAND OF FATE UPSETS GRID DOPE BUCKET IN LAST SATURDAY'S GAMES

By David J. Walsh
I. N. S. Sport Editor

New York, Nov. 11—Fate absolutely despot over all things mortal, waved a magic wand on Saturday and lo there was a hitherto discredited Princeton team, playing football such as no Tiger outfit ever played before Chicago getting a 21-all tie with the great Illini. Rutgers warming all over LaFayette, Washington, getting a tie with the California and West Virginia Wesleyan winning over Syracuse.

In consequence of many disasters Illinois, Notre Dame, Pennsylvania Dartmouth, Yale California, Alabama and Rutgers remained as unbeaten team and of these Illinois, Dartmouth Yale, California and Rutgers have lost caste playing tie games.

On the other hand Syracuse and Ohio State were beaten for the first time annd another pair, Harvard and LaFayette, were so thoroughly annihilated by Princeton and Rutgers respectively that they never be the same.

If the writer had anything to do with it, which he hasn't he would move the football capital of the country to South Bend, Indiana, and let his critics do their worst. Notre Dame again showed its downright class by beating Wisconsin, 38 to 3 and is riding high on the crest of national dominance.

If any team in the country could have beaten Princeton on Saturday that team was Notre Dame.

Men of the wideopen west find that statement difficult of mastication. They will point to the fact that Notre Dame was five touchdowns better than Princeton a few weeks ago and that therefore not only the Irish, but Illinios, Chicago, Nebraska, Michigan and Western teams without end could and can beat Princeton But they missed seeing a modern miracle enacted when Princeton swamped Harvard 34 to 0, a Princeton that was one thousand percent better than the team that faced Notre Dame.

If the west accepts Chicago for its socalled moral victory over Illinois, and it should, it must also accept Princeton for what it was on Saturday.

However, records will be records and an indifferent early season must rob the greatest Princeton team of the modern generation of national recognition. The Chicago tie in a lesser sense will deprive the Illini of their top rank rating, unless Notre Dame, Stanford, Pennsylvania and Alabama are beaten in one of their remaining games.

Where the Hairpins Go

There is a very charming fairy story written concerning the land where all lost points go, says the St. Joseph News-Press. So completely do vast quantities of pins disappear from human sight that it seems there must be some magic in their vanishment. But the pretty fairy story is far from the sordid reality of the discovery, the other day, of many of the lost pins, especially hairpins. When sheriffs raided squatters who were occupying shacks on the Chicago dump, a pile of tnirty tons of wire articles, mostly hairpins, was discovered.

The discarded hairpins covered a space fifty feet square and the pile was four feet deep. Evidently girls and women who bobbed their hair had thrown away their collection of hairpins and those who profit from sorting trash had assembled the remarkable collection. Freedom from the thralldom of pins sticking into or pressing their heads is said to be one of the great advantages of women's shorn locks, though facetious men have complained that the loss of this household article means the deprivation of handy nutpicks and of a wire to hold damaged galluses. Yet their alleged consternation is nothing in comparison with the plight of hairpin manufacturers.

The same holds good for California, unbeaten in four years, but tied by Washington 7 to 7 Saturday.

It does in a certain sense, but the skull cracking is still ahead for Stanford, which has yet to show that it musters an adequate defense. Few Warner-coached teams do.

Pennsylvania was none too good in winning from Georgetown by a field goal in the final period and the fact that Rutgers could beat LaFayette 43 to 7, while Penn was pulling out a six t three decision over the same team last week, takes a bit of the edge off Penn's unbeaten record.

Yale, likewise, has some claim to prominence in the fact that no opponent has beaten it to date, but it was lucky to pull out ties with the Army and Dartmouth an dequally fortunate in beating Georgia. The Bull Dog, therefore, is not exactly acceptable in the best circles.

Objection may be raised in some quarters to linking Alabama with the Big Timers—on the ground that southern football is not what it once was. I do not hold with such. Typical southern football was played by Georgia when it outrushed Yale for three periods and by Florida when it carried the Army really a fine team right along to the final period before it lost by one touchdown.

Alabama must be good. Any team is, that can take on the best in the field and roll up 277 points to 7 by the combined opposition. If the southern leaders go through undefeated, no man will be able to say them nay. Baylor, which defeated Texas 28 to 10, also is a first class team.

TWO CERTAINTIES ON ALL AMERICAN

Sport writers and other gentlemen who devote themselves every winter to choosing "All American" football teams, supposed to include the pick of the best players of the land, may rest assured that they have two positions already filled.

It would be practically an impossibility to keep Adam Walsh, of Notre Dame, off the "All American" eleven this year, which is supposed to represent any football judgment in its selection. Although Walsh was injured in the Army game this year, and has not seen much action since, he is perhaps one of the greatest centers of all time in American football, and is one of the main cogs in Notre Dames' offense and defense this season.

The other "great" player, is also probably one of the greatest of all time, and is being ranked on equal terms with Jim Thorpe, the great Indian star, and Eddie Mahan, at one time with Harvard. "Red" Grange, the Illinois half back, is without a doubt a fine "All American" prospect. This thought is set in the minds of a majority of the big sport writers in the country and his triumphs in recent games, have proven that they are right.

SAYRE AIDS MATES KEEP TOP OF LOOP

Richard Sayre, former Central High gridiron star, formerly with the Dayton University football team, and now playing with Potters Tramps, leading semi-pro football team in Cinnati, helped his teammates retain the leadership of the league Sunday afternoon, when the Potters succeeded in scoring one touchdown in the last period that tied the C. A. C. eleven, 6 to 6.

The Potters team is made up chiefly of former college stars, and boasts of such well known players as Davis, half, formerly of St. Xavier College, picked by many experts as "All Western' material last year, Cushing of St. Xavier and Linneman, Cincinnati University star.

KILONIS DEFEATS GATSOFF IN EAGLES WRESTLING PROGRAM

The wrestling show Monday night at the Eagles Hall was productive of some classy wrestling in spite o' the fact that the main bout between Tom Pappas, of Springfield and Bill Brooks, of Wilmington, both former Xenians, failed to come off.

Pappas was on hand for the match but Brooks failed to put in his appearance, with the result that the lodge barred him from participating in future mat shows held under its auspices in this city.

The match between George Gatsoff, of Massillon, and Harry Kilonis, of Norfolk, Va., was not lacking in interest, and these two well known welterweight performers, put on an exhibition of the mat game that was a sight for sore eyes.

After twenty-eight minutes of desperate wrestling, Kilonis succeeded in making Gatsoff admit that he was bested, and the first fall went to Kilonis with a double toe hold.

The tables were turned in the next fall, and this time it was Gatsoff who forced his opponent to admit defeat, taking the second fall in seventeen and one-half minutes with a wrist lock.

The third and deciding fall was probably the best of the encounter. Both participants got themselves into precarious positions time and again but their expert knowledge of the game, never failed them in the pinches for about twenty-six minutes, until Kilonis pinned his adversary's shoulders to the mat, with an arm and leg lock.

When the wrestlers attempted to rise, and disengage themselves from their holds, it was found that they were locked so tight together, that they were unable to be parted.

With the asistance of Referee Harry Spencer and Tom Pappas, wrestler, their hold was finally broken, but Gatsoff was without the use of his arm for almost fifteen minutes, supposedly cramped by the hold.

The curtain raiser furnished the fans some interesting wrestling. Kid Black, of Springfield, took on Wilbur Strobridge a high school boy, of this city, who succeeded in staying with his Springfield opponent the allotted fifteen minutes, much to the surprise of the fans.

A good crowd witnessed the matches.

FORMER COLLEGE STAR TO PERFORM WITH IMPERIALS

James McKeough, former halfback on Dépaul University football team, will make his appearance Sunday afternoon at Washington Park with the Imperials.

McKeough, who is a cousin of Manager Wones, is visiting here for several weeks and he has been induced to don the moleskins Sunday. McKeough is tall, fast and shifty and is said to be a good broken field runner. He can also pass and kick fairly well and his addition to the team will help not a little.

The Imperial management has no game booked to date but will make a trip to Dayton Tuesday in an effort to line up some good team in or around Dayton preferably West Carrolton, Trotwood, Sidney or Piqua. Nothing but the best 160 pound clubs will be brought to do battle with the locals, so in this way the fans can be sure of seeing a high class football game every Sunday. Manager Wones also wishes to announce that on November 30 at Washington Park his club will meet the East Side A. C.'s in a game to determine the city championship. When these teams hook up Manager Bill Rickman will have several college stars in his lineup and the team that he is figuring on will make the Imperials step to come out on top.

Given Life Sentence.

Cadillac, Mich., Nov. 11.—Alfred Madison, confessed wife slayer, was sentenced to life imprisonment after he had pleaded guilty to first degree murder. Expressing a wish to "have it over with," Madison rejected offers of his family to provide a defense. He confessed that he killed his young wife on the night of July 24 and threw her body into the Manistee river, near Mesik, where it was discovered a month ago.

Redecorating Furniture

An old chest of drawers that has become badly chipped at the sides and scratched around the key holes may be transformed into a new piece of furniture by painting it and decorating with panels of cretonne or chintz. The cretonne or chintz panels should match the draperies used in the room and harmonize with the paint on the chest of drawers. They are best attached by gluing. Use best quality liquid glue and finish off each panel by gluing into place a narrow edging of ribbon or braid.

RED CROSS WORKERS IN JAMESTOWN WILL GATHER WEDNESDAY

Red Cross Roll Call workers, under the chairmanship of Miss Emma Blaine and Mrs. Braden Smith, will meet Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, at the Jamestown Church of Christ.

Among the things done by the Red Cross in the past year in Silvercreek Township was the inspection of 300 school children. Of these 179 had defective vision, 160 had defective teeth, seventy-one nasal obstruction, 108 defective throats, thirty enlarged glands, sevent-two were seven per cent or more underweight and fourteen were twenty per cent or more overweight.

Follow-up calls were made on some of the parents. Parents of children are told the need of having minor defects cared for to prevent serious defects developing later.

One patient was examined at the chest clinic, two children were operated on at the tonsil and adenoid clinic, and six children at the Rotary clinic. One child with a defective arm had an X-ray taken of his arm showing old tubercular condition which was non-operative. A representative from the State Department of Special Education came to see one child to try to arrange for education. Arrangement was made for the examination of a woman with an eruption on her face which was feared to be infectious.

Arrangement was made for the examination of a goitre patient and an operation would have been made possible if it had been required. A wife of a soldier was advised regarding hospital care and preparation. Advice was given several tubercular patients as how to protect their families and care for themselves. Service was given several ex-soldiers and civilians. Information was secured for one man whose family was having difficulty getting a passport from a foreign country to join him in America.

BRINGING UP FATHER

The Truant Soul

By

Victor Rousseau

He said good night in a low tone and turned away. Joan went up to her room. She lay down, but did not undress. She was afraid, and she admitted that she was afraid, and nothing but Lancaster's desperate need of her would have kept her an hour longer in the institute. But she was exhausted from the day, and soon she was asleep.

She slept that sleep which brings no recreation for the jaded body or the overwrought mind. All the while she was back with Lancaster in his room below, in spirit. She knew that, as he had said, the drug bondage was only the climax of his difficulties. What had there been that had wrecked the man? Jenkins' hint at stolen funds? Of one thing she was sure: Lancaster, sunken as he was, was incapable of dishonesty. No, she must have placed a wrong construction on Jenkins' words.

And in her sleep her brain went on puzzling over the problem. Only her body was quiescent, and it lay wearily in the bed like some chained captive.

But suddenly the urgent summons of the brain shook from it the trammels of sleep. Joan listened intently, awake upon the instant, as some wild creature of the woods that senses danger. Somebody was coming along the corridor.

The footfalls were so soft and stealthy that she might have thought she was dreaming but for the sense of imminent danger, the knowledge of some malevolent design. The steps stopped and began again, the merest touches of sound against the silence of night, the lightest patter of bare feet outside the door.

Then the door began to open.

There was no moon, and the faint starlight outside only seemed to render darker the obscurity within. Yet, through the darkness Joan knew that a hand lay on the door jamb, and that a figure watched her across the room.

She leaped from her bed. "Who's there?" she called, in tones that seemed to shock the silence.

She could see nothing now, and she dared not turn aside to light her lamp. She knew that the figure was crouching somewhere. She heard the softest breathing, but could not locate it in the room. She felt the atmosphere of evil that surrounded her. She started to cross the room, groping, with arms outstretched. Then she found the intruder and flung herself upon it.

Joan thought it was a woman's hands she held. Her fingers sought the menace in the closed fists. The left hand of the intruder was empty; but in the right was a jagged piece of a broken tumbler that tinkled to the floor.

As it fell, the other leaped at her as if strung upon wires. Joan saw, very dimly, the face of Mrs. Dana. She was in her nightdress, with her feet bare, and the ferocity of her attack seemed atrocious in contrast with the expressionless, masklike features. Only the eyes seemed alive, and they burned with implacable hatred, as if they meditated revenge for all the accumulation of a life's wrongs.

The woman bore Joan backward. The lamp fell crashing to the floor in a debacle of splintered glass. A chair was overturned. Mrs. Dana's hands sought Joan's throat, and they struggled in the darkness, crashing here and there, upsetting the water pitcher, smashing into the swinging door. Underneath her Joan heard Mrs. Fraser moving, and doors opening. There were steps on the stairs.

For a few moments Joan felt no match for the onset of the madwoman. But Mrs. Dana's impulse was soon exhausted. Joan got her arms about her body, pressing down the other's arms to her sides. Mrs. Dana suddenly became passive, and the lights in the eyes seemed to go out like extinguished candles as the brain clouded. Joan got the woman into the corridor. At the farther end a little lamp was burning.

Mrs. Dana went with her quietly, walking like a mechanical figure. At the head of the stairs appeared the matron, wearing a white wrapper. Behind her Joan saw the startled faces of Myers and Lancaster.

"Did she hurt you?" she gasped. "How did she get out? Who let her out? I should have told you she was dangerous, but I never dreamed that she could pick that lock. Did she—did she try to harm you?"

"She had a piece of glass," said Joan, "but I took it away from her."

"There was no glass in her room last evening," said the matron with conviction.

Lancaster was approaching. Joan was astounded to see the look of anger on his face. "Who opened that door?" he shouted.

"It's all right now, Doctor Lancaster," came the matron's voice from within.

But Lancaster was shaking with excitement. He swung round upon Myers.

"You are responsible for this!" he cried. "You know my one point that has to be carried out. I told you to have a bolt put on the door after she got out before."

"Now, now, doctor, don't excite yourself," said the secretary soothingly. "You're a sick man, you know. It was unfortunate, but I'll see it doesn't happen again."

Health Hints by the Father of Physical Culture

BERNARR MACFADDEN

Where the strength is limited massage will enable one to ge much of the same benefit that i acquired in ordinary muscular ef fort. Therefore a little massag on going to bed, on arising, or a any time that one may feel like it will be beneficial. One may us cocoa butter, or olive oil, in con nection with it, but this is chiefl for its effect upon the skin itself if it is dry. One really does not nee anything but the bare hands.

If one can enjoy the services o a professional masseur, that wil simplify matters. Sometime another member of the family who is "handy" in such things may be available. If no such assistance is to be had, it is still possible for one to administer self-massage. You need not be an expert in order to get results, although it is always, best to understand the fundamental principles. For instance, to improve the circulation it is desirable that the blood in the veins should be helped on its way to the heart. For this reason, where the limbs are concerned, it is advisable always to make all massage movements upward toward the heart.

Where the legs are concerned it is well that they should be elevated while the subject lies on his back, for this position will naturally help the drainage of the blood in the veins, through the force of gravity. This in itself, is restful.

The chief types of massage movements consist of stroking kneading, circular movements tapping, or percussion and vibration. The technical names for these general types of massage are Effleurage, including the stroking movements; Petrissage, including the kneading movements; Friction, as the circular movements are called; Tapotement, applied to the tapping or percussion movements; and Vibration, which is self-explanatory. Vibration is largely applied by mechanical devices that impart a shaking or vibratory impulse, but it may be applied by the hands.

Effleurage, or stroking is applied chiefly to the surface tissues, though a certain quality of kneading may be imparted to it by the application of sufficient pressure. The stroking movements are very nerve soothing.

Petrissage is more effective for the deeper tissues.

DOWN AND OUT MOTHER COMES BACK; SURPRISES ENTIRE FAMILY

She had worked, loved and was happy in doing for her children, and when she started to decline they were most downhearted and willing to do almost anything to make her last years happy and free from worry and illness. Nothing they did seemed to help—doctors, medicines or rest gave no results.

Finally, when all were about desperate with worry a neighbor induced them to try Kath, as it had worked such wonders with her mother. Ready to grasp at any help they got a supply and the way their mother improved from the start was almost too good to believe. It was only about six weeks before she had completely recovered and was doing her housework, happy and contented, as of old. It sure was a happy and reunited family and they are all recommending Kath to their friends now.

Doctors the world over will tell you that Kath, composed of fresh extracts of Glands, Phosphates, Iron and Herbs, will build up and restore strength and energy against old age and nervous breakdowns. One of our leading physicians says:

"The results I have obtained with Kath gland tonic have been wonderful; especially with elderly men and women where it was necessary to build up strength and revive bodily functions, Kath has given them renewed youth, life, strength and health."

"No one should despair or even think of giving up when they can build themselves up to healthy, vigorous womanhood and manhood and regain their strength, happiness and youthful appearance with only a few weeks' use of Kath."

Note—Kath is a scientific combination of the extracts of fresh, organic glands, vitamins, roots and herbs. Kath will both stimulate and enrich the glands, and organs to supply a greatly increased supply of nerve force and vitality.

Any one who, after a few weeks' use of Kath, does not feel better and look better in every way, can get their money back.

NEW JOBE STORE ONE OF HANDSOMEST IN SECTION

HOUSEWARMING WILL OPEN BEAUTIFUL NEW STRUCTURE TO PUBLIC

One of the handsomest dry goods stores to be found in any city of this size in the state will formally open to the public Thursday morning, November 13 when the Jobe Bros. store, East Main Street will receive its patrons and friends at a "housewarming" after a campaign of extensive remodeling covering a period of six months.

The store throughout is a splendid example of art as applied to a modern commercial home. The practical, every day needs of the business are provided for with fixtures that are attractive in every detail.

The entire front of the store has been re-surfaced with Grey Bedford stone following the Italian rennaisance style of architecture, with iron grills that outline the bases of the long casement windows. The effect is simple, dignified and highly artistic. The two large show windows which flank either side of the deep entrance are finished with natural caen stone and have hardwood floors. The French doors in the rear of each window are draped with velvet hangings that add a rich note to the window decorations. A large marquise over the entrance is finished with hand cut glass prisms and incandescent lights and forms a decorative feature that is in harmony with the architecture of the building.

The inside of the store has been changed extensively. The brick wall which formerly divided the building has been removed from basement to roof and a new steel structure put in. Large square pillars support the structure on both lower and upper floors and add a note of substantial dignity to the spacious rooms, formed by the removal of the wall. Practically all new fixtures have been installed on the first floor. The show cases and wall shelving are all of mahogany and are of the newest type. New long glass cases give ample room for the effective display of fancy merchandise. The elevator and stairway have been removed from the west side to the east side of the building and a new Otis elevator installed. A wide stairway, finished with brown mahogany has been put in near the elevator shaft and extends to the top of the building. The stock in the rear of the first floor has been changed, the shoe department moved from the west to the east side while the domestics and bedding have been changed to the rear of the west side. The offices in the rear of the first floor have been entirely refinished.

The second floor has been entirely re-arranged. The ready to wear department occupies the entire front section of the room giving it three times the floor space it formerly occupied. Back of it on the east side is the infant department and on the west side is the millinery department and millinery work rooms. In the rear of the second floor is a large rest room which has been most invitingly fitted up for the convenience of the public, with couches, easy chairs, writing desks and other equipment. The walls of the second floor have been redecorated in a soft cream shade, the entire floor space has been covered with deep pile Wilton velvet carpet in a taupe shade, and the long casement windows are shaded with Austrian puffed curtains of pongee silk. Handsome new mahogany show cases have been installed and new long, alcove mirrors allow the customer complete view of the garments being tried. Several ample sized try-on rooms, fitted with large mirrors, are features of the ready-to-wear department. The ready-to-wear alteration room extends along the east wall near the elevator.

The third floor, now used as a stock room, has been attractively finished and can at any time be converted into a sales department. A Lamson Pneumatic Tube System is used to handle the sales for the entire store. A new basement has been put in under the entire building with entrance for freight in the rear. The store is heated with an American Radiation steam heating plant installed by Phillip Jordan and Son, local plumbers. The plant is the latest improved model with relief valves that keeps the heat always uniform.

Pretzinger and Musselman, Dayton architects, conceived, planned and supervised the construction of the handsome new building, under the personal direction of E. P. Musselman. Thus the departure from the usual style of commercial architecture has made the structure a thing of beauty as well as an efficiently arranged and commodious home for the store. Its exterior beauty is a big contribution to the attractiveness of Xenia's business center.

Jeffryes and Fudge, Xenia, general contractors, created the magical transformation in the building. Under their direction the shell of the old store was torn away to make room for the new . Heaton and Schweibold, had charge of the brick and the stone work, setting the handsome stones that form the front of the building. George McDonnell, stone contractor, carved the stones according to the original designs that carry out the architectural style.

Ed Thurman, Xenia, painter and decorator, added the inside touches that make the interior attractive. Roy Bayliff, Xenia electrical contractor, added the new wiring and handsome lighting fixtures. George Behm and son, Dayton, were the plate glass contractors, setting the big display windows in the new-style ornamental display framer. The Champion Bridge Company, Wilmington, furnished and installed the structural iron that formed the skeleton on which the new store was built.

Charles Wuichet and Son, Dayton, furnished and installed the metal work and roofing and the Bedford stone from which the front was constructed, was quarried by the National Stone Company, at Bloomington, Ind. John G. Pool, Dayton, furnished the ornamental iron work that added a last touch of beauty to the exterior and A. K. Musselman, Dayton, was the plasterer.

George Dodds and Sons, Xenia, furnished beautiful ornamental bronze nameplates. The Grand Rapids Show Case Company, Grand Rapids, Mich., supplied handsome new display fixtures for the interior. The Otis Elevator Company, Cincinnati, Ohio, added a new and improved style elevator. The Lamson Company, Cincinnati put in a modern tube change system. The Weiffenbach Marble and Tile Company, Dayton, furnished the handsome marble work.

The Schachne Studios, Dayton, supplied the beautiful draperies that add the beauty of the interior. The Dayton Lumber and Manufacturing Company, Dayton and the F. A. Requarth Company, Dayton, supplied the mill work and the building lumber was furnished by the Greene County Lumber Company, and the McDowell and Torrence Lumber Company, both of Xenia. Finishing hardware was obtained from the J. B. Schroder Company, Cincinnati, O.

Late James L.M'Gervey Is Given Tribute By C.L.Jobe

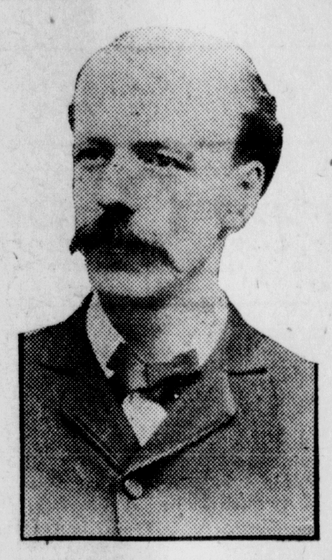
The personnel of the Jobe Bros. store has always been locally noted for efficiency, quiet courtesy and cordiality, but perhaps no other one person connected with the organization has been so universally esteemed for these characteristics as was the late James L. McGervey who for years was associated with Mr. Jobe in business, first as an instructor in the days when Mr. Jobe was beginning his career as a clerk in the E. Millen and Co. store on Green Street and later as a valued employee in the Jobe Bros. store.

For twenty years Mr. McGervey was in charge of the yard goods department of the store and his genial courtesy and unfailing kindliness brought hundreds of customers to the store. As a business advisor he was highly valuable and his services are recalled by Mr. Jobe with a feeling of warm veneration and friendship. In speaking of the large part which Mr. McGervey had taken in the development of the business of the store Mr. Jobe said:

"I never knew another man quite like him. He was a real prince in character. His life was bound up in his home, his church and his business. His wonderful personality meant much to this store. I gratefully acknowledge my debt to him and feel that a history of this store would be incomplete without a tribute to the man whose life was so closely connected with it."



James L. McGervey

Mr. McGervey, who was a member of one of the most prominent of the older families of the city, was active in church and social affairs and was widely known throughout the community. He died in March 1908.

ELEAZER

MONEY AT WORK

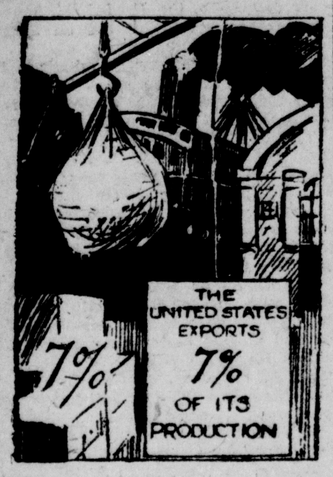
Other but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments



Just how much does the United States export?

To give figures in dollars and cents or in tons and bushels for the amount this nation exports would be foolish because it would not furnish a proper basis for comparison, in such a short article as this. Taking all of the exports of the United States together, it is found that the nation exports about 7 per cent of its total production.

Anything very much above this figure will start a wave of prosperity and anything very much below that used to start a depression. Much of this depression due to a lack of foreign trade is on the road to being eliminated as the United States and Canada offer such enormous markets that this extra exportable 7 per cent can probably be sold and used to good purpose without exporting.

Of course, this 7 per cent figure will not do for any one commodity. It is a figure based on all commodities. For example, in normal years the United States sells about 25 per cent of its wheat crop abroad.

BREAKING UP THE ATOM NOW SEEMS LIKELY TO SCIENCE

London, Nov. 11 The breaking up of the atom and the control of resultant energy, mightiest dream of modern science, is about to be realizd.

That, at least, is the prediction of Dr. T. F. Wall, of Sheffield University who for the last six months has been experimenting with the "death ray" machine with which he now believes he will be able to direct such a tremendous amount of electrical energy upon a small amount of matter that the atom will be broken up.

Already he has been able to project almost 700,000 horsepower of electrical energy upon a small object, and he expects exciting results when he is able to increase this amount.

Dr. Wall is working carefully and fearfully. The power so generated can be kept on for only a few seconds after which it is necessary to let the apparatus cool off. Dr. Wall fears that the generation of still more power may result in an explosion which will blow up the entire university, of which the laboratory is a part. For that reason he is proceeding cautiously.

If the energy released by the breaking up of the atom can be controlled startling results may be expected. Sir Oliver Lodge once expressed the opinion that th energy stored in one ounce of matter, if it could be used mechanically, would be sufficient to raise the entire sunken German fleet from the North Sea bed and pile it on top of a Scottism mountain.

There are skeptics who declare the atom will never be broken up but Dr. Wall works serenely on hopeful of announcing a successful completion of his work in the near future.

XENIANS GOT THEIR NEWS IN CONDENSED FORM IN YEAR 1888

Since Xenians were placed in touch with events in Congress, the House, the Senate, domestic, foreign, personal and political, once a week, the weekly issue of the Xenia Republican gave the news of the week to its readers in condensed form.

During the week of February 7, 1888, the week that saw the inauguration of Jobe Brothers Store at Main and Whiteman Streets, the following events of interest took place:

Congress: The House bill making appropirations in carry into effect the law establishing expermental stations at the agricultural college was reported from the Committee on Appropriations and passed; in the House a bill was passed to prevent aliens from pre-empting and entering homesteads, to place salt upon the free list; and to abolish the tax on oleomargarine.

Domestic: Earthquake shocks were felt in many places in Main, New Hampshire and Vermont on the morning of the first, no damage reported; the stock of every wholesale liquor dealer in Des Moines, Ia., was seized on the first under decision ruling that permits to sell liquor for legal purposes can be used only by persons to whom they are issued; Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, has issued a circular addressed to "working men and sympathizers of the laborers" reminding them that Milwaukee beer is made by non-union men and advising them to act accordingly; business failures occuring throughout the country during the seven days ending February 3 number for the United States 247 and for Canada 32 a total of 279 as compared with a total of 317 the previous week.

ADVERTISING PAID THIR TY SIX YEARS AGO FILES OF PAPER SHOW -MANY FIRMS SURVIVE

Xenia merchants have evidently learned the lesson "It pays to advertise."

Glancing through the newspaper files of thirty-six years ago, this among many other interesting facts, is brought to the attention of the reader. News of that day was scarce and briefly told, if any. The advertisers of that day have been marked with business success until the present, among the business houses that have survived the years.

The pages recording the events of 1888 throw back a vision of the Xenia of yesteryear. Through the advertisements of that day, we learn that Jones, Spahr and Company was among the drug firms of the city.

Moore and Broadstone, undertakers and embalmers were located on East Market Street.

W. H. Sillito, who now has a dental office in the Steele Building was a member of the firm of Watt and Sillito,, dentists in an office over the Second National Bank Building.

At that time, the Fred J. H. Schell jewelry store was located on South Detroit Street.

Fulton and Thompson, dealers in men's furnishings were located on East Main Street, and advertised the latest thing in men's apparel.

The day of old Dobbin was at its crest then and the J. H. Kyle livery stable on North Whiteman Street, was doing a thriving business.

The Chandler Brothers Coal Company was located on South Detroit Street. William Keller cabinet maker, had a shop in the rear of Joshua Wolf's Hardware Store.

W. A. Simons and Company sold coal, lime, cement, hair and plaster at the Harbine Corn Exchange.

TRACTION COMPANY WANTS TO ABANDON CITY CAR SERVICE

Nothing of importance is scheduled to transpire at the City Commission meeting Thursday night at the City Hall outside of possible discussion of the new traffic ordinance recently given its second reading by the commission, it is said.

Amendments may possibly be made to the ordinance it was declared by City Manager S. O. Hale, in the clause pertaining to main "thoroughfares." The state law regarding main thoroughfares, provides that all intercounty highways, main market roads andstreets with traction lines, be accorded the title of main thoroughfares.

It is the concensus of opinion among the commissioners, it is said, that the state law be followed in the new ordinance regarding main thoroughfares, instead of having everal main streets be termed as such.

If the latter was the case, it would mean that every small intersecting street would have to be supplied with signs, at the intersection , with the words "stop" printed upon them, according to the state law.

Another question that may be discussed, is the application of the Dayton, Springfield and Xenia Southern Railway Company, for a new franchise, although it is not thought likely that there will be much discussion as no ordinance has been drawn up.

The old franchise of the traction company, in use for the last twenty years, expired about October 1, it was said. And the application for a new one contains several new clauses.

According to officials of the company, the city car line running from the heart of the city, to the O. S. and S. O. Home and on East Main Street to the end of the street, has been unprofitable.

With this inmindfi the application asks for authorization to remove the tracks on South Detroit Street, but leave the tracks on East Main Street and discontinue the service of both lines, retaining enough track on South Detroit Street to let the Dayton-Xenia car turn around.

OHIO CORN CLUB MAY GET NO NEW MEMBERS OFFICIALS DECLARE

Honors in corn growing, as measured by members in the Ohio 100-Bushel Corn Club, are going to be few and for between this year. So far with most of the membership applications in and the fields measured, no one has qualified.

This is the report of Wallace E. Hanger, farm crops extension specialist at the Ohio State University and in charge of the corn club since its foundation in 1917. The club requires that each applicant for membership grow 100 bushels of corn an acre on a 10 acre field. The state average is about 40 bushels an acre.

Little more than half of the 42 entries this year have as yet been checked up by the department, but from the results already obtained and the low yield of corn in general Mr. Hanger doubts whether there will be any new members added to the list this year. The highest yields so far have not exceeded 95 bushels per acre, wth the average near 80.

Since the first entries in 1917 there have been 42 different men in Ohio who have grown 100 bushels of corn or more per acre. In 19[illegible] there was only one new member added with an average yield of 101.93 bushels per acre. Eighteen men became members in 1920, the top man growing 123.24 bushels per acre in 1922, only seven new members, but one man of the seven grew 134.31 bushels per acre, making a state and world record.

Mad Dog Bites Children.

HERE IS JOBE BROS. STORE AND EMPLOYEES IN 1890

This picture was taken of the Jobe Bros. store in 1890, shortly after the store had moved to its present location although only occupying the west half of the building now used. The photo shows employes grouped in front of the store. They are, left to right: Ed. Marshall, Miss Julia Schweibold, Miss Nettie Buck, J. Rylie Jobe, Miss Florence Bowers and Miss Sallie Sanders.

CHICKENS $2.50 DOZEN IN 1888!

"Chickens, per dozen, dressed, $2.50."

Eggs were twenty cents a dozen. Lard was eight cents a pound, and sides of bacon were the same price.

Potatoes sold for $1.00 per bushel, butter twenty cents a pound. These prices were quoted by A. M. Stark, local dealer.

Heller and Company quoted wheat at eighty-cents, oats, thirty-four; corn, forty-seven; rye, forty-eight; and cloverseed, four dollars per bushel. Timothy seed was $2.60 per bushel and hay was $12.00 per ton. Corn meal was sixty cents per bushel.

Getting Too Fat? Try This—Reduce

People who don't get too fat are the fortunate exception. But if you find the fat accumulating or already cumbersome, you will be wise to follow this suggestion, which is endorsed by thousands of people who know. Ask your druggist for Marmola Prescription Tablets and follow directions. One dollar is the price the world over. Get them from your own druggist or send price direct to Marmola Co., General Motors Bldg., Detroit, Mich. By doing this you will be able to reduce steadily and easily and pleasantly, without starvation diet or tiresome exercise. Start taking them today and get slender. Adv.

BUSINESS CAREER CLIMAXES IN NEW DEPARTMENT STORE

Years of quiet, efficient, wholehearted devotion to business affairs have brought the measure of success which makes possible the handsome business houses which C. L. Jobe, proprietor of Jobe Brothers store, will formally open to the public November, 13.

Mr. Jobe, who was born and reared on a farm near this city, began his business career in the spring of 1878 when he came to this city and accepted a position as clerk in the store of Millen, Jobe and Co., where his uncle, Harvey Jobe, was a member of the firm. As was customary in that day Mr. Jobe's duties were varied and included building the fires and sweeping out the store.

In the sales work he was placed under the instruction of the late James McGervey, who was in charge of the dress goods department of the store. Mr. McGervey was a salesman of exceptional ability and gave the young clerk valuable instruction in merchandising and general business management. After spending a year in the store, Mr. Jobe resigned his position to attend college and was a student for a time at Monmouth College, Monmouth, Ill., and Wooster University, Wooster Ohio. He then took a position with the Hutchison and Gibney Company but in 1885 returned to the store where he held his first position. His uncle had in the mean time, retired from the firm which had been re-organized as Millen and Co., located in a room at Green and Market Streets.

James McGervey was practically manager of the store until 1887 when Mr. Millen retired from business and closed out the store.

Mr. Jobe then formed a business partnership with H. C. Hardy of Columbus, and February 1, 1888 opened store in the room at Main and Whiteman Streets, where the Orpheum Theater is now located. Mr. McGervey went with Mr. Jobe in his first business venture and had charge of the yard goods department, a position that he held throughout the remainder of his life. The other persons who made up the first store personnel were Miss Rose Gahagen, J. Rylie Jobe, Miss Lou Spahr, Miss Nellie Haines and Miss Maud Matthews.

In August 1890 the store was moved to what was known as the Allison and Townsley room in the building which the firm now occupies. The room comprised the west half of the present store room In March 1891 J. Rylie Jobe, bought out the interests of Mr. Hardy and become a partner with his brother under the firm name of Jobe Brothers and Company. The partnership was a most congenial one and continued successfully until it was terminated by the death of Rylie Jobe which occurred September 20 1910.

The growing business of the firm soon made the one room in which the store was located inadequate to handle the trade, so in 1907 the firm rented the store room adjoining on the east, that had been occupied by the firm of Alexander and Spahr. The removal of part of the wall between the two rooms in the front and rear gave the firm the use of both rooms. In 1917 C. L. Jobe purchased the buildings, which have just been so extensively remodeled.

From time to time the firm has added or discarded different departments, until today, the store is a complete woman's ready to wear department store. In 1894 the millinery department was installed and the carpets and floor coverings department was discontinued. In March, 1899 the shoe department was installed. The store now offers opportunity for women to be completely outfitted without having to go outside the building for a single article.

Since the death of his brother in 1910 Mr. Jobe has conducted the business alone. In 1916 he made his son-in-law Karl Bloom assistant manager. Miss Florence Swan is the efficient auditor and credit manager and has rendered highly valuable service in the affairs of the store. Mr. Jobe has the hearty cooperation of a loyal organization and is looking forward to greatly enlarged opportunity for service in the more modernly equipped remodeled store.

MARRIAGE TAKES PLACE AT PARSONAGE

Miss Goldie M. Cox, of Gladsone and Mr. James D. Hyland, of Buffalo, N. Y. were married at the parsonage of Trinity M. E. Church, the Rev. V. F. Brown officiating, Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

The couple was unattended. The bride wore a gown of dark blue silk with hat to match. Mrs. Hyland has been teaching school at South Solon, Ohio.

Mr. Clifford Hagler, East Third Street, underwent a tonsilectomy operation at the offices of Drs. Madden and Shields, Saturday.

Mrs. Walter R. Harner and daughter Jane spent the week end with Mrs. Harner's mother, in Circleville.

HEALING CREAM IS QUICK RELIEF FOR HEAD COLDS

Colds and catarrh yield like magic to soothing, healing antiseptic cream that penetrates through every air passages and relieves swollen inflamed membranes of nose and throat. Your clogged nostrils open right up and you can breathe freely. Hawking and snuffling stop. Don't stay stuffed up and miserable.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist. Apply a little in the nostrils and get intant relief. Millions endorse this remedy known for more than fifty years.

Kids for Kiddies

For the growing child, there should be only one leather, and that is kid. This leather is soft, pliable and flexible, and yields to the slightest pressure. It permits perfect ventilation because of its porous quality, and it contracts and expands with the foot.

Kid clings to the foot as a kid glove to the hand, and because it can be made into graceful, good-looking shoes, it has been accepted as the fashionable thing by the very young set. Black or brown kid for simple little dresses; white for the more elaborate garden-party frocks of mid-summer. The one-strap, square-toed shoe is attractive and very popular; the Colonial slipper is always in favor as a dress shoe

AUTO CLUB ISSUES WARNING AGAINST BOGUS CHECK MEN

A warning has been issued to Xenia tire, accessory and gasoline dealers to take the utmost precautions in receiving large checks for small purchases, by the Greene County Automobile Club. According to the Auto Club, attention is being called to officials of the operation of a swindle game, being practiced in all sections of the state.

According to club officials, the scheme is to purchase a tire or gasoline, present a large check, the amount being larger than the purchase price, and receive in addition to the purchased article, a quantity of change. A number of bogus checks have been issued throughout the state signed by H. Kelly officials of the club say.

MOTORISTS OBSERVE PARKING ORDINANCE

As a result of action taken by the officials of the Greene County Automobile Club, in asking City Manager S. O. Hale to have the old parking law enforced, and the willing co-operation of the police in enforcing the ordinance, there was little or no violation of the rule Saturday night, it was said Monday.

The parking ordinance passed in 1915 by the old city council, declared that machines shall not park back of vehicles already parked, unless because of motor trouble, accidents, or intervention of authorities.

Violation of this rule had become a "nuisance" in the city on Saturday especially, according to officials of the Auto Club, and a resolution was passed last week by directors of the club, authorizing Dilver Belden, secretary, to ask that the ordinance be strictly enforced.

Police enforced the ordinance Saturday night, and at 8 o'clock, probably the busiest time in the evening, no machines were noticed parking in violation of the rule.

Fans and Foibles

Now that fans are being carried all the year round they make acceptable gifts, and are surprisingly inexpensive if made at home. The fan here illustrated was made by gluing satin ribbon to a purchased wooden stick foundation. Decorative flower motifs cut from figured satin were attached to the satin with liquid glue.

The dainty little pin cushion was also dressed with ribbon, gathered on the thread of its own selvage and lepaged into place.

COOLIDGE RECEIVES CONGRATULATIONS.

GOLD FROM MERCURY IN TINY GRAINS MADE BY JAP SCIENTISTS

Tokyo, Nov. 11—Japan has produced a Midas, perhaps, in the person of Professor Hantaro Nagaoka, who claims to have discovered a process by which pure gold can be manufactured.

Professor Nagaoka disclosed the success of his experiments to a group of research workers at the Physical and Chemical Laboratory here, and showed a piece of gold he had extracted from another element.

Reaching the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, however, will not appreciably affect the world's money market in this case, it is authoritatively declared. The reason for this lies in the fact that the element from which Professor Nagaoka extracts gold is mercury. And the quantity of mercury is so limited, scientists declare that the amount of gold obtained in this way will have no appreciable effect. The process is known to only a handful of scientists and is being guarded with the utmost secrecy.

This new theory is not like the one by which a German extracted small grains of gold from mercury by means of a mercury lamp. Dr. Nagaoka said the gold extracted by his contemporary was in such small grains that there was no way of testing the method. Apparently the chief advantage of the new method is that a much larger proportion of gold can be separated from a given quantity of mercury. Just what the ratio is has not been stated.

The report which Dr. Nagaoka read to the group of scientists here follows in part:

"Regarding our investigation of the spector rays of the mercury, I, together with Mr. Mishima and Mr. Yoshitkatsu Sugimura, one of my assistants, contributed an article to 'Nature' for March 29 of this year. In that article we held that if our conclusions regarding the composition of the spector rays of mercury were correct, it would follow that alchemy would be within our reach and mercury could be converted into pure gold.

"As for the method of extracting gold, we contended that either the Alpha rays are to be used or some other means must be used for destroying powerful atoms.

"At the time I had already discovered the theory of the method for extracting gold from mercury.

"We did not resort to a mercury lamp or use the Alpha rays. We started on the supposition that part of the given quantity of mercury could be converted into gold by driving out the hydrogen from the metal. After trying various methods for driving the hydrogen out we at last succeeded in converting part of the mercury into gold.

According to Professor Nagaoka the method might perhaps be aplied to other elements which would likewise show various changes.

"The conception of chemical elements is shaken from its foundation," he said, "and the effect is of grave consequence to the present day chemistry and physics. Probably many hitherto unknown metal elements will be produced artificially. The experiment is but a stepping stone to further research for adding new knowledge and for elucidating many difficult problems concerning the atoms."

AUTOMOBILE DEATHS SHOW BIG INCREASE IN 1923 SAYS REPORT

Washington, Nov. 11 During the year 923 more than 22,620 people lost their lives in highway accidents in the United States, the Department of Commerce announced recently. The figure represents an increase of 3,418 over the number of fatalities which occurred in 1922.

This increase, the Department stated, was due largely to the increase of 2,776 deaths from highway accidents, which were recorded as automobile accidents. Even the total number of fatalities from automobile accidents does not tell the complete story. Deaths resulting from collisions between automobiles and railroad trains and street cars were charged under the heading of heavier vehicles.

According to the Department's estimates approximately 21 people out of every 100,000 population lost their lives in highway accidents in 1923 as compared with 18 in 1922.

Collisions between vehicles heavier than automobiles caused the death of 2,000 people in 1923, the Department states and is an extremely conservative estimate. If to this figure be added the fatalities which occurred from automobile and motorcycle collisions, the final 1923 death toll from motor propelled machines on the highways of the United States becomes 18,788, or 83 per cent of the total number of highway fatalities.

Of these highway accidents 2,265 people were killed at railroad crossings during 1923 as against 1,810 in 1922, the Department's announcement stated.

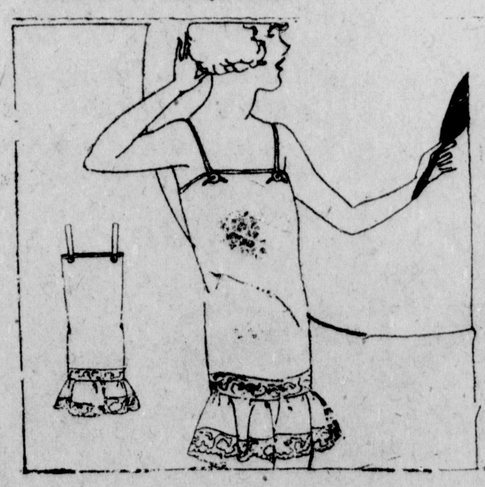
MODISH MITZI—Choose Underwear According to Outerwear

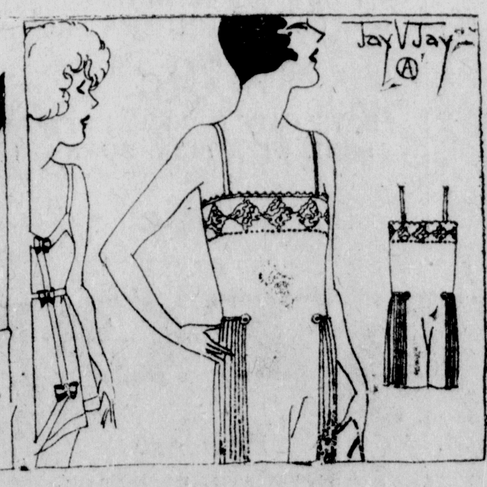
By Jay V. Jay

Polly is going to wear a little high waisted Empire dress so she is preparing for it by slipping on this high waisted one piece combination. Fashion calls for so few clothes that those few must be perfect else the silhouette is utterly ruined.

This very simple one piece combination is admirably adapted to the united waistline. Adelaide will wear a very loose dress over it. It would be simple to make for it is just two pieces of crepe de chine bordered with wide lace.



Polly would wear this "comby" with the flounce and no waist line at all if she were going to put on one of the new flounce tunic blouses. The full ruffle forms the pantaloons.



Mitzi wears a combination which gives the flat front and back effect. It is very good to wear with street clothes. It makes one very slim and tailored looking. It means so much to have one's waistline right, that is, if you are wearing one!

Women Aped Male Attire When Jobe Store was Mere Infant 1888 Paper Shows

Hear ye! Flappers and Twentieth Century folks who have secretly prayed for a well founded come-back to the expressions of horror of the fashions and "goings-on" of today!

To you who want to "show 'em" that the morals of today did not start down the path with the entrance of the movie and naughty literature, here's your answer. For it has been proved that the mothers of the boys and girls of today were subject to the same criticisms that are the bane of the young people of today.

Mother and Dad will probably remember Dr. Talmadge as the "Billy Sunday" of thirty-six years ago. He had his opinions of the evils of that day, and he expressed them loud and long. Here are a few exerpts from his sermon, "Domination of Fashion."

"The man or woman who does not regard fashion is unfit for a good neighborhood," declared Dr. Talmadge. His text was taken from Deut. XXII.5: "The woman shall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man, neither shall a man put on a woman's garment; for all that do so are abomination unto the Lord thy God."

"What a sickening thing it is to see a man copying the speech, the walk, the manner of a woman. The trouble is that they do not imitate a sensible woman, but some female imbecile. O man, be a man! You belong to quite a respectable sex," said the minister.

"Alike repugnant are masculine women. They copy man's stalking gait, and go down the street with the stride of a walking beam. They wish they could smoke cigarettes and some of them do."

There, flappers, tell that to those who say, "Things were never like this when I was a girl!"

Dr. Talmadge goes on to say: "They talk boisterously and try to sing bass. They do not laugh—they roar. They cannot quite manage the broad profanity of the sex they rival, but their conversation is a half swear, and if they said, "O Lord" in earnest prayer as often as they say it in lightness, they would be high up in sainthood.

"Withal there is an assumed rugosity of apparel and they wear a man's hat, only changed by being in two or three pieces smashed in and a dead canary clinging to the general wreck, and a man's coat tucked in here and there, according to an unaccountable esthetics. O woman, stay a woman! You also belong to a very respectable sex.

"My text also sanctions fashion. Indeed, it sets the fashion. There is a great deal of senseless cant on the subject of fashion. A woman or man who does not regard it is unfit for a good neighborhood. The only question is: What is right fashion and what is wrong fashion?

"Before I stop I want to show you that fashion has been one of the most potent of reformers and one of the vilest of usurpers. Sometimes it has been an angel from heaven and at others it has been the mother of abominations. As the world grows better there will be as much fashion as now but it will be a righteous fashion. In the future life white robes have been and always will be in the fashion.

"Truth, honor, charity, heroism, self sacrifice should win highest favor. But unordinate fashion says: 'Count not a woman's virtues, count her adornments. Look not at the contour of her head but see the way she combs her haid. Ask not what noble deeds have been accomplished by that man's hand but is it white and soft. Ask not what good sense is in her conversation but in what was she dressed. Ask not what there was hospitality and cheerfulness in the house, but in what style do they live.'

"Wrong fashion is productive of a most ruinous life. The weapons used in the warfare of social life are not Minnie rifles and Dahlgren guns and Hotchkiss shells, but chair and mirrors and vases and Gobelins and Axminsters.

"Few people are really natural and unaffected. When I say this I do not mean to sear cultured manners. From many circles in life fashion has driven out vivacity and enthusiasm. A frozen dignity instead floats about the room and iceberg grind against iceberg. You must not laugh outright—it is vulgar. You must smile. You must not dance rapidly across the room—you must glide. There's a round of bows and grins and flatteries and ohs and ahs and simperings and namby-pambyisms, a world which is not worth one good round honest peal of laughter. From such a hollow round the tortured guest retires at the close of the evening and assures his host that he has enjoyed himself.

"About twenty years ago I began to pray that God would open to me the opportunity of preaching through the secular newspaper press and in a strange way the answer came," said Dr. Talmadge at the opening of his sermon.

BUSTLE WAS POPULAR

When C. L. Jobe started his career in the drygoods business, styles were in sharp contrast to the simple, comfortable, styles of the present day. The bustle was at the height of its popularity and tight basques gave the hourglass effect. Tiny bonnets, scarcely larger than a man's hand, were the last word in millinery styles and were fastened under the chin with long velvet ties.

WESTERN OHIO AS RICH AN AGRICULTURAL SECTION IN U. S. TELEPHONE SURVEY SHOWS

The Western Agricultural Region of Ohio, embracing Greene and thirty-five other counties or about one-third of the state, is as rich a farming country as there is in the United States, according to the conclusions drawn from an economic survey just completed by the Ohio Bell Telephone Company after more than a year of study.

Excerpts from the report of this survey have just been obtained by H. W. Cleaver, the company's commercial manager here. The survey, which is most exhaustive in its scope, is one which is undertaken at regular intervals by the telephone company to supply the basis of its plans to meet the expansion problems of the future.

It places thirty-six counties in the western Agricultural Region, or about one-third of the State. The rest of the state is divided into the Central Agricultural Region, the Northeastern Industrial Region, the Coal Region, the Scioto Region and the Southwestern Industrial Region.

Xenia is in the western Agricultural Region.

"The Western Agricultural Region embracing thirty-six counties, or about one-third of the state, is so homogeneous that further division is not justified," the Ohio Bell survey report states. "The natural line extending from Sandusky south through Columbus to the Ohio river forms the boundary between this region and the Central Agricultural Region. On the south it merges into the Scioto and the Southwestern Industrial Regions.

"Throughout the whole area agriculture must be considered the principal industry. Most of the cities are distributing centers for the surrounding country, rather than manufacturing centers, like the cities in the northeastern district.

"Throughout the whole area agriculture must be considered the principal industry. Most of the cities are distributing centers for thes urrounding country, rather than manufacturing centers, like the cities in the northeastern district.

"The mineral products of this district are confined to oil found in the Lima-Indiana field extending from Mercer to Ottawa County and lime in the vicinity of Springfield, and also around Marion and Freemont.

"Toledo is the largest city in the Western Agricultural Region and is one of the most important ports on the Great Lakes, having an excellent natural harbor, and better railroad facilities than any other lake city except Chicago.

"The western part of Ohio is about as rich a farming country as there is inthe United States. Corn is the principal crop and over half the state's supply is grown in the Western Agricultural region. About half of the wheat and more than a third of the hay in the state comes from these thirty-six counties.

"About half the value of live stock in the state is furnished by this district, hogs being the most important item. From every standpoint, as indicated by the value of products per acre, and price of land, this is the best farming land in the state. Its superiority is even greater than is evident from the statistics. The black soil in the northern third of the region left by the glacial lake is of the highest fertility and should produce even larger crops than it does. With proper drainage and application of more scientific methods of farming, it should become richer.

"If a line were drawn from the northern part of Darke County, southeast through Columbus, the land within the district and south of that line would constitute the richest agricultural section in the state at present, judged by the value of products. There is every reason for believing it will continue to be as good in the future.

"A regular network of railroads and traction lines covers the whole Western Agricultural Region, giving easy access to all parts of the country and making it possible for the farmer to market his crops without great loss."

Delving into geology, the Ohio Bell survey finds that in the Paleozoic age, the state was split nearly straight down the middle of its back by a line which to this day is moulding the lives of millions of human beings. West of that line is the great agricultural region with a soil as rich as any in the United States—a region of corn, hogs and diversified agriculture.

There are small, but many important cities in the Western Agricultural Region, the survey points out—cities important as distributing centers rather than as industrial ones. East of this line the country is more or less hilly and broken, poorly adapted to agriculture, except in a specialized line. However, it is a region of mines and important industries.

In 1920 Ohio's population was 5,759,394. The telephone company makes the following Ohio predictions for the next three census years:

1930—6,722,000.

1950—8,960,000.

A part of the Ohio Bell Company's $60,000,000 expansion program in the next five years is based on the accuracy of these predictions.

FLYER TRANSFERS FREIGHT BY PLANE

The freight is comprised of supplies which the Illinois fields are badly in need of, it was said. They were to be delivered in from four to five hours after they left Wright Field it was said. By rail, the delivery would take approximately two days.

Thirty-six Years Ago—

The St. George Hotel will be remodeled in the spring. The first floor will be made into business rooms, it i said, and an effort will be made to have the post office moved to that vicinity. There is not much doubt that Henry Sanborn, late of the Depot Hotel and Restaurant will be placed in charge, and if he is, the place will be kept in tip-top shape and run in good style.

The Ohio State Journal admits the great need of additional building at the Soldiers' Orphans' Home near this city, but claims that the Legislature cannot make the appropriations on account of the great scarcity of funds.

Some little talk of another new rope walk at the Harbine Oil Mill.

The ladies of Xenia and Greene County are taking active part in the work of preparations for the Ohio Centennial.

The ceiling of the Police Headquarters has been very appropriately and uniquely decorated.

WORK ON PIKE IS NOW COMPLETED

Work on the berms at the sides of the Yellow Springs Pike and Yellow Springs Street in Clark County was completed Monday noon and the road will be thrown open to traffic, according to an announcement from the county surveyor of Clark County Tuesday.

With the exception of a short section of the pike within the village of Yellow Springs, the highway is now completely paved from Springfield to Xenia.

PEAS

The Eavey Company takes pardonable pride in the exceptionally fine quality of their 1924 crop of peas. They are the first of the season's picking of Wisconsin peas and were grown when weather conditions were just right to produce sweet, tender, fine-flavored peas. Expert canning has preserved all of fresh "just from the garden" taste. They are uniform in size and you will not find any hard, tasteless peas among them. Be particularly careful in buying peas this year. To avoid disappointment always ask for "E" BRAND.

CONGRATULATIONS

THE CHEW PUBLISHING COMPANY extends hearty congratulations and sincere good wishes to the Jobe Brothers Company on the completion of their splendid new business home, which is a demonstration of the enterprise and progressiveness of the firm, and will prove in the years to come, a real asset to the entire community. May the investment made in Xenia for Xenia's upbuilding, be repaid with abundant success.

No other city of the size in the state has more energetic up-to-date, or progressive business men. The many local business firms that have recently remodeled and enlarged their stores, are not only enlarging their own possibilities but are adding to the wealth of the community. A city or community is judged by the public largely by appearance of its business places.

We wish to call the special attention of our readers to the advertising carried in this edition. The fine spirit of co-operation and good-will demonstrated by the local business men is a thing above price. It is an illustration of the new fraternalism which characterizes all big business of the present day.

We urge our readers to give loyal support to these business men whose daily efforts make possible the prosperity which our city enjoys. They have invested their money, their labor and their best thought for the betterment of Xenia and community. Xenia's debt to them can only be paid by the whole-hearted support of the entire community.

TAXATION CUT MADE POSSIBLE BY TREASURY

Officials Shaping Up Tax Reform Program For Year.

Plans Will Slash One Hundred Million Off Revenue

Washington, Nov. 11.—A material cut in taxation will be made possible by the tax reform program drafted by the United States treasury.

It is believed that the program will slash more than $100,000,000 off governmental income for 1926 and yet maintain a few million dollars surplus.

The real drive for tax revision is anticipated at the initial session of the Sixty-ninth congress. Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon, in his annual report to the December congress, however, will deal with the tax situation, making similar recommendations to those partially disregarded at the last session.

Figures compiled at the treasury show that the 1924 revenue act cut government income $470,000,000 this calendar year; $351,000,000 resulted from income tax cuts. In 1925 the government's income will increase about $150,000,000 over 1924, under the present tax act, according to estimates.

The ever-dwindling number of home-seekers moving westward to settle on public lands totaled only 13,886 in the past year, 5,056 fewer than in 1923. Interior department figures give the total area of public lands homesteaded in 1924 as 3,873,172, compared with 5,524,159 in the preceding year.

Acting Secretary of Commerce Stephen B. Davis made the prediction that radio, which played such a prominent part in the presidential campaign just ended, will be so developed during the next four years that voters in 1928 will not only be able to hear the candidates, but see them as well by broadcast movies.

Although Davis believes that there will be few persons within the United States in 1928 who will not hear the broadcast speeches of presidential aspirants, he declared that the old-time political meeting, with its red fire and enthusiasm, will never go into the discard in American politics. "There's got to be something to put the pep and hurrah in the campaign," he added.

Radio's greatest accomplishment of the 1924 campaign is that it has given a maximum number of the voters an opportunity to hear the voices of candidates, and thereby to study their character, personality and ideas, according to Davis.

POLICE SAVE DRY LAW MEN FROM MOB

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 11.—Interference by police last night saved Mayor A. R. Pugh of North College Hill and four of his dry law deputies from a mob at Cheviot, O., where the officers had gone to face trial on assault charges.

The case grew out of a raid under the Crabbe law, folowing which Mrs. Mary Smith, of Dent, O., accused the North College Hill mayor and three deputies; one of them a clergyman of having beaten her. The clergyman is the Rev. L. R. Graham.

As soon as the accused dry raiders appeared in Cheviot for trial, a mob gathered, trying to get at the North College Hill party in the city hall. For four hours the latter were besieged but Cincinnati police rescued them before the mob, numbering a thousand, could execute plans to burn the city hall to get the dry raiders.

Appeal to Supreme Court.

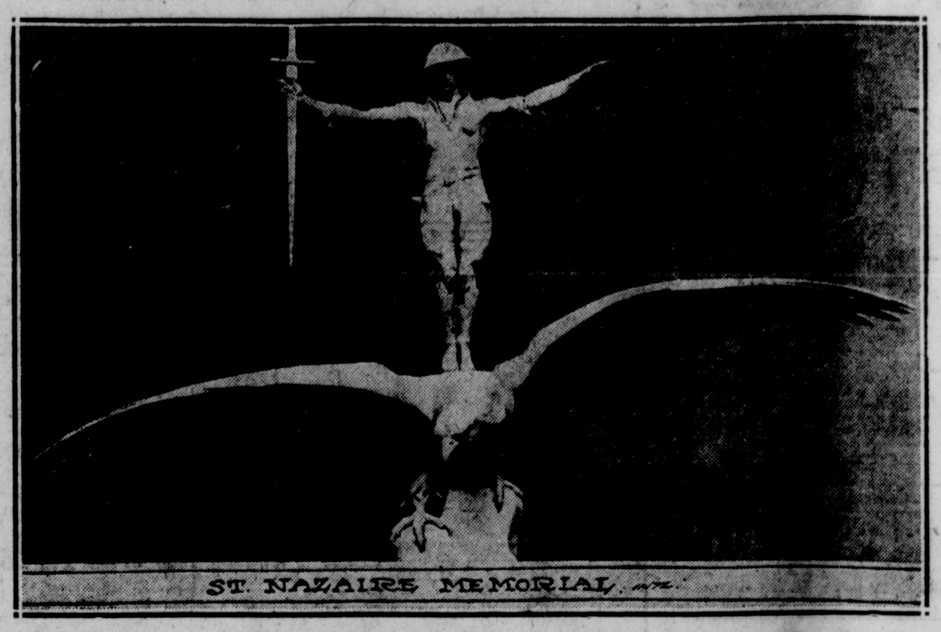
Columbus, Nov. 11.—The Northern Ohio Traction and Light company appealed to the supreme court from the ruling of the utilities commission that the Akron-Lakemore bus line could operate a system of jitney buses within the city limits of Akron under its present certificate. Railroad counsel contend the decision of the commission was contrary to law and the evidence. The court granted a stay of execution of the ruling.

MRS. WHITNEY PREPARES WAR MEMORIAL FOR FRANCE.



Above is shown the model of the war memorial designed by Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, wife of the multi-millionaire New York sportsman, to be unveiled June 26, 1926, on the rocks in the harbor of St. Nazaire, France. It is called the "Spirit of the American Eagle," and will be the gift of the American St. Nazaire Society to the French to commemorate the landing of the first American troops at St. Nazaire on June 26 1917.

Battleship Scheduled For Scrapping Under Emulation Order

Washington, Nov. 11.—Secretary of the Navy Wilbur was today served with an order from the District of Columbia supreme court, requiring him to show cause on Friday why he should not be restrained from destroying the battleship Washington, one of the vessels scheduled for scrapping under the naval limitation treaty.

The Washington is enroute to the Virginia capes to serve as a target for naval gunners.

RAILROADS ARE IN PROSPERITY WAVE REPORT INDICATES

Washington, Nov. 11.—The prosperous condition of the nation's railroads, reflected in soaring prices on the stock market, was still further exemplified today by the announcement by the American Railway association that loading of revenue freight continues to be the greatest in history for this season of the year.

During the week ending November 1, the total of cars loaded was 1,073,430, a great increase over corresponding weeks in previous years.

With two months of 1924 still to be accounted for, 41,156,593 cars have been loaded with revenue freight by American railroads this year, this record for ten months being almost equal to the twelve months of previous years.

SPANISH PLOT HAS BEEN SUPPRESSED

Barcelona, Spain, Nov. 11.—The revolutionary plot against the Spanish military dictatorship has been suppressed, officials say, with the execution of two anarchists here. Seven other anarchists are held, awaiting sentence, and roundup of suspects continues. One policeman was killed and one wounded in the fighting in which the anarchists were taken.

The outbreak in this city occurred almost simultaneously with other revolutionary movements, all apparently directed against the Spanish government and king.

Parties of Spaniards were arrested at various points on the French border. In each instance they were found to possess arms, and several confessed to a plot to slay Prima De Rivera and others of the directorate. Twenty-two were held at Perpignan, the ancient gateway city between France and Spain. At Vera, a running fight resulted in the death of six revolutionaries and two policemen.

WOMAN SENTENCED ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Bangor, Me., Nov. 11.—Mrs. Laura Patten, church and temperance leader of Machias, was sentenced to two months in jail by Judge Peters in federal court here when she pleaded guilty with her husband and a dozen other men to charges connecting them with a liquor smuggling conspiracy for which seventy four indictments have been issued.

Federal officers say the rum scandal will shake Maine society.

Mrs. Patten has two children. Her husband received a six months' sentence.

Jack London's Daughter Sues for Divorce.

MRS JEAN LONDON ABBOTT

Mrs. Joan London Abbott, of San Francisco, has sued for divorce there from Park Abbott because he objected to the daughter of Jack London, famous novelist, using her maiden name on her writings. She is determined to link her name with that of her father in her literary career.

MOVE TO DIVORCE HEALTH BUREAU FROM POLITICS

Columbus, Nov. 11.—At the opening of the fifth annual conference of Ohio health commissioners a move was started to divorce the Ohio department of health from politics.

Promoters of the movement are determined to seek a revision of the reorganization act, which will take appointment of the director of health out of the hands of the governor and put it back in the hands of a bipartisan board, such as functioned prior to the enactment of the bill.

Director Monger told health commissioners that Governor Donahey "believes with us that this change should be made and will use his efforts to that end." "It was a mistake to have thrown our health system into the spoils class, and I ask you to give us your aid in placing the appointment of the director back into the hands of the public health council," Monger said. "The position of any director of health under our existing law is an intolerable one. A health department is not an individual proposition based on the ideas or personality of a single individual. It is rather a complicated organization of a great number of specialists, each working at his individual problem and all corelated by the director into an efficient and complete whole."

Director Monger rapped part-time health commissioners who employ political influence to obtain their position and then make of it a cynosure. This type of official he branded as "the most despicable slacker in the whole social fabric."

Touching upon the program for the coming year, Director Monger announced that "aside from minor legislaive details we have no legislative program." Creation of machinery to properly administer health laws relating to public parks and tourist camps will be asked, he said, as will also the extension of the force necessary to follow through the "Seal and Safety" campaign.

Dr. E. J. Emerick of the bureau of juvenile research followed Director Monger, with a recapitulation of his plan to district the state and hold periodical mental clinics in every county in an effort to uncover possible delinquents and defectives before they get into difficulties with the law. Mr. Emerick appealed for support of his program and the response he received indicated that a big majority of the health commissioners were in sympathy with his plans.

The conference will continue through Saturday morning.

PROGRESSIVES DECLARE WAIT IS DANGEROUS

"Old Guard" Advises President To Call No Special Met

Washington, Nov. 11.—With the cheers of a Republican victory still echoing in the distance, President Coolidge was confronted today with a first class division of opinion in his party over the question of how soon the administration is going to embark on a program of carrying out its campaign pledges. The congress that was elected on the crest of the Coolidge landslide, cannot meet for more than a year yet, thirteen months to be exact unless Mr. Coolidge calls a special session to convene after March 4, next.

The question has been put up to the president in about this form:

"Can the party afford to wait thirteen months before undertaking to carry out its pledge to business to lower taxes, particularly in the higher brackets, and accomplish the other legislative reforms that it promised to business during the campaign just ended?"

The "old guard" advisers among the president's friends have advised him not to call any special session. Business they contend, is all right and wants nothing so much as to be left alone. They point out for instance, that Judge Elbert H. Gary, head of the steel corporation, recently said in a public speech that the country would be better off if congress went on an extended vacation and stayed there.

On the other hand the Progressively inclined Republicans of the Borah type believe that neither this administration nor any administration can afford to delay thirteen months the attempt to enact its campaign promises into legislation. If it does, this school of thought contends, then the inevitable reaction will set in that will cost the Republican party dearly in the by-elections of 1926—perhaps to the extent of overturning the fairly comfortable majorities which the administration has in both houses of congress.

What happened to the Harding administration is being pointed to as an example. Harding came in on the crest of a landslide too, but the by-elections of 1922 saw the overwhelming Republican majorities wiped out and control of congress placed in the hands of the LaFollette insurgents.

No further reduction of income taxes along the lines of the original Mellon plan, can be expected from the lame duck congress that meets three weeks hence. This congress defeated the Mellon plan once and the influences that defeated it once can do it again, the progressives-conservatives point out. Those influences are LaFollette insurgency.

No immediate decision is in prospect concerning the special session. For the time being, it was said today, the administration will content itself by recommending again to the 68th congress the enactment of the Mellon plan and repeal of the publicity clause affecting income taxes. It is altogether improbable that either can be put through the sixty-eighth congress.

The voice of Wm. M. Butler, of Massachusetts, is expected to play an important part in the president's decision. Butler's appointment to the United States senate to succeed Henry Cabot Lodge is expected to succeed within the next three weeks.

In the senate he is expected to become the chief spokesman for Mr. Coolidge, the liasion officer between the senate and White House.

What Mark Hanna was to McKinley, Butler will be to Coolidge, unless the political observers of the capitol are entirely wrong. Their careers are astonishingly similar.

GOVERNOR TO NAME SUCCESSOR TO LATE SENATOR HENRY CABOT LODGE

LA FOLLETTE PROGRESSIVES, THOUGH LICKED AT POLLS, NOT TO DROP FIGHT IN CONGRESS

Washington, Nov. 11—The LaFollette progressives may have been overwhelmingly licked at the polls a week ago, but they do not intend to abandon their fight in congress for the reforms in which they believe.

Evidence of this fact was forthcoming today in the announcement that a new fight will be started in the session of congress beginning December 11 for changes in the rules of the house that will make the procedure more responsive to the demands of members. It will be lead again by Representative John M. Nelson, of Wisconsin. Nelson led a revolt against the house in bringing about important liberalizations. Among changes effected was one providing for recall of bills from committee after a reasonable length of time for committee consideration with failure of a committee report and consideration by the house of the recalled bill.

When this was tried with the Barkley Howell railroad bill which legislates out of existence the railroad labor board, it was found the bill had to go on the house calendar and its consideration was possible only on the days this calendar was called. The result was that a house vote of this bill was blocked at the last session.

Nelson, Moore, of Virginia, Cooper Wisconsin, Fish, New York and others who had led in the fight for rules revision, admitted they had not accomplished all they desired in liberalizing house rules. Nelson gave notice he would move when congress reconvened for correction of defects in the rules demonstrated by inability to secure an immediate vote on the Barkley Howell bill.

During the recess of congress Nelson directed the fight for election of the LaFollette-Wheeler presidential ticket. Making of congress responsive to the will of the Progressives or any repesenative number of congressmen is one of the policies most strongly urged by the LaFollette followers. Nelson is expected to move in this matter without delay and he will command the assistance of many members of the house bill on going to each of the old line parties.

BUILDING BILL TO TOP FOUR BILLION IN NATION IN 1924

Washington, Nov. 11.—The American building bill for 1924 is expected to exceed the enormous sum of $4,500,000,000, and the construction of homes, accounts for about 40 per cent of that total, according to figures made public today by the federal reserve board and the department of commerce.

It has been a boom year in the building industry.

There still is a national housing problem, but the situation is the best it has been since the war, officials said.

Residential construction: 1923, $1,607,436,000.

Road building, it was estimated by the federal reserve board will aggregate about $1,400,000,000 this year.

The volume of construction in 1924 has given direct employment to more than 2,500,000 persons.

MOTORIST MADE TO VIEW VICTIM'S BODY

Cleveland, Nov. 11.—Police Judge Sawicki declared that all automobile drivers charged with manslaughter in the future will be ordered to view the bodies of their victims at county morgue. The judge directed police to escort Clarence Walker, 28, to the side of the body of John Dunnigan, 56, who was run down, it is charged, by an automobile driven by Walker. After testimony to show that Walker, a mail carrier, had driven away after Dunnigan had been struck, the court continued the case for a week, set bonds at $20,000 and delivered a lecture to Walker. Guarded by two patrolmen, Walker was led into the room at the morgue, where the body of Dunnigan reposed on a marble slab. Dunnigan denies that he ran down the victim.

SELECTION TO BE MADE AFTER FUNERAL RITE

Speaker Young Also Named as Possibility; Service Wednesday

Boston, Nov. 11.—Governor Cox is expected shortly to announce appointment of a successor to Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, who died Sunday night. Lodge's successor will serve for two years, when an election will be held.

William M. Butler, who was President Coolidge's campaign manager, is spoken of as a possible selection.

A successor to Senator Lodge will not be named until after the funeral tomorrow. Under an act passed last year the governor has authority to fill the vacacy in the senate until the next general election in the state, which will be in 1926.

In addition to Butler, Benjamin L. Young is prominently mentioned for the vacant senate seat. Young is speaker of the Massachusetts house of representatives. Supporters of Mr. Butler urge his services to the party in the recent presidential campaign as giving him the call. Speaker Young on the other hand stood aside from the contest for the senatorial nomination to oppose United States Senator David I. Walsh in the late election.

The death of Senator Lodge has removed from the senate the senator of longest service, the Republican floor leader and the chairman of the all-important foreign relations committee, who played so great a part in history during the league of nations fight. Senator Borah of Idaho will succeed him as chairman of the foreign relations committee.

Funeral services over the remains of Senator Lodge will be held from Christ's Episcopal church Wednesday noon. Interment will be at Mount Auburn cemetery in the Lodge family plot. The senator, whose opposition to American participation in the league of nations made his name a household word throughout the world, passed away after he had been ill for several weeks, and a stroke last Wednesday left him unconscious except for short periods until the end. Senator Lodge was in his 75th year. He had represented the state of Massachusetts continuously in the senate for 31 years.

Girl Beheaded.

PUBLIC INVITED TO VISIT SPACIOUS NEW HOME OF JOBE BROS. STORE HERE THURSDAY

Complete in every detail after months of effort, the new Jobe Bros., department store, East Main Street, will be formally opened to the public Thursday.

The official opening will be at the hours of 9 in the morning and 9 in the evening, when C. L. Jobe, owner and manager of the store, Karl B. Bloom assistant manager and the entire staff of department heads and clerks will receive the public as their guests on an inspection tour of the new home of an old and established firm.

The general public is invited to the opening, the public being extended a cordial behest to inspect the new store at the hours appointed. As a result of this general invitation to the public it is expected the store will be crowded all day by people anxious to see the new home of the company. In connection with this invitation, Mr. Jobe issued the following statement Tuesday: "We have sent out formal invitations for our opening Thursday and Thursday evening to our business associates in kindred lines and merchants in Xenia and near-by cities only. We are issuing a general invitation to our customers and friends through the Gazette and the Republican today. Everybody is invited to be present at our opening Thursday."

Guests will be permitted to linger in the new store, inspect all the departments with their new and modern equipment and beautiful furnishings and make the store their headquarters. The formal opening marks a new and important epic in the commercial life of the city and the importance of the event has attracted unusual interest that is expected to pack the store for its formal reception to friends Thursday.

"L' INCONNU MORT"

(THE UNKNOWN DEAD)

The din of musketry is still'd;
The messengers of death have fled.
We mourn one, whom America will'd,
Should be honored as "Our Unknown Dead."

Once engaged in war's cruel game,
The supreme sacrifice was made;
The world honors now, his fame,
Forgetting not the price he paid.

Of joyous youth carefree,
We see the steel ribbons gleam,
On tie-paths of Eternity.

MOVE TO RESTORE GERMAN PATENTS

Philadelphia, Nov. 11.—Attorney General Stone arrived here to act as leading counsel for the government in its appeal in the federal court to obtain restoration of more than 6,000 German dye and chemical patents from the Chemical Foundation, Incorporated.

The patents, seized during the war, were sold to the foundation for $250,000. The government charges that the sale was made by Francis E. Garvan, former alien property custodian and now president of the foundation, in conspiracy with other government officials and private individuals in violation of the criminal code. The foundation denies the irregularity in the transaction and asserts that the sale was made by A. Mitchell Palmer, while he was alien property custodian.

CENTRAL GRIDDERS MEET ROOSEVELT IN CONTEST SATURDAY

Central High School's football eleven is in good shape for the Friday game with Roosevelt High of Dayton, at Cox Memorial Athletic Field, with the exception of Spahr at end who received an injury to his hip in Greenfield game, and will probably be kept on thee side lines Saturday.

The game with Roosevelt is Xenia's last home game of the 1924 season, and with a not overly pleasing record f six straight defeats, Central is anxious to make good for the home fans, and chalk up its first victory of the season.

The Teddy Bears are practicing hard for the Xenia game it is said, and are anxious to wipe out the 33 to 7 defeat last Saturday at the hands of Steele of Dayton.

Roosevelt has amassed a fine record this season, winning six games and losing but two. In the first game of the campaign, the Scarlet and White totalled twenty-one joints to a zero for Tipp City

Traveling to Troy, they beat the Trojins by the colse score of 7 to 0. Next in order came Germantown and Springfield, and these teams were both defeated by a score of 26 to 6

Then the worm turned, and the Teddy Bears received their first setback of the season, when Stivers High administered an overwhelming 60 to 0 defeat to the Roosevelt School.

After this nightmare, the Peden mentored gridders annexed the lightweight championship of Dayton by downing Moraine Park 19 to 6. Last Saturday Roosevelt again found the going rough and Steele High gave the Teddies their second defeat of the season by a 33 to 6 count.

In all its games, Roosevelt has scored 108 points to its opponents' 117. However Stivers accounted for more than half of this number and Steele did most of the rest. Discounting these two games, the Teddies have scored 101 points to the opponents' 24, in the other five games an average of twenty to the game, while the other eleven was acquiring five points.

This is an enviable record but with probably hardest game of the season to face Friday, Central is preparing to pull the unexpected, and give the Teddy Bears their third walloping of the season.

ETHYLIZED GASOLINE

For one year and nine months ethylized gasoline has been on sale. It is now being distributed through about 20,000 filling stations covering one third of the territory of the United States.

About 200,000,000 gallons have been used by more than 1,000,000 motorists with complete safety and satisfaction.

Recently a distressing accident occurred at an experimental plant, where a new process for the manufacture of tetraethyl lead, one of the constituents used in ethylizing gasoline, was under development.

Tetraethyl lead is a poison, as are many raw materials which enter into the manufacture of harmless compounds. Ethylized gasoline consists of 1300 parts of ordinary gasoline containing less than one part of tetraethyl lead.

This statement is issued to make plain the all-important difference between tetraethyl lead, the raw material, and ethylized gasoline,the commercial product.

Ethylized gasoline is more than an improved fuel, giving smoothness to the motor and eliminating knocks; it is a scientific discovery which, in its ultimate development, will contribute largely to the conservation of the world's supply of gasoline.

Exhaustive tests have been conducted which have established the safety of ethylized gasoline when used properly as a motor fuel. These tests have been confirmed by the United Sttes Bureau of Mines, which is making additional studies to determine whether any possible injury can result from continued contact when used for other than motor purposes. Scientific data based on these studies will be submitted to any health commissioner or other public health official on request.

MARIONETTE PROGRAM AT ANTIOCH DELIGHTFUL

A delight to both children and grown-ups who love the art of mimicry, Tony Sarg's Marionettes were enthusiastically received at both the afternoon and evening performances, Monday at the Antioch College gymnasium, Yellow Springs.

Known to be without a peer among doll actors, the marionettes lived up to their reputation. In addition to the main feature, three acts of the "Pied Piper of Hamelin," the afternoon program offered a varied performance. One of the cleverest masterpieces, was that of the doll imitator of Paderswski with a tiny piano. The movement of the hands and the entire attitude of the marionette was a delightful treat.

Another skit that met the appreciation of the audience was the "man with the dog." The tiny marionette dog was put through various dog-like tricks, which appeared very real. "The Parade of the Wooden Soldiers" was another feature of the afternoon program.

One of the most unique and difficult performances of the marionettes was given for the evening audience, when "Treasure Island" was presented in eight scenes. The entire story of Robert Louis Stevenson was enacted by the wooden characters, deftly handled.

The gymnasium stage was altered to conform in proportion to the tiny actors and was elevated and placed back on the regular platform.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY HOLDS THANK OFFERING

The thankoffering meeting of the Sara M. Chew Missionary Society of Trinity M. E. Church, was marked with dinner and a program in the church parlors, Monday evening.

A large representation of members attended the dinner which was served at 6:30 o'clock. The business meeting of the society followed, when plans were made to send a Christmas box to a southern mountain school.

Each of the guests brought jelly or preserves which are to be sent to Friendship Home, Cincinnati, which is conducted under the auspices of the missionary societies.

The evening's program was featured by a dialogue, demonstrating the work of the home mission societies, by Mrs. George Street and Mrs. Homer Spahr. Reports of the missionary meeting held last week at Greenfield, O., were given by the delegates.

The thankoffering collection was taken and a large amount realized. A clever song, composed to the tune of "The Old Oaken Bucket," especially for the meeting, was sung during the evening.

ALL-DAY MISSION MEETING HELD AT HOME

The Women's Missionary Society of the Jamestown U. P. Church held an all-day meeting at the home of Mrs. F. W. Ogan, Friday.

At noon a bountiful dinner was served cafeteria style, to fifty members and their friends. Miss Mattie Williams was an honored guest as she leaves soon for her southern home.

The topic for study in the afternoon was "Egypt" and Miss Williams had charge of the program, assisted by several of the women. The lesson was made interesting by Miss Williams' description of the various places she had visited in the Orient.

Reports from the recent Presbyterial convention held in Columbus were given by Mrs. J. C. Lackey, Mrs. R. L. Dean and Miss Myrtle Lackey. The out-of-town guests were Mrs. S. P. ## ARMISTICE DAY IS OBSERVED QUIETLY IN XENIA TUESDAY

Armistice Day was celebrated in Xenia quietly Tuesday and observance of the day was limited to a display of flags in betoken of the anniversary of the day when peace was declared and the World War was at an end.

Observance was individual and voluntary and in striking contrast to previous observances of the day, there was no parade, no speeches, and nothing scheduled that would indicate that the day was a holiday, as proclaimed by the governor, other than a closing down of all the city and county offices.

The Hooven & Allison Company, in observance of the day, posted a bulletin in the factories, declaring that all work should cease at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning for one minute, to reflect in reverence upon the occasion.

"At 11:00 a.m., November 11, 1918, the armies of the nations engaged in a World War, ceased fighting. So ended the greatest war in the history of the world. A war in which sixteen million lives were lost, four million men were crippled for life, and which brought upon countless other millions of women and children four years of misery and suffering.

"Tuesday being the anniversary of the Armistice, when men laid aside their arms, we shall, at eleven o'clock that morning, lay aside our work for one minute, in order that we may reflect upon the peace and prosperity which we now enjoy.

MAD DOG EPIDEMIC PREVALENT HERE

Citizens are warned by Deputy Sheriff George Spencer to beware of a mad dog epidemic which has broken out in the city, several dogs, suffering from hydrophobia having been already discovered and killed by authorities.

The creatures are curiously affected about this time of year, according to Deputy Spencer, and are dangerous if let roam at large.

Half a dozen cases have already been taken care of by Deputy Spencer and persons noticing dogs acting in a suspicious manner, are requested to inform Deputy Spencer.

MAIL DELIVERIES AT HALT CHRISTMAS

All persons are urged to mail their Christmas gifts to the rural districts as early as possible, as there will be no rural delivery Christmas Day and no city deliveries, according to word sent out from the local Post Office.

SOCIAL SERVICE LEAGUE NURSE HAS GIVEN HER REPORT

The report of Miss Jennie Moffett, Social Service League public health nurse, for October, submitted at the monthly board meeting, Monday night, showed activity along both health and educational lines.

During the month, cases of many descriptions came under Miss Moffett's care, ranging from cancer, tuberculosis and near pneumonia to burns, cuts and bruises among the children.

Twenty-four people were under the care of the nurse, and 154 calls were made. Thirteen came to the office for advice or treatment for minor ailments, where twelve dressings were done.

Six dressings for burned hands were done in the home. Medicine and surgical supplies were given six families.

Miss Moffett assisted at one Rotary clinic; made three trips to St. Elizabeth Hospital, Dayton; one to the state hospital; and one to the clinic at the Miami Valley Hospital.

Two school children were taken to a physician for special examination. The nurse spent two days in attendance at the public health Nurses' Institute at Cincinnati and gave a talk along the local line of work before the local Twentieth Century Club.

BURGLARS ENTER YELLOW SPRINGS DEPARTMENT STORE

For the second time in a month the N. H. Straus department store in Yellow Springs was entered by thieves, Monday night. The robbers escaped with eight pairs of shoes, two sweaters, all the Beechnut chewing gum in the store and a box of cigars.

Three weeks ago Monday night the store was entered also, when a small amount of money was taken. Entrance for the second robbery was gained through a transom in the front. The thieves left by a side door which was left standing open. No clueto the identity of the burglars has been gained by officials.

HUNTERS MAKING READY FOR RABBIT SEASON SATURDAY

Hunters in the city and country are getting ready for a general exodus to the woods Saturday, November 15, when the big hunting season of the year, the rabbit season opens. The season lasts just one month and a half, and will close the first day of the new year.

Aspiring hunters are warned that ten rabbits may be taken on every day in the week with the exception of Sunday, when rabbit hunting is barred to everyone excepting land owners and tenants who find the little animals destroying property. Owners and tenants may take the animals in such cases in any number.

The animals may also be taken between one hour before sunrise and one hour after sunset, thus precluding night hunting.

Rabbits may be bought or sold in any number during the open season, but the use of ferrets in taking is prohibited to all except land owners and tenants.

A 'CIRCUIT RIDER" OF 300,000 MILES

The latest statue to be raised in Washington is along the new line, and a fine example of its spirit. It is to a pioneer preacher whose home was on his horse's back, and who carried the gospel and the message of Christian love over mountains and across streams to colonists, settlers and Indians. He preached about 17,000 sermons, traveled on his horse about 300,000 miles, and at the height of his career got his largest salary of $85 a year.

The man so honored is Bishop Francis Asbury. The statue represents him on his weary little horse, whose drooping head indicates its fatigue. It is quite different from the fiery "steed' or "charger" the warrior usually sits on, but is very true to life. The statue is the work of Augustus Lukeman, and was erected by the Methodist church to its first bishop in America.

Here is recognition of in permanent are of accomplishment of a different character from that usually so represented. Future generations will look on this statue and be inspired, and who shall say that the inspiration will not be worth that received from gazing on the figure of a gallant warrior? President Coolidge in his speech at the unveiling declared that Asbury "is entitled to rank as one of the builders of the nation." He added that it was as the result of the preaching of Bishop Asbury and others that "our country has developed so much freedom."

Young Asbury, an Englishman, came to the colonies in 1771, a few years before the Revolution, when there were only 371 Methodists in this country. When hedied, in 1816, there were more than 200,000. He trailed the Indians and hardy pioneers across the Alleghenies 60 times, sometimes making his horse swim streams behind his boat. He preached from th eborders of Florida to the wilds of Canada, traveling as much as 8,000 miles in one year. With him usually went his faithful Negro servant, "Black Henry," who sometimes preached in his master's stead and who founded the African Methodist Church. No circumscribed pastorate could suit this pioneer evangelist; he was the man on horseback in the Christian warfare, and he boldly carried his campaign to remote places.

IMPROVED ON HIS ORDERS

Mark Twain while at his summer residence prepared one evening to take a drive and, expecting to remain out until late, told his hostler that he need not wait for him. He instructed the man, however, when he had finished his work to lock the stable and place the key under a stone, the location of which Mr. Clemens described with much exactness. When the humorist reached home after his drive he was surprised to find that the key was not in the place selected. When his patience had been exhausted he awoke the hostler, who explained, as he started out to find the missing key, "Mr. Clemens, I found a better place to hide it."

THE "FAVORITE SON" A MYTH

John W. Davis is a native of West Virginia and has lived there most of his life. He is now a resident of New York. Chas. W. Bryan has lived in Nebraska half a lifetime and is its Governor. Senator Burton K. Wheeler is a citizen of Montana. All these men were candidates in the national election. Not one of them carried his home state. West Virginia, New York, Nebraska and Montana all found their way into the Coolidge columns. The "favorite-son" sentiment was paralyzed by the Coolidge atmosphere in all States having candidates except Wisconsin. This is one more of the many indications of how the people of this Nation felt Tuesday, Nov. 4th.

LUCKY SNOOK

It pays to patronize, especially when the prerequisite of patronage is a fine painting freely given by its author.

Last week, in Manhattan, the names of all the lay members of the co-operation Painters' and Sculptors' Gallery Association were hidden away, lottery-wise, then drawn forth. In the order of their names' forthcoming, the lay members were then entitled to choose one work apiece from amongst upwards of 150 pieces executed by leading artists of the U. S. The artists had donated their creations as tokens of their gratitude to the lay members for their support of the Association.

As the name-drawing began, patrons from many a state stood tensely by to learn their luck. Out come the first name: Albert Snook, of Aurora, Ill., publisher of The Aurora Beacon-News. Without hesitation, Mr. Snook marched to John Singer Sargent's canvas, The Chess Game, and claimed it for his own.—Time.

Young Housewife: "Can you suggest a novel way of finishing the upper and lower edge of a silk lamp shade I have just made? I am so tired of fringes."

Answer: Silk ribbon about one-half inch wide, run through glass colored beads is now being used as a lamp-shade edging. Have the beads as far apart, or as near, as you desire.

Mrs. B. B.: "I wish to know how to paint or enamel old flower pots so that the paint will not blister and chip off in a few days. Surely there is some special process for doing this but I cannot find anyone who knows how. Also can the pot be painted with a plant in it without injuring the plant?"

Answer: Suppose we ask some of our other Reader Friends about this? Perhaps one of them has tried it and To steam clams, put them into a large pot with boiling water just to cover and can give us some advice.

A Reader: "Please tell me how to boil eggs. Sometimes the white of mine are crisp, but at other times tough and leathery. Also tell me how to steam clams."

Answer: To boil an egg, simply put it into rapidly boiling water. If you like it quite soft remove it in three minutes. If you like it medium-soft, but so that the white is firm, boil it four minutes. Five minutes of boiling will produce a hard-boiled egg. A little experience, and the use of good fresh eggs will give you good results.

Mrs. K.: "Please tell me how to clean tapestry furniture."

Answer: Simply apply gasoline or benzine, but not near heat or flame because these fluids are extremely flamable.

Answer: Gasoline will remove it but sometimes this leaves a ring on very delicate material. So you had better use chloroform or ether instead. If the spot is in a very conspicuous place on the garment, it would pay you to have a professional cleaning establishment do the work as they will achieve perfect results.

MRS. BUSH TELLS OTHER WOMEN

Massena, N.Y.—"I had terrible pains in both my sides and a dragging-down feeling that affected me so that I could hardly walk, and I got run-down. A friend who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advised me to try it and I have taken it with the best results. I do my housework and also some outdoor work on the farm. The Vegetable Compound has given me back my health and I can not praise it enough. I am perfectly willing that you should use these facts if my letter will help other women who still suffer."—Mrs. DELBERT BUSH, R. F. D. 1, Massena, N.Y.

The spirit of helpfulness shown in the letters we are constantly publishing is worthy of notice.

These women know by experience what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will do. Your troubles are the same as theirs. Isn't it reasonable to expect the same results?

If you have pains and a dragging-down feeling and are nervous and irritable, profit by Mrs. Bush's experience and give the Compound a trial.

Today's Talks

THE AIM AND END AFTER ALL

Anyone who is healthy and alert is able to get quite a thrill out of the ordinary thing of making money for instance.

But he will quickly tire of it all because he can see no definite and happy end.

The chef end and aim of life should be to enrich this life—which by the way, is all life. And this enriching process is one of individual selection whereby beauty and love prevailis over all.

You can't get very much fun out of building a house in which you are to live alone.

Imagine the kind of a world this would be if you and everyone else sought to make it whole and exclusively a personal possession.

I often think of what a wonderful organ the heart is. It never seems to get tired. For nearly a hundred years it keeps beating away, putting up with all manner of abuse, always hoping and hoping.

But this heart much prefers to beat for something!

If only to say once every night: "What a sky, what stars!"

I saw an actor the other evening who merely acted. He made me think of another actor who forgot all about acting and played the part. He made me think of this great man who on being asked how to be a great actor repled: "Study everything you can about acting—then forget it all."

The chief end and aim of life, according to my idea, is to be an artist through and through: to be one without thinking whether it is going to pay or not, or whether you you are going to be noticed or rewarded.

Give the world a rollicking laugh, a smooth and even attempt at doing something better than it has ever been done before and be kind and thoughtful while you are doing it.

WELL-MERITED SUCCESS

A distinguished citizen, honored politically and professionally, Dr. R. V. Pierce, whose picture appears above, made a success few have equalled. His pure herbal remedies which have stood the test for fifty years are still among the "best sellers." Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a blood medicine and stomach alterative. It clears the skin, beautifies it, increases the blood supply and the circulation, and pimples and eruptions vanish quickly. Beauty is but skin deep and good blood is beneath both. For your blood to be good, your stomach must be in condition, your liver active. This Discovery of Doctor Pierce's puts you in fine condition, with all the organs active. Ask your nearest druggist for Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, in tablet or liquid form, or send 10 cents for trial package of tablets to Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y.

Handmade Magazine Rack

An attractive magazine rack may be made by covering an old rack with cretonne or any other decorative material. Simply cut the fabric into pieces of the right size, allowing a half inch for turning under on all edges, and glue it to the rack with best quality liquid glue.

Where an old rack is not available, an inexpensive new one of unfinished wood may be used or the rack may be made by hand from an old packing box or from discarded pieces of lumber.

JUST FOLKS

Edgar A. Guest

Hey, you with your constant pleading,
Can't you see I'm busy reading!
Don't you know my legs were never
Made to run and romp forever?
If I leave you for a minute,
There's a cash and you are in it;
Guess I'll have to rope and bind you.
Next time I'm left to mind you.

Goodness gracious, I can't think well!
How'd you ever get that ink-well?
See that dreadful mess you've made now!
Mercy on me, I'm afraid now
When your mother comes we'll get it!
Don't touch that, or you'll upset it!
Stay right there where I can find you
Oh, but it's a tough job to mind you!

Two years old, and full of pepper!
My, you're certainly a stepper!
No, no, Janet, do not take that;
It's cut-glass and you will break that
There, you've dropped it and it's broken,
And it was a wedding token!
Now look out, the lamp's behind you
Oh, but it's a chore to mind you!

Gosh, my nerves are all a-flutter!
Yes, I'll get you bread and butter,
But I tell you that I wish now
That your mother—watch that dish now!
Hey, that knife don't run away with!
Knives are not for babies to play with!
Who to mischief so inclined you?
Wow! but it's a task to mind you!

3 times a day!

Women spend three months of men's working hours every year at the kitchen sink, washing dishes! Climalene will reduce the time a third, clean your dishes better, keep your hands, and your spirits young.

HUSBANDS BLAMED FOR POOR TASTE OF WIVES IN DRESSING

Husbands are to blame as often as not for whatever poor taste their wives may have in buying and wearing clothes, says a clothing extension specialist at the Ohio State University after several years experience with groups of Ohio farmwives.

"It often happens," says the specialist, Edna M. Callahan, "that when we think we have convinced a certain woman with a medium complexion that she should avoid grays and black as much as possible, she will continue to dress in these colors.

"If you ask the woman why she insists on gray, she will usually say that her husband likes her best in that color. Occasionally it be that her mother always liked her in gray and she doesn't feel right in brighter colors.

"Women of medium complexion are no means the hardest to convince in color combinations but there are more of them than all other tpye put together. The pure brunette is quite frequent, but true blondes are scarse, and we seldom find more than one typical red head in fifty."

CONDITION OF MRS. HARDING IMPROVED

Marion, O., Nov. 11.—With the dawn of Armistice Day, today, Mrs. Warren G. Harding's spirits seemed to rise and those at her bedside noted what they believed to be a slight improvement.

RELATIVE OF TEDDY GETS NAVY OFFICE

Washington, Nov. 11.—The assistant secretaryship of the navy is to remain in the Roosevelt family, it appeared here today. Theodore Douglas Robinson, a nephew of the former president, has been virtually decided upon for the post. He will succeed Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, his cousin, who resigned two months ago in order to run for the governorship of New York, for which office he was defeated by Governor Al Smith.

LABOR SECRETARY TO RESIGN MARCH 4

Washington, Nov. 11.—Secretary of Labor James J. Davis is the only member of the cabinet who has indicated to President Coolidge his intention to resign on March 4, it was announced officially at the White House today.

Davis is now enroute to South America to make an investigation of immigration problems.

COMMITS SUICIDE

Canton, O., Nov. 11.—Oliver Brumbaugh, 62, part owner and superintendent of the Louisville Brick and Tile Company, and owner of the Louisville Feed and Grain Company, killed himself today at his farm near Louisville. He went to the barn on the farm, which is occupied by a tenant farmer, placed his shotgun on the floor, put the muzzle of the gun in his mouth, pressed the trigger with his foot and blew the entire top of his head off.

PRINCE EXPELLED

Brussels, Nov. 11.—Prince Don Luis Ferdinand of Spain, mysteriously expelled from Paris last month, was requested today to leave Belgium immediately. His effort to comply with the request by sailing for England, was thwarted when the British embassy refused to vise his passport.

HERE AND THERE

Dean O'Bannon, known to the police as one of the wealthiest and most active beer runners in northern Illinois, was pumped full of lead at Chicago by three unidentified men, who escaped.

St. Vincent de Paul's Catholic church at Montreal was destroyed by fire with a loss of $300,000.

Clinched in a death grip with their hands on each other's throat, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Zagac broke through a railing on the rear porch of their flat in Chicago and plunged three stories. The husband was killed and the wife has a fractured skull.

The government budget fixed expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1926, at $2,980,000,000, the lowest since the war.

CHILD SCALDED TO DEATH TAKING BATH

Canton, O., Nov. 11.—Placed in bathwater, so hot that it scalded, Mary, 10 day old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Novic received burns which caused her death here late yesterday. She was burned over her entire body several days ago when a woman helping in the Novic home attempted to bathe her in hot water.

Coroner T. H. Shorb, investigating the case found it to be an accident and said that there was no evidence of criminal negligence.

LEGION HEAD MAKES PLEA FOR DISABLED VETERAN IN SPEECH

Indianapolis, Nov. 11—A plea for the disabled veteran was made here today in the Armistice Day message of James A. Drain, commander of the American Legion.

The message reads:

"On the eleventh hour, of the eleventh day of the eleventh month six years ago today, the order to 'cease firing' brought an end to the greatest war the world has ever known.

"The sigh of relief that went up around the world attested eloquently to the feelings of peoples toward the most abominable of all legalized business, killing.

"Armistice Day always should be a reminder of that bloodiest war, it should be dedicated each year to the message of world peace, the great goal which we all seek.

"Permanent world peace rests upon international justice and without that justice there will always be war. Justice must be automatic and it will depend on the erection of some form of world court.

"The people of the United States are prone to forget but on this day they should give a thought for those wrecks for whom the Armistice has never come."

NATION OFFERS ITS HOMAGE TO SOLDIER DEAD AT SERVICES

Washington, Nov. 11—This nation today paid its reverent and respectful homage to those who gave their lives that the country might survive.

Six years ago today at 11 a.m. the world war came to an end—a victorious end.

Throughout the entire nation memorial and patriotic celebrations took place in honor of those who perished at the altar of honorable victory.

Services here in the national capital were centered about the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington cemetery.

Memorial services were also held in the chapel wherein lies the remains of America's wartime president, Woodrow Wilson.

President Coolidge placed a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier and led in the observance of the day. He was accompanied by Assistant Secretary of War Davis and Secretary of the Navy Wilbur.

BUTTER PRODUCERS MEET DANISH TRADE BY SELLING ABROAD

American butter producers are now meeting Danish competition by shipping butter to Denmark's chief market, England, according to information received by rural economists at the Ohio State University.

"While the American farmer has a protective tariff on butter of 8 cents a pound, it apparently isn't doing him much good at the present time.

"Butter prices on the New York market are now about 39 cents a pound, while London prices are 50 cents a pound. This is a drift from about 13 cents a pound in favor of New York in the early months of the year to about 10 cents a pound in favor of London now.

"Production in the United States for 1923 was about 17 per cent greater than in 1920, and storage holdings of butter in the nUited States were 60 per cent greater on October 1 than a year ago.

"As a result the American butter trade, instead of worrying about competition from Danish butter on the New York market, shipped to London during the first week in October about 7000 tubs of butter to compete with Denmark's product.

BARBARA LA MARR AND HUSBAND TOO MUCH ALIKE HE SAYS

I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

Chicago, Nov. 11—"Barbara and I," explained "Mr. Barbara LaMarr," who, rumor says, is about to make legal application for the right to resume his bachelor name of Jack Dougherty, "are too much alike. That's the trouble with us."

But, to paraphrase Merton, if the too beautiful Barbara is no longer the sweetheart of her fifth husband, she is still his best pal.

Mr. Dougherty said so himself as he stepped from the Twentieth Century Limited here today and, hat and stick in one gloved hand, ran the other through his glorious auburn hair in which the marcel is perfectly natural.

"Why Barbara came down to the train in New York yesterday and kissed me good bye,, and wished me luck.

"We think it's perfectly splendid being separated, if you know what I mean.

"And if there's any divorce suit brought it will be by someone else, not I."

MONDAY MORNING COLDEST OF AUTUMN

According to a report of the various weather forecasters, a low mark for this year was established Monday morning at about 5:30 o'clock, when the mercury dropped to 29 degrees for about one half hour. The former record, established in the region of the Miami Valley was established October 23, at 32 degrees it was declared.

A cold air current shortly after 5 o'clock is believed to have caused the sudden lowering in the temperature. At 7 o'clock the thermometer registered about normal again or 34 degrees was probably the lowest registered Sunday morning.

TRAFFIC CLUB TO HOLD MEETING HERE

Because of the fact that a district conference of the Miami Valley Regional Advisory Board is to be held at Louisville, Ky., November 24 and 25, the meeting of the Miami Valley Traffic Club has been postponed until December 1, at Xenia, according to an announcement Monday.

The speaker at the December 1 meeting will be J. C. Harraman, Washington, D. C., attorney examiner of the interstate commerce commission.

LIGHTING THE BATH ROOM

Have you ever watched your father shave? Does he try to keep shadows away by turning his face this way and that? Or can he shave comfortably and easily with a smile on his face like the man in the second picture? Shaving is really the best test of lighting in bathrooms. A man shaves each side of his face and under his chin, and if he is to see well, he needs a light on each side down low enough to light underneath the chin.

Wrong Right

Lighting the mirror in the bathroom is exactly the same problem as lighting the mirror in the bedroom, and two bracket fixtures are needed for good lighting—one at either side of the mirror at eye level or a little above. The fixtures should point upward and should have long dense milk-white shades open at the top to conceal the 50-watt "bulbs" inside.

If the bathroom is large, you may have a fixture in the center of the ceiling just like the fixture used in the kitchen. If this is properly put in and equipped with a bulb of 75-watts or more, it will furnish good general lighting all over the room on occasions when the mirror is not being used.

When sister goes to curl her hair in front of the mirror, does she find it necessary to take the bulb out of the light to connect her electric iron?

If she does, she probably does not curl her hair in the evening, because many bathrooms are lighted by only one fixture. And if your bathroom has two fixtures, and sister uses one for a curling iron, then she must twist and turn her head because she cannot see well when only one is used for lighting.

That curling iron of sister's is just one of the handy little electric appliances which should be provided with an outlet of their own—a convenience outlet 36 inches or more above the floor, so that good lighting is always ready when it is most needed.

LIGHTING THE SUN ROOM

In the sun room we usually want a ceiling fixture to give us general lighting and to flood the whole room with warm, soft light and an atmosphere of cheerfulness; we also need lighting from portable lamps for reading or sewing, or as decorative spots of light and color around the room. Do you remember the lesson which told how to light the living room? It was much the same as this, for the sun room or sun porch is really another living room in most homes.

In the sun room, however, the furniture and decorations usually require lighting fixtures which will look well with wicker and cretonne and which will make the sun room feel like a sun room even after dark.

Absolute Security in THE XENIA NATIONAL BANK

THROUGHOUT the period of progress that marks the history of our community the banks have stood as barometers of financial ascendancy. Fortunate indeed are we who have at all times had institutions in which implicit confidence could be placed.

The Xenia National Bank

has served in this community, always with the idea of better and more efficient service for its depositors and at all times standing for progress and promotion of the best interests of the "Home Sector."

Protection and Service

are essential and are regarded as a sacred trust.

We protect your savings, your securities and your valuables. The Xenia National Bank has spared no expense in order that it might give to its depositors better protection and more efficient service.

Safety is paramount and for this reason the Xenia National Bank has installed A Complete Electric Burglar Alarm System thereby reducing to a minimum the chance of loss from this source either to our customers or to ourselves.

This system protects our entire vault against every kind of attack possible for burglars to make. It likewise provides means of alarm in case of daylight holdup. We strive to give to our depositors

Absolute Security

Let Us Show You What We Have Done to Protect Your Valuables

THE XENIA NATIONAL BANK

"McClintock Burglar Alarm

THIS system has been installed, during the past 20 years by Banks and Trust Companies, in Federal Reserve Banks, Sub-Treasuries and Federal Buildings. It is one of the most complete systems put out, and during the past twenty years not one of the thousands of those in operation has ever failed to do its duty; although burglars have attempted in every conceivable way to defeat it, they have never got beyond the first attempts.

The system is so complete that no one part of the vault or doors has a single form of protection, the protection on all parts being either duplicate or triplicate, both the open and closed circuits being used, so that any attempt to cut cables or wires, drill through the vault linings or doors, or the use of the oxy-acetylene flame, would immediately turn in an alarm.

The system has its own electrical energy, not depending on any outside source. This electric energy is installed inside the vault, as is everything else connected with the system, except the big alarm gongs.

The system has proved so successful that it has become recognized by all vault engineers, bank architects, underwriters, and bankers, themselves, as the only real protection against burglary and is highly recommended by all States, and the National Bankers' Association.

GENERALS SUGGEST ARMISTICE DAY BE GESTURE FOR PEACE

Washington, Nov. 11—James G. Harbord and John F. O'Ryan, two of America's fighting generals in the world war, today joined President Coolidge in the suggestion that Armistice Day be made the occasion of efforts in the interests of permanent world peace. Their statements were made public through the federal council of churches.

"Armistice Day this year marks the close of the sixth year of world peace following a period of armed conflict without parallel in the history of the human race," General Harbord said. "The anniversary of this memorable day should be the occasion for indelibly establishing in the minds of all Americans the wastefulness, the horrors and the immeasureable destruction of wars.

"Let this day be observed for the study and discussion of ways and means of abolishing all possible future wars by substituting a practicle plan of action based on common sense, reasoning, justice and law."

General O'Ryan suggested international co-operation as the best way to end war.

"The maintenance of world peace is a world problem," O'Ryan said. "And therefore must be dealt with by a world organization. From the beginning the world has always been organized for war and the world intermittently had war. Now, for the first time in history, the world is organizing for peace and when the organization is complete the world will secure peace.

"So long as any civilized nation remains outside the obligations of membership in a world organization, organized for peace, the world is not fully organized for peace and such a nation, but rather in terms of its manpower and military forces."

Lawyer's Clients Defined

A group of lawyers was conversing on divorce subjects recently in one of the corridors of the courthouse. They were joined by a young member of the profession who was bitterly denouncing the stupidity of his client who had just been cross-examined on the witness stand, and had become hopelessly confused by the opposition.

"Why, the darn fool," the young man began, but was stopped by Henry Spaan, one of the attorneys in the group, who said:

"Young man, did you ever stop to think that were it not for the darn fools, we lawyers would be without means of support?"—Indianapolis News.

First Aid

TWELVE ORPHANS ASK $100,000 FOR MOTHE.

DUGAN ORPHANS

Here are the twelve orphans who appeared in a New York City court to ask that Sullivan Brothers, contractors, pay $100,000 for the death of their father, John Dugan, who was killed by an auto truck. Their mother, who was ill, died of the shock. The girls have managed to keep the brood together. Left to right, they are: Mary, twenty; John, seventeen; James, fifteen; Fred, thirteen; Patrick, ten; Margaret, eight; Hugh, seven; Katherine, five; Frances, three; Eugene, two; Raymond, one, and Elizabeth, eighteen.

HUMAN FACTOR IN INVESTMENTS TOLD BY ROGER BABSON

Babson Park, Nov. 11—The recent death of Andrew W. Preston, President of the United Fruit Company, has again brought up the much discussed question of the human element in investment values. The business world has lost another leader. I, for one, believe that the investment world is poorer, in spite of the fact that book assets remain the same.

The business of the United Fruit Company with all probability will continue to go on successfully. We should however, consider the possible effect of the death of its president in the light of previous financial history. The company has suffered a severe loss, a loss impossible to estimate at this time.

Mr. Preston not only knew the fruit business thoroughly but had the confidence of both employees and stockholders. He was a real captain of industry, a man of great vision, power and judgment. Although the company may continue to increase its friut business and its stock may yet sell at record high figures, it would be surprising indeed if it does not ultimately suffer marketwise from Mr. Preston's death. A vessel is always a vessel, and a crew is always a crew but the profits of both vessel and crew depend to a large extent upon the skill and ability of the captain in charge. Wage workers and stockholders are entitled to their fair share of the profits of every business, but in the last analysis it must be admitted that these profits are largely due to the character, judgment, vision and energy of some one individual.

In discussing the possible effect of Mr. Preson's death several bankers and investment experts have recalled the effect of similar previous losses. They have cited the fact that the Great Northern and Northern Pacific reached their highest point under the personal management of James J. Hill and that since his death a line in the prices of these stock has been almost continuous. They have reminisced concerning Harriman and what happened to the market price of Union Pacific and other Harriman stocks after his death. Other instances in our business and financial history substantiate the general rule that industrial securities reached their peak previous to the death or retirement of the founder of the company. These men still have confidence in the United Fruit Company knowing that it is a sound business and is well entrenched both as to the production and distribution of fruits. Most of them are optimistic on the market as a whole and believe that United States Fruit will continue to go up with the others, but the situation does bring to the mind the fundamental fact that the value of securities lies not in the real estate or buildings owned, nor in the temporary earnings of the corporation, but in the character, judgment, vision and energy of the men in control. Moreover this fundamental principle applies to all businesses, large and small.

This same idea has been brought out recently by Edna Ferber in her book "So Big." In her "Aug Hemple" she draws a picture of the founder of the packing industry as it exists today in America. It shows how that great industry reached its peak before his death and that no son or relative has since been able to put into it the vision and energy that this founder possessed. Quite by coincidence you can get a detailed picture of this same "Aug Hemple" in George Horace Lorimer's book "Letters of a Self Made Merchant to His Son." The present editor of the Saturday Evening Post was once his private secretary.

We see this principle again as it works itself out in a community. American development is not dependent upon national resources, location nor inherent wealth. Every city worth while today owes its growth to some one or more men of character, vision and courage who threw their energy into the building up of a town. The great danger threatening most of our cities today is that after the community has secured a certain momentum of growth it is apt to think that it can run along without further leadership. This is a great mistake and the best thing that a Chamber of Commerce can do is to clearly recognize this fact. The men who are giving their lives to the building up of your city should be helped and encouraged.

Business is still dull. I have just returned from a trip to some of the leading cities in the eastern section of the United States and of Canada. The bankers, manufacturers and merchants with whom I talked seemed puzzled. They say that there is no surplus of goods on the shelves of the merchants, that the corporations are not overexpanded financially, and that fundamentally things are in pretty good shape. The most common expression I heard was that business seems to lack 'pep' or seems to be 'drifting.' The actual situation is pictured on the Babsonchart which continues to show general activity at 7 per cent below normal.

I wonder if it is possible that our business men, owing to burdensome taxation, government interference, or some other cause apparently beyond their control are losing interest in their business? If this is true it presents an exceptionally serious problem, a problem more vital than that of business depression or even a business panic. If statistics teach anything, they teach that men make values—and that souls make men.

Certain political leaders are preaching today that there should be a redivision of things. Perhaps there should be if such a redivision could come about in a natural way; but in attempting to divide things up we must be very careful that we do not sever the artery upon which business depends for its very life. It is possible that the uncertainty of the political situation is a contributing cause but I return from this trip convinced that the country business men are sorely in need of courage and confidence today. They need this confidence much worse than they need any more legislation or new rules. It may be a good drama for certain politicians to berate and belittle men like Harriman, Hill, Armour and Preston, it may win them a few votes with the unthinking but before we discount these men—before we lend our support to 'the under dog' just because, as a sporting proposition, it appeals to us—let us appraise these captains of industry. Let's figure what their initiative and vision meant in the development of America and just how much of the comforts, conveniences and living that we enjoy today is directly due or indirectly due to them. Then let us come out into the open and back the people we believe in, that confidence may again be restored and that we may go forward toward better times for everyone

Pine Tar and Honey Still Best for Chest Colds and Coughs

Our mothers and grandmothers would never be without pine tar syrup in the house for coughs, chest colds, etc. This was many years ago, but modern medicine has never been able to improve on this time-tested remedy. Doctors say the pine tar is hard to beat for quickly loosening and removing the phlegm and congestion that are the actual cause of the cough. At the same time pine tar and honey soon soothe and heal all irritation and soreness.

The kind that has been used with never-failing success in thousands of families for years is that known as Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar Honey. This is scientifically compounded of just the right proportions of pine tar, honey and other quick-acting, healing ingredients which the best doctors have found to aid in quick relief. It contains absolutely no opiates, narcotics or harmful drugs, so can be given to young children—fine for spasmodic croup. It tastes good, too. If you want the best, a medicine that often stops the severest cough overnight, be sure you get Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar Honey. It costs only 30c at any good druggist's.

Constipation is a dangerous disease. It can lead to many others. Twenty years' suffering with constipation undermined this man's health. Kellogg's Bran restored it—as it has done for thousands. This is what he says:

"Gentlemen:

After eating Kellogg's Bran twice a day for one month I find it not only an 'Easy Way to Avoid Constipation,' but an easy and most pleasant way to cure it. I have been troubled with constipation . . . for more than twenty years . . . after adopting the milk and bran diet I find my stomach greatly improved, and find it a specific for constipation. . . . I deem it only justice that you should know what your product has done for me, and what it is capable of doing for others."

Kellogg's Bran relieves mild and chronic constipation because it is ALL bran. It brings sure results. It sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine in nature's own way. Don't experiment. Only ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is guaranteed to bring permanent relief—or your grocer returns your money. You should eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

The flavor is delicious—nut-like—cooked and krumbled. Enjoy it with milk or cream, sprinkled on other cereals, cooked with hot cereals, or in the delightful recipes on every package. Made in Battle Creek. Sold by grocers everywhere.

INVESTIGATION OF ANTIOCH ROBBERY FAILS OF RESULTS

A complete investigation of the premises and a thorough questioning of suspects, has revealed no clues, which might lead to the solution of the mystery surrounding the theft of $240 in cash, an overcoat valued at $65 and platinum valued at $700 taken from the college buildings about a week ago.

Sheriff Morris Sharp and Prosecuting Attorney J. K. Williamson, assisted by a special detective, have been working on the case for nearly a week in an attempt to uncover clues but their efforts have been fruitless.

The $700 worth of platinum was taken from the chemical laboratory at Antioch and was discovered the morning of November 5 by Dr. C. F. Adams head of the department. It is believed the platinum was stolen when $240 in cash and a $65 overcoat were taken from the bursar's office at the college and the bookstore the Saturday night preceding.

The platinum was kept in the strong box in the laboratory. Dr. Adams found the box locked last Wednesday and when he opened it the metal was missing. The door to the laboratory was locked.

JUDGMENT GRANTED

In the case of James I. Patterson and others against Ancil Wright and others in Common Pleas Court, the plaintiff has been ordered to collect from the defendants, Ancil Wright and Harry P. Thomas, $155.42, with interest, making the total $159.92.

DIVORCE CASE ENDS

After hearing both the petition of the plaintiff and the cross petition of the defendant, and the evidence in the divorce case of Rosa Mills Compton against Lester M. Compton in Common Pleas Court, the court decided that the defendant was not entitled to a divorce as asked in the cross petition, and ordered that the case be dismissed.

The custody of the minor child, aged 11, was left to the child who decided in favor of the plaintiff. The court ordered that the plaintiff be given custody of the child, with the defendant having the right to visit the child or have it visit him.

The court also ordered the defendant to pay the plaintiff $8 a week alimony for the support of the child.

DIVORCE GRANTED

Marie Tate has been granted a divorce from Floyd Tate in Common Pleas Court on the grounds of gross neglect of duty. The custody of the child, Theodore Tate, has been awarded to the plaintiff and the defendant enjoined from interfering with the child or visiting him, until further order of the court.

SUES ON ACCOUNT

Dilver Belden has brought suit in Common Pleas Court against Paul M. Stiles and Lorena Stiles doing business as the Stiles Baking Company, charging that the defendants are indebted to him in the sum $491.86 by reason of merchandise sold and delivered to the defendants by the plaintiff. Miller and Finney are attorneys for the plaintiff.

EXECUTOR NAMED

COUNTESS TITLE IS FOUND TO BE EMPTY MYTH BY HEIRESS

New York, Nov. 11—Subsequent to discovery today that the mysterious Countess who had been a patient for a week in city hospital on welfare island, was the former Millicent Gilpin, of a prominent Philadelphia family, she announced that she would institute divorce proceedings against Rodney Bathurst Birch, cousin to Seymour Henry, seventh earl of Bathurst.

Mrs. Birch, who said she was about to bear a child, charged that the son of Reginald Bathurst Birch, noted illustrator, had deserted her after she had been talked into marrying him by his mother, Mrs. J. W. Whitmore, whose son he was by a former marriage.

Mrs. Birch said she had been led to believe that she would be a countess, might engrave a coronet on her writing papers, and live comfortably on Rodney's imaginary allowance.

Instead she said, she found he had no title, had no allowance and was in such financial straits that she would have to work.

Her wealthy father, Charles Armond Gilpin, who had been displeased by the match, refused to help her, Mrs. Birch said. She added that Birch left her a note dissolving their relations and fled. Then she took work in a department store, but fainted three times on her first day there and was sent to welfare island.

Her husband's father denied his son had deserted his wife and contended that on the other hand, she had deserted her husband. He, too, refused her help, saying she was extravagant and "spoiled by her wealthy and eccentric father."

Bit of Advice

A fresh youth on a Florida beach eyed a fair bather longer than she considered necessary. She shot him a glance or two that evinced no friendliness. A good-natured native thought fit to offer the young man a word of advice.

"Son," said he, "maybe we Southerners are a trifle fiery. Anyhow, when you see a pretty girl coming out of the surf, remember the words of 'Dixie.'"

"What words?"

"Look away."—Atlanta Constitution.

Flower Pot Camouflage

This charming flower pot cover can be made from card-board or buckram cut in an oblong strip and joined with glue. It is then covered with figured chintz or cretonne drawn smoothly over the foundation and held in place with glue. It can be lifted off while the flowers are being watered.

Gluecraft Panels

A great variety of wall panels of beauty and distinction can be made at home with a bit of care and ingenuity, a tube of liquid glue, a dash of originality, and a few scraps of chintz.

This decorative panel is made on a background of soft material such as tan duvetyn, which is framed with darker ribbon held in place with glue. Motifs are then cut from cretonne, chintz or any other figured material and appliqued to the foundation with a light touch of glue.

ARCADE BOWLERS WHIP OPPONENTS

The experienced five representing the Arcade bowling team, proved to be too strong for the Wilson Engineering and Contracting Company five Monday night at the Arcade alleys, and won by 340 pins in three games, rolling scores of 756, 822, and 748 for a grand total of 2,326. The contracting company rolled games of 642, 675 and 669 for a total of 1,986.

Arch Jeffries rolled the highest single game of the evening, with a score of 215 and was also good for the high three-game average, with a total of 574 for three games or an average of 191 1-3.

Horner was best for the contracting company with an average of 153 in three games.

The next match game is scheduled for Tuesday night on the Arcade alleys with the Pennsylvania Railroad five and the bowlers of the Xenia Quoit Club opposing each other.

This match will start at 7:30 o'clock.

Full Military Honors at Squaw Man's Burial

Sam Terry, beloved "Siksela" and squaw man of the Sioux, lies buried in the Rosebud Indian reservation in St. Francis, S. D. Full military honors were accorded the old United States scout and former Indian fighter by the American Legion as his body was lowered to its last resting place.

Samuel Mark Terry, nephew of General Terry of Civil war and Indian war fame, was born in New York September 1, 1830. Sam joined the United States army in 1858 and a gunshot wound received in the Civil war caused him to wear a silver plate in his throat for the rest of his life.

Handicapped by the wound and undaunted by loss of his toes by freezing while he was engaged in army messenger and scout work for Uncle Sam around the army posts in the land of the Sioux Indians, Sam Terry continued in the government service until romance conquered him.

His detachment was about to attack an Indian village in 1867, with orders to kill every man. During the fighting figures were seen hiding in the tall grass. One of the soldiers was about to shoot when Sam ordered him to wait. Search of the grass revealed two Indian girls. After the attack, one of these persisted in pursuing Terry until he became a squaw man and a real lover of the Indians.

Old-timers declare Sam Terry was a noble character. He served his country for 23 years, and after his adoption by the Indians he helped bring about a mutual understanding between them and Washington.

Meaning of "Alabama"

It has long been a matter of tradition that the name "Alabama" had the romantic meaning of "Here We Rest." This originated about seventy-five years ago and gained widespread popularity through the writings of Judge Meek, who handled the history of the state in a volume which was very generally accepted. Some recent philological research has upset this. Rev. Allen Wright, a highly educated Choctaw, says that it means "thicket clearers." That was originally the name of a tribe of Indians which inhabited that part of the country and the name was always given to the river and afterwards to the state. In his opinion the word is compounded from "Alba," meaning a thicket or mass of vegetation, and "amo," to clear or gather up. Another student of tribal dialects concurs in this belief, with the slightly different definition of "vegetation gatherers."

Ohio Girls Held.

Detroit, Nov. 11.—Charged with burglarizing John Miller's grocery, four Ohioans, two girls and two youths, are held here. The girls, giving their names as Dorothy Holk, 18, and Etta Setter, 20, both of Cincinnati, are said to have confessed. They are wanted in an Ohio reformatory, from which they escaped recently, it is claimed. The young men also hail from Cincinnati.

NEW X-RAY WILL AID BUILDERS.

X-RAY FOR BUILDERS (Below) CLOSE UP

The X-ray, hitherto used almost exclusively for medical purposes will now be put to practical use by builders, plumbers and artisans generally. A new device, constructed by Dr. W. D. Coolidge and his associates in the Research Laboratory of the General Electric Company plant in Schenectady, N. Y., weighs only 30 pounds and is connected to the nearest available electric light socket. Then, with the fluoroscope, builders and plumbers can look through walls to locate broken pipes and wires and the like. The upper photograph shows a mechanic looking through a wall, and the lower shows a photographic reproduction of a water pipe with nails driven all around it.

MAGIC WAND OF FATE UPSETS GRID DOPE BUCKET IN LAST SATURDAY'S GAMES

By David J. Walsh
I. N. S. Sport Editor

New York, Nov. 11—Fate absolutely despot over all things mortal, waved a magic wand on Saturday and lo there was a hitherto discredited Princeton team, playing football such as no Tiger outfit ever played before Chicago getting a 21-all tie with the great Illini. Rutgers warming all over LaFayette, Washington, getting a tie with the California and West Virginia Wesleyan winning over Syracuse.

In consequence of many disasters Illinois, Notre Dame, Pennsylvania Dartmouth, Yale California, Alabama and Rutgers remained as unbeaten team and of these Illinois, Dartmouth Yale, California and Rutgers have lost caste playing tie games.

On the other hand Syracuse and Ohio State were beaten for the first time annd another pair, Harvard and LaFayette, were so thoroughly annihilated by Princeton and Rutgers respectively that they never be the same.

If the writer had anything to do with it which he hasn't he would move the football capital of the country to South Bend, Indiana, and let hs critics do their worst. Notre Dame again showed its downright class by beating Wisconsin, 38 to 3 and is riding high on the crest of national dominance.

If any team in the country could have beaten Princeton on Saturday that team was Notre Dame.

Men of the wideopen west find that statement difficult of mastication. They will point to the fact that Notre Dame was five touchdowns better than Princeton a few weeks ago and that therefore not only the Irish, but Illinios, Chicago, Nebraska, Michigan and Western teams without end could and can beat Princeton But they missed seeing a modern miracle enacted when Princeton swamped Harvard 34 to 0, a Princeton that was one thousand percent better than the team that faced Notre Dame.

If the west accepts Chicago for its socalled moral victory over Illinois, and it should, it must also accept Princeton for what it was on Saturday.

However, records will be records and an indifferent early season must rob the greatest Princeton team of the modern generation of national recognition. The Chicago tie in a lesser sense will deprive the Illini of their top rank rating, unless Notre Dame, Stanford, Pennsylvania and Alabama are beaten in one of their remaining games.

Where the Hairpins Go

There is a very charming fairy story written concerning the land where all lost points go, says the St. Joseph News-Press. So completely do vast quantities of pins disappear from human sight that it seems there must be some magic in their vanishment. But the pretty fairy story is far from the sordid reality of the discovery, the other day, of many of the lost pins, especially hairpins. When sheriffs raided squatters who were occupying shacks on the Chicago dump, a pile of thirty tons of wire articles, mostly hairpins, was discovered.

The discarded hairpins covered a space fifty feet square and the pile was four feet deep. Evidently girls and women who bobbed their hair had thrown away their collection of hairpins and those who profit from sorting trash had assembled the remarkable collection. Freedom from the thralldom of pins sticking into or pressing their heads is said to be one of the great advantages of women's shorn locks, though facetious men have complained that the loss of this household article means the deprivation of handy nutpicks and of a wire to hold damaged galluses. Yet their alleged consternation is nothing in comparison with the plight of hairpin manufacturers.

TWO CERTAINTIES ON ALL AMERICAN

Sport writers and other gentlemen who devote themselves every winter to choosing "All American" football teams, supposed to include the pick of the best players of the land, may rest assured that they have two positions already filled.

It would be practically an impossibility to keep Adam Walsh, of Notre Dame, off the "All American" eleven this year, which is supposed to represent any football judgment in its selection. Although Walsh was injured in the Army game this year, and has not seen much action since, he is perhaps one of the greatest centers of all time in American football, and is one of the main cogs in Notre Dames' offense and defense this season.

The other "great" player, is also probably one of the greatest of all time, and is being ranked on equal terms with Jim Thorpe, the great Indian star, and Eddie Mahan, at one time with Harvard. "Red" Grange, the Illinois half back, is without a doubt a fine "All American" prospect. This thought is set in the minds of a majority of the big sport writers in the country and his triumphs in recent games, have proven that they are right.

SAYRE AIDS MATES KEEP TOP OF LOOP

Richard Sayre, former Central High gridiron star, formerly with the Dayton University football team, and now playing with Potters Tramps, leading semi-pro football team in Cinnati, helped his teammates retain the leadership of the league Sunday afternoon, when the Potters succeeded in scoring one touchdown in the last period that tied the C. A. C. eleven, 6 to 6.

The Potters team is made up chiefly of former college stars, and boasts of such well known players as Davis, half, formerly of St. Xavier College, picked by many experts as "All Western' material last year, Cushing of St. Xavier and Linneman, Cincinnati University star.

KILONIS DEFEATS GATSOFF IN EAGLES WRESTLING PROGRAM

The wrestling show Monday night at the Eagles Hall was productive of some classy wrestling in spite o' the fact that the main bout between Tom Pappas, of Springfield and Bill Brooks, of Wilmington, both former Xenians, failed to come off.

Pappas was on hand for the match but Brooks failed to put in his appearance, with the result that the lodge barred him from participating in future mat shows held under its auspices in this city.

The match between George Gatsoff, of Massillon, and Harry Kilonis, of Norfolk, Va., was not lacking in interest, and these two well known welterweight performers, put on an exhibition of the mat game that was a sight for sore eyes.

After twenty-eight minutes of desperate wrestling, Kilonis succeeded in making Gatsoff admit that he was bested, and the first fall went to Kilonis with a double toe hold.

The tables were turned in the next fall, and this time it was Gatsoff who forced his opponent to admit defeat, taking the second fall in seventeen and one-half minutes with a wrist lock.

The third and deciding fall was probably the best of the encounter. Both participants got themselves into precarious positions time and again but their expert knowledge of the game, never failed them in the pinches for about twenty-six minutes, until Kilonis pinned his adversary's shoulders to the mat, with an arm and leg lock.

When the wrestlers attempted to rise, and disengage themselves from their holds, it was found that they were locked so tight together, that they were unable to be parted.

With the asistance of Referee Harry Spencer and Tom Pappas, wrestler, their hold was finally broken, but Gatsoff was without the use of his arm for almost fifteen minutes, supposedly cramped by the hold.

The curtain raiser furnished the fans some interesting wrestling. Kid Black, of Springfield, took on Wilbur Strobridge a high school boy, of this city, who succeeded in staying with his Springfield opponent the allotted fifteen minutes, much to the surprise of the fans.

FORMER COLLEGE STAR TO PERFORM WITH IMPERIALS

James McKeough, former halfback on Dépaul University football team, will make his appearance Sunday afternoon at Washington Park with the Imperials.

McKeough, who is a cousin of Manager Wones, is visiting here for several weeks and he has been induced to don the moleskins Sunday. McKeough is tall, fast and shifty and is said to be a good broken field runner. He can also pass and kick fairly well and his addition to the team will help not a little.

The Imperial management has no game booked to date but will make a trip to Dayton Tuesday in an effort to line up some good team in or around Dayton preferably West Carrolton, Trotwood, Sidney or Piqua. Nothing but the best 160 pound clubs will be brought to do battle with the locals, so in this way the fans can be sure of seeing a high class football game every Sunday. Manager Wones also wishes to announce that on November 30 at Washington Park his club will meet the East Side A. C.'s in a game to determine the city championship. When these teams hook up Manager Bill Rickman will have several college stars in his lineup and the team that he is figuring on will make the Imperials step to come out on top.

Given Life Sentence.

Cadillac, Mich., Nov. 11.—Alfred Madison, confessed wife slayer, was sentenced to life imprisonment after he had pleaded guilty to first degree murder. Expressing a wish to "have it over with," Madison rejected offers of his family to provide a defense. He confessed that he killed his young wife on the night of July 24 and threw her body into the Manistee river, near Mesik, where it was discovered a month ago.

Redecorating Furniture

An old chest of drawers that has become badly chipped at the sides and scratched around the key holes may be transformed into a new piece of furniture by painting it and decorating with panels of cretonne or chintz. The cretonne or chintz panels should match the draperies used in the room and harmonize with the paint on the chest of drawers. They are best attached by gluing. Use best quality liquid glue and finish off each panel by gluing into place a narrow edging of ribbon or braid.

RED CROSS WORKERS IN JAMESTOWN WILL GATHER WEDNESDAY

Red Cross Roll Call workers, under the chairmanship of Miss Emma Blaine and Mrs. Braden Smith, will meet Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, at the Jamestown Church of Christ.

Among the things done by the Red Cross in the past year in Silvercreek Township was the inspection of 300 school children. Of these 179 had defective vision, 160 had defective teeth, seventy-one nasal obstruction, 108 defective throats, thirty enlarged glands, seven-two were seven per cent or more underweight and fourteen were twenty per cent or more overweight.

Follow-up calls were made on some of the parents. Parents of children are told the need of having minor defects cared for to prevent serious defects developing later.

One patient was examined at the chest clinic, two children were operated on at the tonsil and adenoid clinic, and six children at the Rotary clinic. One child with a defective arm had an X-ray taken of his arm showing old tubercular condition which was non-operative. A representative from the State Department of Special Education came to see one child to try to arrange for education. Arrangement was made for the examination of a woman with an eruption on her face which was feared to be infectious.

Arrangement was made for the examination of a goitre patient and an operation would have been made possible if it had been required. A wife of a soldier was advised regarding hospital care and preparation. Advice was given several tubercular patients as how to protect their families and care for themselves. Service was given several ex-soldiers and civilians. Information was secured for one man whose family was having difficulty getting a passport from a foreign country to join him in America.

Travel in Comfort

These black kid shoes with the semi-Colonial tongue offer the utmost in style and comfort for traveling. The porous quality of this leather makes it supreme in comfort, without sacrifice of style. The trim adds a smart note.

Where the strength is limited massage will enable one to get much of the same benefit that is acquired in ordinary muscular effort. Therefore a little massage on going to bed, on arising, or at any time that one may feel like it will be beneficial. One may use cocoa butter, or olive oil, in connection with it, but this is chiefly for its effect upon the skin itself if it is dry. One really does not need anything but the bare hands.

If one can enjoy the services of a professional masseur, that will simplify matters. Sometimes another member of the family who is "handy" in such things may be available. If no such assistance is to be had, it is still possible for one to administer self-massage. You need not be an expert in order to get results, although it is always, best to understand the fundamental principles. For instance, to improve the circulation it is desirable that the blood in the veins should be helped on its way to the heart. For this reason, where the limbs are concerned, it is advisable always to make all massage movements upward toward the heart.

Where the legs are concerned it is well that they should be elevated while the subject lies on his back, for this position will naturally help the drainage of the blood in the veins, through the force of gravity. This in itself, is restful.

The chief types of massage movements consist of stroking, kneading, circular movements, tapping, or percussion and vibration. The technical names for these general types of massage are Effleurage, including the stroking movements; Petrissage, including the kneading movements; Friction, as the circular movements are called; Tapotement, applied to the tapping or percussion movements; and Vibration, which is self-explanatory. Vibration is largely applied by mechanical devices that impart a shaking or vibratory impulse, but it may be applied by the hands.

Effleurage, or stroking is applied chiefly to the surface tissues, though a certain quality of kneading may be imparted to it by the application of sufficient pressure. The stroking movements are very nerve soothing.

Petrissage is more effective for the deeper tissues.

He said good night in a low tone and turned away. Joan went up to her room. She lay down, but did not undress. She was afraid, and she admitted that she was afraid, and nothing but Lancaster's desperate need of her would have kept her an hour longer in the institute. But she was exhausted from the day, and soon she was asleep.

She slept that sleep which brings no recreation for the jaded body or the overwrought mind. All the while she was back with Lancaster in his room below, in spirit. She knew that, as he had said, the drug bondage was only the climax of his difficulties. What had there been that had wrecked the man? Jenkins' hint at stolen funds? Of one thing she was sure: Lancaster, sunken as he was, was incapable of dishonesty. No, she must have placed a wrong construction on Jenkins' words.

And in her sleep her brain went on puzzling over the problem. Only her body was quiescent, and it lay wearily in the bed like some chained captive.

But suddenly the urgent summons of the brain shook from it the trammels of sleep. Joan listened intently, awake upon the instant, as some wild creature of the woods that senses danger. Somebody was coming along the corridor.

The footfalls were so soft and stealthy that she might have thought she was dreaming but for the sense of imminent danger, the knowledge of some malevolent design. The steps stopped and began again, the merest touches of sound against the silence of night, the lightest patter of bare feet outside the door.

Then the door began to open.

There was no moon, and the faint starlight outside only seemed to render darker the obscurity within. Yet, through the darkness Joan knew that a hand lay on the door jamb, and that a figure watched her across the room.

She leaped from her bed. "Who's there?" she called, in tones that seemed to shock the silence.

She could see nothing now, and she dared not turn aside to light her lamp. She knew that the figure was crouching somewhere. She heard the softest breathing, but could not locate it in the room. She felt the atmosphere of evil that surrounded her. She started to cross the room, groping, with arms outstretched. Then she found the intruder and flung herself upon it.

Joan thought it was a woman's hands she held. Her fingers sought the menace in the closed fists. The left hand of the intruder was empty; but in the right was a jagged piece of a broken tumbler that tinkled to the floor.

As it fell, the other leaped at her as if strung upon wires. Joan saw, very dimly, the face of Mrs. Dana. She was in her nightdress, with her feet bare, and the ferocity of her attack seemed atrocious in contrast with the expressionless, masklike features. Only the eyes seemed alive, and they burned with implacable hatred, as if they meditated revenge for all the accumulation of a life's wrongs.

The woman bore Joan backward. The lamp fell crashing to the floor in a debacle of splintered glass. A chair was overturned. Mrs. Dana's hands sought Joan's throat, and they struggled in the darkness, crashing here and there, upsetting the water pitcher, smashing into the swinging door. Underneath her Joan heard Mrs. Fraser moving, and doors opening. There were steps on the stairs.

For a few moments Joan felt no match for the onset of the madwoman. But Mrs. Dana's impulse was soon exhausted. Joan got her arms about her body, pressing down the other's arms to her sides. Mrs. Dana suddenly became passive, and the lights in the eyes seemed to go out like extinguished candles as the brain clouded. Joan got the woman into the corridor. At the farther end a little lamp was burning.

"Did she hurt you?" she gasped. "How did she get out? Who let her out? I should have told you she was dangerous, but I never dreamed that she could pick that lock. Did she—did she try to harm you?"

"She had a piece of glass," said Joan, "but I took it away from her."

"There was no glass in her room last evening," said the matron with conviction.

Lancaster was approaching. Joan was astounded to see the look of anger on his face. "Who opened that door?" he shouted.

"You are responsible for this!" he cried. "You know my one point that has to be carried out. I told you to have a bolt put on the door after she got out before."

"Now, now, doctor, don't excite yourself," said the secretary soothingly. "You're a sick man, you know. It was unfortunate, but I'll see it doesn't happen again."

DOWN AND OUT MOTHER COMES BACK; SURPRISES ENTIRE FAMILY

She had worked, loved and was happy in doing for her children, and when she started to decline they were most downhearted and willing to do almost anything to make her last years happy and free from worry and illness. Nothing they did seemed to help—doctors, medicines or rest gave no results.

Finally, when all were about desperate with worry a neighbor induced them to try Kath, as it had worked such wonders with her mother. Ready to grasp at any help they got a supply and the way their mother improved from the start was almost too good to believe. It was only about six weeks before she had completely recovered and was doing her housework, happy and contented, as of old. It sure was a happy and reunited family and they are all recommending Kath to their friends now.

Doctors the world over will tell you that Kath, composed of fresh extracts of Glands, Phosphates, Iron and Herbs, will build up and restore strength and energy against old age and nervous breakdowns. One of our leading physicians says:

"The results I have obtained with Kath gland tonic have been wonderful; especially with elderly men and women where it was necessary to build up strength and revive bodily functions, Kath has given them renewed youth, life, strength and health."

"No one should despair or even think of giving up when they can build themselves up to healthy, vigorous womanhood and manhood and regain their strength, happiness and youthful appearance with only a few weeks' use of Kath."

Note—Kath is a scientific combination of the extracts of fresh, organic glands, vitamins, roots and herbs. Kath will both stimulate and enrich the glands, and organs to supply a greatly increased supply of nerve force and vitality.

Any one who, after a few weeks' use of Kath, does not feel better and look better in every way, can get their money back.

HOUSEWARMING WILL OPEN BEAUTIFUL NEW STRUCTURE TO PUBLIC

One of the handsomest dry goods stores to be found in any city of this size in the state will formally open to the public Thursday morning, November 13 when the Jobe Bros. store, East Main Street will receive its patrons and friends at a "housewarming" after a campaign of extensive remodeling covering a period of six months.

The store throughout is a splendid example of art as applied to a modern commercial home. The practical, every day needs of the business are provided for with fixtures that are attractive in every detail.

The entire front of the store has been re-surfaced with Grey Bedford stone following the Italian rennaisance style of architecture, with iron grills that outline the bases of the long casement windows. The effect is simple, dignified and highly artistic. The two large show windows which flank either side of the deep entrance are finished with natural caen stone and have hardwood floors. The French doors in the rear of each window are draped with velvet hangings that add a rich note to the window decorations. A large marquise over the entrance is finished with hand cut glass prisms and incandescent lights and forms a decorative feature that is in harmony with the architecture of the building.

The inside of the store has been changed extensively. The brick wall which formerly divided the building has been removed from basement to roof and a new steel structure put in. Large square pillars support the structure on both lower and upper floors and add a note of substantial dignity to the spacious rooms, formed by the removal of the wall. Practically all new fixtures have been installed on the first floor. The show cases and wall shelving are all of mahogany and are of the newest type. New long glass cases give ample room for the effective display of fancy merchandise. The elevator and stairway have been removed from the west side to the east side of the building and a new Otis elevator installed. A wide stairway, finished with brown mahogany has been put in near the elevator shaft and extends to the top of the building. The stock in the rear of the first floor has been changed, the shoe department moved from the west to the east side while the domestics and bedding have been changed to the rear of the west side. The offices in the rear of the first floor have been entirely refinished.

The second floor has been entirely re-arranged. The ready to wear department occupies the entire front section of the room giving it three times the floor space it formerly occupied. Back of it on the east side is the infant department and on the west side is the millinery department and millinery work rooms. In the rear of the second floor is a large rest room which has been most invitingly fitted up for the convenience of the public, with couches, easy chairs, writing desks and other equipment. The walls of the second floor have been redecorated in a soft cream shade, the entire floor space has been covered with deep pile Wilton velvet carpet in a taupe shade, and the long casement windows are shaded with Austrian puffed curtains of pongee silk. Handsome new mahogany show cases have been installed and new long, alcove mirrors allow the customer complete view of the garments being tried. Several ample sized tryon rooms, fitted with large mirrors, are features of the ready-to-wear department. The ready-to-wear alteration room extends along the east wall near the elevator.

The third floor, now used as a stock room, has been attractively finished and can at any time be converted into a sales department. A Lamson Pneumatic Tube System is used to handle the sales for the entire store. A new basement has been put in under the entire building with entrance for freight in the rear. The store is heated with an American Radiation steam heating plant installed by Phillip Jordan and Son, local plumbers. The plant is the latest improved model with relief valves that keeps the heat always uniform.

Pretzinger and Musselman, Dayton architects, conceived, planned and supervised the construction of the handsome new building, under the personal direction of E. P. Musselman. Thus the departure from the usual style of commercial architecture has made the structure a thing of beauty as well as an efficiently arranged and commodious home for the store. Its exterior beauty is a big contribution to the attractiveness of Xenia's business center.

Jeffryes and Fudge, Xenia, general contractors, created the magical transformation in the building. Under their direction the shell of the old store was torn away to make room for the new . Heaton and Schweibold, had charge of the brick and the stone work, setting the handsome stones that form the front of the building. George McDonnell, stone contractor, carved the stones according to the original designs that carry out the architectural style.

Ed Thurman, Xenia, painter and decorator, added the inside touches that make the interior attractive. Roy Bayliff, Xenia electrical contractor, added the new wiring and handsome lighting fixtures. George Behm and son, Dayton, were the plate glass contractors, setting the big display windows in the new-style ornamental display framer. The Champion Bridge Company, Wilmington, furnished and installed the structural iron that formed the skeleton on which the new store was built.

Charles Wuichet and Son, Dayton, furnished and installed the metal work and roofing and the Bedford stone from which the front was constructed, was quarried by the National Stone Company, at Bloomington, Ind. John G. Pool, Dayton, furnished the ornamental iron work that added a last touch of beauty to the exterior and A. K. Musselman, Dayton, was the plasterer.

George Dodds and Sons, Xenia, furnished beautiful ornamental bronze nameplates. The Grand Rapids Show Case Company, Grand Rapids, Mich., supplied handsome new display fixtures for the interior. The Otis Elevator Company, Cincinnati, Ohio, added a new and improved style elevator. The Lamson Company, Cincinnati put in a modern tube change system. The Weiffenbach Marble and Tile Company, Dayton, furnished the handsome marble work.

The Schachne Studios, Dayton, supplied the beautiful draperies that add the beauty of the interior. The Dayton Lumber and Manufacturing Company, Dayton and the F. A. Requarth Company, Dayton, supplied the mill work and the building lumber was furnished by the Greene County Lumber Company, and the McDowell and Torrence Lumber Company, both of Xenia. Finishing hardware was obtained from the J. B. Schroder Company, Cincinnati, O.

Late James L. M'Gervey Is Given Tribute By C. L. Jobe

James L. McGervey

The personnel of the Jobe Bros. store has always been locally noted for efficiency, quiet courtesy and cordiality, but perhaps no other one person connected with the organization has been so universally esteemed for these characteristics as was the late James L. McGervey who for years was associated with Mr. Jobe in business, first as an instructor in the days when Mr. Jobe was beginning his career as a clerk in the E. Millen and Co. store on Green Street and later as a valued employee in the Jobe Bros. store.

For twenty years Mr. McGervey was in charge of the yard goods department of the store and his genial courtesy and unfailing kindliness brought hundreds of customers to the store. As a business advisor he was highly valuable and his services are recalled by Mr. Jobe with a feeling of warm veneration and friendship. In speaking of the large part which Mr. McGervey had taken in the development of the business of the store Mr. Jobe said:

"I never knew another man quite like him. He was a real prince in character. His life was bound up in his home, his church and his business. His wonderful personality meant much to this store. I gratefully acknowledge my debt to him and feel that a history of this store would be incomplete without a tribute to the man whose life was so closely connected with it."

Mr. McGervey, who was a member of one of the most prominent of the older families of the city, was active in church and social affairs and was widely known throughout the community. He died in March 1908.

MONEY AT WORK

Other but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments

Just how much does the United States export?

To give figures in dollars and cents or in tons and bushels for the amount this nation exports would be foolish because it would not furnish a proper basis for comparison, in such a short article as this. Taking all of the exports of the United States together, it is found that the nation exports about 7 per cent of its total production.

Anything very much above this figure will start a wave of prosperity and anything very much below that used to start a depression. Much of this depression due to a lack of foreign trade is on the road to being eliminated as the United States and Canada offer such enormous markets that this extra, exportable 7 per cent can probably be sold and used to good purpose without exporting.

Of course, this 7 per cent figure will not do for any one commodity. It is a figure based on all commodities. For example, in normal years the United States sells about 25 per cent of its wheat crop abroad.

BREAKING UP THE ATOM NOW SEEMS LIKELY TO SCIENCE

London, Nov. 11 The breaking up of the atom and the control of resultant energy, mightiest dream of modern science, is about to be realizd.

That, at least, is the prediction of Dr. T. F. Wall, of Sheffield University who for the last six months has been experimenting with the "death ray" machine with which he now believes he will be able to direct such a tremendous amount of electrical energy upon a small amount of matter that the atom will be broken up.

Already he has been able to project almost 700,000 horsepower of electrical energy upon a small object, and he expects exciting results when he is able to increase this amount.

Dr. Wall is working carefully and fearfully. The power so generated can be kept on for only a few seconds after which it is necessary to let the apparatus cool off. Dr. Wall fears that the generation of still more power may result in an explosion which will blow up the entire university, of which the laboratory is a part. For that reason he is proceeding cautiously.

If the energy released by the breaking up of the atom can be controlled startling results may be expected. Sir Oliver Lodge once expressed the opinion that th energy stored in one ounce of matter, if it could be used mechanically, would be sufficient to raise the entire sunken German fleet from the North Sea bed and pile it on top of a Scottism mountain.

There are skeptics who declare the atom will never be broken up but Dr. Wall works serenely on hopeful of announcing a successful completion of his work in the near future.

XENIANS GOT THEIR NEWS IN CONDENSED FORM IN YEAR 1888

Since Xenians were placed in touch with events in Congress, the House, the Senate, domestic, foreign, personal and political, once a week, the weekly issue of the Xenia Republican gave the news of the week to its readers in condensed form.

During the week of February 7, 1888, the week that saw the inauguration of Jobe Brothers Store at Main and Whiteman Streets, the following events of interest took place:

Congress: The House bill making appropirations in carry into effect the law establishing expermental stations at the agricultural college was reported from the Committee on Appropriations and passed; in the House a bill was passed to prevent aliens from pre-empting and entering homesteads, to place salt upon the free list; and to abolish the tax on oleomargarine.

Domestic: Earthquake shocks were felt in many places in Main, New Hampshire and Vermont on the morning of the first, no damage reported; the stock of every wholesale liquor dealer in Des Moines, Ia., was seized on the first under decision ruling that permits to sell liquor for legal purposes can be used only by persons to whom they are issued. Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, has issued a circular addressed to "working men and sympathizers of the laborers" reminding them that Milwaukee beer is made by non-union men and advising them to act accordingly; business failures occuring throughout the country, during the seven days ending February 3 number for the United States 247 and for Canada 32 a total of 279 as compared with a total of 317 the previous week.

INGROWN NAIL

A few drops of "Outbro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nails reduce inflammation and pain and so loosens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night. Adv.

Mrs. Ella Douglas and Mrs. Esther Wilson take care of the work in the ready-to-wear alteration room.

The personnel of the store offices consists of Earl Bloom, assistant manager, Miss Florence Swan, auditor and in charge of credits and Miss Alice Whittington the cashier,

Xenia merchants have evidently learned the lesson "It pays to advertise."

Glancing through the newspaper files of thirty-six years ago, this among many other interesting facts, is brought to the attention of the reader. News of that day was scarce and briefly told, if any. The advertisers of that day have been marked with business success until the present, among the business houses that have survived the years.

The pages recording the events of 1888 throw back a vision of the Xenia of yesteryear. Through the advertisements of that day, we learn that Jones, Spahr and Company was among the drug firms of the city.

Moore and Broadstone, undertakers and embalmers were located on East Market Street.

W. H. Sillito, who now has a dental office in the Steele Building was a member of the firm of Watt and Sillito,, dentists in an office over the Second National Bank Building.

At that time, the Fred J. H. Schell jewelry store was located on South Detroit Street.

Fulton and Thompson, dealers in men's furnishings were located on East Main Street, and advertised the latest thing in men's apparel.

The day of old Dobbin was at its crest then and the J. H. Kyle livery stable on North Whiteman Street, was doing a thriving business.

The Chandler Brothers Coal Company was located on South Detroit Street. William Keller cabinet maker, had a shop in the rear of Joshua Wolf's Hardware Store.

TRACTION COMPANY WANTS TO ABANDON CITY CAR SERVICE

Nothing of importance is scheduled to transpire at the City Commission meeting Thursday night at the City Hall outside of possible discussion of the new traffic ordinance recently given its second reading by the commission, it is said.

Amendments may possibly be made to the ordinance it was declared by City Manager S. O. Hale, in the clause pertaining to main "thoroughfares." The state law regarding main thoroughfares, provides that all intercounty highways, main market roads andstreets with traction lines, be accorded the title of main thoroughfares.

It is the concensus of opinion among the commissioners, it is said, that the state law be followed in the new ordinance regarding main thoroughfares, instead of having everal main streets be termed as such.

If the latter was the case, it would mean that every small intersecting street would have to be supplied with signs, at the intersection , with the words "stop" printed upon them, according to the state law.

Another question that may be discussed, is the application of the Dayton, Springfield and Xenia Southern Railway Company, for a new franchise, although it is not thought likely that there will be much discussion as no ordinance has been drawn up.

The old franchise of the traction company, in use for the last twenty years, expired about October 1, it was said. And the application for a new one contains several new clauses.

According to officials of the company, the city car line running from the heart of the city, to the O. S. and S. O. Home and on East Main Street to the end of the street, has been unprofitable.

With this inmindfi the application asks for authorization to remove the tracks on South Detroit Street, but leave the tracks on East Main Street and discontinue the service of both lines, retaining enough track on South Detroit Street to let the Dayton-Xenia car turn around.

OHIO CORN CLUB MAY GET NO NEW MEMBERS OFFICIALS DECLARE

Honors in corn growing, as measured by members in the Ohio 100-Bushel Corn Club, are going to be few and for between this year. So far with most of the membership applications in and the fields measured, no one has qualified.

This is the report of Wallace E. Hanger, farm crops extension specialist at the Ohio State University and in charge of the corn club since its foundation in 1917. The club requires that each applicant for membership grow 100 bushels of corn an acre on a 10 acre field. The state average is about 40 bushels an acre.

Little more than half of the 42 entries this year have as yet been checked up by the department, but from the results already obtained and the low yield of corn in general Mr. Hanger doubts whether there will be any new members added to the list this year. The highest yields so far have not exceeded 95 bushels per acre, wth the average near 80.

Since the first entries in 1917 there have been 42 different men in Ohio who have grown 100 bushels of corn or more per acre. In 19[illegible] there was only one new member added with an average yield of 101.93 bushels per acre. Eighteen men became members in 1920, the top man growing 123.24 bushels per acre in 1922, only seven new members, but one man of the seven grew 134.31 bushels per acre, making a state and world record.

CHICKENS $2.50 DOZEN IN 1888!

"Chickens, per dozen, dressed, $2.50."

Eggs were twenty cents a dozen. Lard was eight cents a pound, and sides of bacon were the same price.

Potatoes sold for $1.00 per bushel, butter twenty cents a pound. These prices were quoted by A. M. Stark, local dealer.

Heller and Company quoted wheat at eighty-cents, oats, thirty-four; corn, forty-seven; rye, forty-eight; and cloverseed, four dollars per bushel. Timothy seed was $2.60 per bushel and hay was $12.00 per ton. Corn meal was sixty cents per bushel.

Getting Too Fat? Try This—Reduce

People who don't get too fat are the fortunate exception. But if you find the fat accumulating or already cumbersome, you will be wise to follow this suggestion, which is endorsed by thousands of people who know. Ask your druggist for Marmola Prescription Tablets and follow directions. One dollar is the price the world over. Get them from your own druggist or send price direct to Marmola Co., General Motors Bldg., Detroit, Mich. # BUSINESS CAREER CLIMAXES IN NEW DEPARTMENT STORE

Years of quiet, efficient, wholehearted devotion to business affairs have brought the measure of success which makes possible the handsome business houses which C. L. Jobe, proprietor of Jobe Brothers store, will formally open to the public November, 13.

Mr. Jobe, who was born and reared on a farm near this city, began his business career in the spring of 1878 when he came to this city and accepted a position as clerk in the store of Millen, Jobe and Co., where his uncle, Harvey Jobe, was a member of the firm. As was customary in that day Mr. Jobe's duties were varied and included building the fires and sweeping out the store.

In the sales work he was placed under the instruction of the late James McGervey, who was in charge of the dress goods department of the store. Mr. McGervey was a salesman of exceptional ability and gave the young clerk valuable instruction in merchandising and general business management. After spending a year in the store, Mr. Jobe resigned his position to attend college and was a student for a time at Monmouth College, Monmouth, Ill., and Wooster University, Wooster Ohio. He then took a position with the Hutchison and Gibney Company but in 1885 returned to the store where he held his first position. His uncle had in the mean time, retired from the firm which had been re-organized as Millen and Co., located in a room at Green and Market Streets.

James McGervey was practically manager of the store until 1887 when Mr. Millen retired from business and closed out the store.

Mr. Jobe then formed a business partnership with H. C. Hardy of Columbus, and February 1, 1888 opened store in the room at Main and Whiteman Streets, where the Orpheum Theater is now located. Mr. McGervey went with Mr. Jobe in his first business venture and had charge of the yard goods department, a position that he held throughout the remainder of his life. The other persons who made up the first store personnel were Miss Rose Gahagen, J. Rylie Jobe, Miss Lou Spahr, Miss Nellie Haines and Miss Maud Matthews.

In August 1890 the store was moved to what was known as the Allison and Townsley room in the building which the firm now occupies. The room comprised the west half of the present store room In March 1891 J. Rylie Jobe, bought out the interests of Mr. Hardy and become a partner with his brother under the firm name of Jobe Brothers and Company. The partnership was a most congenial one and continued successfully until it was terminated by the death of Rylie Jobe which occurred September 20 1910.

The growing business of the firm soon made the one room in which the store was located inadequate to handle the trade, so in 1907 the firm rented the store room adjoining on the east, that had been occupied by the firm of Alexander and Spahr. The removal of part of the wall between the two rooms in the front and rear gave the firm the use of both rooms. In 1917 C. L. Jobe purchased the buildings, which have just been so extensively remodeled.

From time to time the firm has added or discarded different departments, until today, the store is a complete woman's ready to wear department store. In 1894 the millinery department was installed and the carpets and floor coverings department was discontinued. In March, 1899 the shoe department was installed. The store now offers opportunity for women to be completely outfitted without having to go outside the building for a single article.

Since the death of his brother in 1910 Mr. Jobe has conducted the business alone. In 1916 he made his son-in-law Karl Bloom assistant manager. Miss Florence Swan is the efficient auditor and credit manager and has rendered highly valuable service in the affairs of the store. Mr. Jobe has the hearty cooperation of a loyal organization and is looking forward to greatly enlarged opportunity for service in the more modernly equipped remodeled store.

MARRIAGE TAKES PLACE AT PARSONAGE

Miss Goldie M. Cox, of Gladsone and Mr. James D. Hyland, of Buffalo, N. Y. were married at the parsonage of Trinity M. E. Church, the Rev. V. F. Brown officiating, Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

The couple was unattended. The bride wore a gown of dark blue silk with hat to match. Mrs. Hyland has been teaching school at South Solon, Ohio.

Mr. Clifford Hagler, East Third Street, underwent a tonsilectomy operation at the offices of Drs. Madden and Shields, Saturday.

Mrs. Walter R. Harner and daughter Jane spent the week end with Mrs. Harner's mother, in Circleville.

Kids for Kiddies

For the growing child, there should be only one leather, and that is kid. This leather is soft, pliable and flexible, and yields to the slightest pressure. It permits perfect ventilation because of its porous quality, and it contracts and expands with the foot.

Kid clings to the foot as a kid glove to the hand, and because it can be made into graceful, good-looking shoes, it has been accepted as the fashionable thing by the very young set. Black or brown kid for simple little dresses; white for the more elaborate garden-party frocks of mid-summer. The one-strap, square-toed shoe is attractive and very popular; the Colonial slipper is always in favor as a dress shoe

AUTO CLUB ISSUES WARNING AGAINST BOGUS CHECK MEN

A warning has been issued to Xenia tire, accessory and gasoline dealers to take the utmost precautions in receiving large checks for small purchases, by the Greene County Automobile Club. According to the Auto Club, attention is being called to officials of the operation of a swindle game, being practiced in all sections of the state.

According to club officials, the scheme is to purchase a tire or gasoline, present a large check, the amount being larger than the purchase price, and receive in addition to the purchased article, a quantity of change. A number of bogus checks have been issued throughout the state signed by H. Kelly officials of the club say.

MOTORISTS OBSERVE PARKING ORDINANCE

As a result of action taken by the officials of the Greene County Automobile Club, in asking City Manager S. O. Hale to have the old parking law enforced, and the willing co-operation of the police in enforcing the ordinance, there was little or no violation of the rule Saturday night, it was said Monday.

The parking ordinance passed in 1915 by the old city council, declared that machines shall not park back of vehicles already parked, unless because of motor trouble, accidents, or intervention of authorities.

Violation of this rule had become a "nuisance" in the city on Saturday especially, according to officials of the Auto Club, and a resolution was passed last week by directors of the club, authorizing Dilver Belden, secretary, to ask that the ordinance be strictly enforced.

Police enforced the ordinance Saturday night, and at 8 o'clock, probably the busiest time in the evening, no machines were noticed parking in violation of the rule.

Fans and Foibles

Now that fans are being carried all the year round they make acceptable gifts, and are surprisingly inexpensive if made at home. The fan here illustrated was made by gluing satin ribbon to a purchased wooden stick foundation. Decorative flower motifs cut from figured satin were attached to the satin with liquid glue.

The dainty little pin cushion was also dressed with ribbon, gathered on the thread of its own selvage and lepaged into place.

COOLIDGE RECEIVES CONGRATULATIONS.

President Calvin Coolidge has been overwhelmed with congratulations on his overwhelming election. He is shown in his office with G. Bascom Slemp, his secretary, and Assistant Secretary Clark, going over some of the telegrams that poured into the White House.

GOLD FROM MERCURY IN TINY GRAINS MADE BY JAP SCIENTISTS

Tokyo, Nov. 11—Japan has produced a Midas, perhaps, in the person of Professor Hantaro Nagaoka, who claims to have discovered a process by which pure gold can be manufactured.

Professor Nagaoka disclosed the success of his experiments to a group of research workers at the Physical and Chemical Laboratory here, and showed a piece of gold he had extracted from another element.

Reaching the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, however, will not appreciably affect the world's money market in this case, it is authoritatively declared. The reason for this lies in the fact that the element from which Professor Nagaoka extracts gold is mercury. And the quantity of mercury is so limited, scientists declare, that the amount of gold obtained in this way will have no appreciable effect. The process is known to only a handful of scientists and is being guarded with the utmost secrecy.

This new theory is not like the one by which a German extracted small grains of gold from mercury by means of a mercury lamp. Dr. Nagaoka said the gold extracted by his contemporary was in such small grains that there was no way of testing the method. Apparently the chief advantage of the new method is that a much larger proportion of gold can be separated from a given quantity of mercury. Just what the ratio is has not been stated.

The report which Dr. Nagaoka read to the group of scientists here follows in part:

"Regarding our investigation of the spector rays of the mercury, I, together with Mr. Mishima and Mr. Yoshitkatsu Sugimura, one of my assistants, contributed an article to 'Nature' for March 29 of this year. In that article we held that if our conclusions regarding the composition of the spector rays of mercury were correct, it would follow that alchemy would be within our reach and mercury could be converted into pure gold.

"As for the method of extracting gold, we contended that either the Alpha rays are to be used or some other means must be used for destroying powerful atoms.

"At the time I had already discovered the theory of the method for extracting gold from mercury.

"We did not resort to a mercury lamp or use the Alpha rays. We started on the supposition that part of the given quantity of mercury could be converted into gold by driving out the hydrogen from the metal. After trying various methods for driving the hydrogen out we at last succeeded in converting part of the mercury into gold.

According to Professor Nagaoka the method might perhaps be aplied to other elements which would likewise show various changes.

"The conception of chemical elements is shaken from its foundation," he said, "and the effect is of grave consequence to the present day chemistry and physics. Probably many hitherto unknown metal elements will be produced artificially. The experiment is but a stepping stone to further research for adding new knowledge and for elucidating many difficult problems concerning the atoms."

AUTOMOBILE DEATHS SHOW BIG INCREASE IN 1923 SAYS REPORT

Washington, Nov. 11 During the year 923 more than 22,620 people lost their lives in highway accidents in the United States, the Department of Commerce announced recently. The figure represents an increase of 3,418 over the number of fatalities which occurred in 1922.

This increase, the Department stated, was due largely to the increase of 2,776 deaths from highway accidents, which were recorded as automobile accidents. Even the total number of fatalities from automobile accidents does not tell the complete story. Deaths resulting from collisions between automobiles and railroad trains and street cars were charged under the heading of heavier vehicles.

According to the Department's estimates approximately 21 people out of every 100,000 population lost their lives in highway accidents in 1923 as compared with 18 in 1922.

Collisions between vehicles heavier than automobiles caused the death of 2,000 people in 1923, the Department states and is an extremely conservative estimate. If to this figure be added the fatalities which occurred from automobile and motorcycle collisions, the final 1923 death toll from motor propelled machines on the highways of the United States becomes 18,788, or 83 per cent of the total number of highway fatalities.

Of these highway accidents 2,265 people were killed at railroad crossings during 1923 as against 1,810 in 1922, the Department's announcement stated.

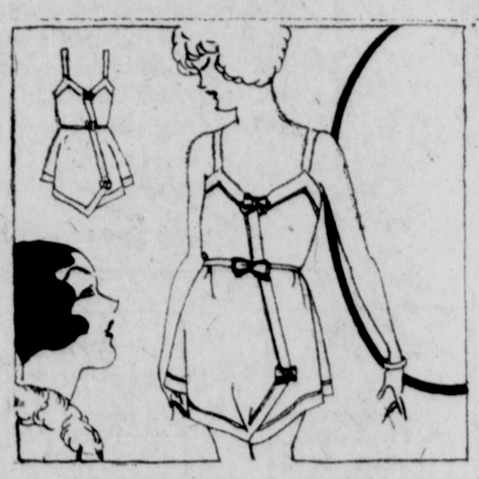
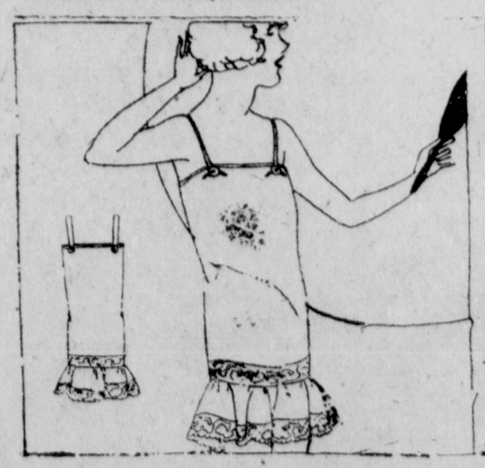
MODISH MITZI—Choose Underwear According to Outerwear By Jay V. Jay



Polly is going to wear a little high waisted Empire dress so she is preparing for it by slipping on this high waisted one piece combination. Fashion calls for so few clothes that those few must be perfect else the silhouette is utterly ruined.

This very simple one piece combination is admirably adapted to the united waistline. Adelaide will wear a very loose dress over it. It would be simple to make for it is just two pieces of crepe de chine bordered with wide lace.



Polly would wear this "comby" with the flounce and no waist line at all if she were going to put on one of the new flounce tunic blouses. The frill ruffle forms the pantaloons.

Mitzi wears a combination which gives the flat front and back effect. It is very good to wear with street clothes. It makes one very slim and tailored looking. It means so much to have one's waistline right, that is, if you are wearing one!

Women Aped Male Attire When Jobe Store was Mere Infant 1888 Paper Shows

Hear ye! Flappers and Twentieth Century folks who have secretly prayed for a well founded come-back to the expressions of horror of the fashions and "goings-on" of today!

To you who want to "show 'em" that the morals of today did not start down the path with the entrance of the movie and naughty literature, here's your answer. For it has been proved that the mothers of the boys and girls of today were subject to the same criticisms that are the bane of the young people of today.

Mother and Dad will probably remember Dr. Talmadge as the "Billy Sunday" of thirty-six years ago. He had his opinions of the evils of that day, and he expressed them loud and long. Here are a few exerpts from his sermon, "Domination of Fashion."

"The man or woman who does not regard fashion is unfit for a good neighborhood," declared Dr. Talmadge. His text was taken from Deut. XXII.5: "The woman shall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man, neither shall a man put on a woman's garment; for all that do so are abomination unto the Lord thy God."

"What a sickening thing it is to see a man copying the speech, the walk, the manner of a woman. The trouble is that they do not imitate a sensible woman, but some female imbecile. O man, be a man! You belong to quite a respectable sex," said the minister.

"Alike repugnant are masculine women. They copy man's stalking gait, and go down the street with the stride of a walking beam. They wish they could smoke cigarettes and some of them do."

There, flappers, tell that to those who say, "Things were never like this when I was a girl!"

Dr. Talmadge goes on to say: "They talk boisterously and try to sing bass. They do not laugh—they roar. They cannot quite manage the broad profanity of the sex they rival, but their conversation is a half swear, and if they said, "O Lord" in earnest prayer as often as they say it in lightness, they would be high up in sainthood.

"Withal there is an assumed rugosity of apparel and they wear a man's hat, only changed by being in two or three pieces smashed in and a dead canary clinging to the general wreck, and a man's coat tucked in here and there, according to an unaccountable esthetics. O woman, stay a woman! You also belong to a very respectable sex.

"My text also sanctions fashion. Indeed, it sets the fashion. There is a great deal of senseless cant on the subject of fashion. A woman or man who does not regard it is unfit for a good neighborhood. The only question is: What is right fashion and what is wrong fashion?

"Before I stop I want to show you that fashion has been one of the most potent of reformers and one of the vilest of usurpers. Sometimes it has been an angel from heaven and at others it has been the mother of abominations. As the world grows better there will be as much fashion as now but it will be a righteous fashion. In the future life white robes have been and always will be in the fashion.

"Truth, honor, charity, heroism, self sacrifice should win highest favor. But unordinate fashion says: 'Count not a woman's virtues, count her adornments. Look not at the contour of her head but see the way she combs her haid. Ask not what noble deeds have been accomplished by that man's hand but is it white and soft. Ask not what good sense is in her conversation but in what was she dressed. Ask not what there was hospitality and cheerfulness in the house, but in what style do they live.'

"Wrong fashion is productive of a most ruinous life. The weapons used in the warfare of social life are not Minnie rifles and Dahlgren guns and Hotchkiss shells, but chair and mirrors and vases and Gobelins and Axminsters.

"Few people are really natural and unaffected. When I say this I do not mean to spit cultured manners. From many circles in life fashion has driven out vivacity and enthusiasm. A frozen dignity instead floats about the room and iceberg grind against iceberg. You must not laugh outright—it is vulgar. You must smile. You must not dance rapidly across the room—you must glide. There's a round of bows and grins and flatteries and ohs and ahs and simperings and namby-pambyisms, a world which is not worth one good round honest peal of laughter. From such a hollow round the tortured guest retires at the close of the evening and assures his host that he has enjoyed himself.

"About twenty years ago I began to pray that God would open to me the opportunity of preaching through the secular newspaper press and in a strange way the answer came," said Dr. Talmadge at the opening of his sermon.

BUSTLE WAS POPULAR

When C. L. Jobe started his career in the drygoods business, styles were in sharp contrast to the simple, comfortable, styles of the present day. The bustle was at the height of its popularity and tight basques gave the hourglass effect. Tiny bonnets, scarcely larger than a man's hand, were the last word in millinery styles and were fastened under the chin with long velvet ties.

WESTERN OHIO AS RICH AN AGRICULTURAL SECTION IN U. S. TELEPHONE SURVEY SHOWS

The Western Agricultural Region of Ohio, embracing Greene and thirty-five other counties or about one-third of the state, is as rich a farming country as there is in the United States, according to the conclusions drawn from an economic survey just completed by the Ohio Bell Telephone Company after more than a year of study.

Excerpts from the report of this survey have just been obtained by H. W. Cleaver, the company's commercial manager here. The survey, which is most exhaustive in its scope, is one which is undertaken at regular intervals by the telephone company to supply the basis of its plans to meet the expansion problems of the future.

It places thirty-six counties in the western Agricultural Region, or about one-third of the State. The rest of the state is divided into the Central Agricultural Region, the Northeastern Industrial Region, the Coal Region, the Scioto Region and the Southwestern Industrial Region.

Xenia is in the western Agricultural Region.

"The Western Agricultural Region embracing thirty-six counties, or about one-third of the state, is so homogeneous that further division is not justified," the Ohio Bell survey report states. "The natural line extending from Sandusky south through Columbus to the Ohio river forms the boundary between this region and the Central Agricultural Region. On the south it merges into the Scioto and the Southwestern Industrial Regions.

"Throughout the whole area agriculture must be considered the principal industry. Most of the cities are distributing centers for the surrounding country, rather than manufacturing centers, like the cities in the northeastern district.

"Throughout the whole area agriculture must be considered the principal industry. Most of the cities are distributing centers for thes urrounding country, rather than manufacturing centers, like the cities in the northeastern district.

"The mineral products of this district are confined to oil found in the Lima-Indiana field extending from Mercer to Ottawa County and lime in the vicinity of Springfield, and also around Marion and Freemont.

"Toledo is the largest city in the Western Agricultural Region and is one of the most important ports on the Great Lakes, having an excellent natural harbor, and better railroad facilities than any other lake city except Chicago.

"The western part of Ohio is about as rich a farming country as there is inthe United States. Corn is the principal crop and over half the state's supply is grown in the Western Agricultural region. About half of the wheat and more than a third of the hay in the state comes from these thirty-six counties.

"About half the value of live stock in the state is furnished by this district, hogs being the most important item. From every standpoint, as indicated by the value of products per acre, and price of land, this is the best farming land in the state. Its superiority is even greater than is evident from the statistics. The black soil in the northern third of the region left by the glacial lake is of the highest fertility and should produce even larger crops than it does. With proper drainage and application of more scientific methods of farming, it should become richer.

"If a line were drawn from the northern part of Darke County, southeast through Columbus, the land within the district and south of that line would constitute the richest agricultural section in the state at present, judged by the value of products. There is every reason for believing it will continue to be as good in the future.

"A regular network of railroads and traction lines covers the whole Western Agricultural Region, giving easy access to all parts of the country and making it possible for the farmer to market his crops without great loss."

Delving into geology, the Ohio Bell survey finds that in the Paleozoic age, the state was split nearly straight down the middle of its back by a line which to this day is moulding the lives of millions of human beings. West of that line is the great agricultural region with a soil as rich as any in the United States—a region of corn, hogs and diversified agriculture.

There are small, but many important cities in the Western Agricultural Region, the survey points out—cities important as distributing centers rather than as industrial ones. East of this line the country is more or less hilly and broken, poorly adapted to agriculture, except in a specialized line. However, it is a region of mines and important industries.

In 1920 Ohio's population was 5,759,394. The telephone company makes the following Ohio predictions for the next three census years:

1950—8,960,000.

A part of the Ohio Bell Company's $60,000,000 expansion program in the next five years is based on the accuracy of these predictions.

FLYER TRANSFERS FREIGHT BY PLANE

The freight is comprised of supplies which the Illinois fields are badly in need of, it was said. They were to be delivered in from four to five hours after they left Wright Field it was said. By rail, the delivery would take approximately two days.

Thirty-six Years Ago-

The St. George Hotel will be remodeled in the spring. The first floor will be made into business rooms, it i said, and an effort will be made to have the post office moved to that vicinity. There is not much doubt that Henry Sanborn, late of the Depot Hotel and Restaurant will be placed in charge, and if he is, the place will be kept in tip-top shape and run in good style.

The Ohio State Journal admits the great need of additional building at the Soldiers' Orphans' Home near this city, but claims that the Legislature cannot make the appropriations on account of the great scarcity of funds.

The ladies of Xenia and Greene County are taking active part in the work of preparations for the Ohio Centennial.

WORK ON PIKE IS NOW COMPLETED

Work on the berms at the sides of the Yellow Springs Pike and Yellow Springs Street in Clark County was completed Monday noon and the road will be thrown open to traffic, according to an announcement from the county surveyor of Clark County Tuesday.

With the exception of a short section of the pike within the village of Yellow Springs, the highway is now completely paved from Springfield to Xenia.

PEAS

The Eavey Company takes pardonable pride in the exceptionally fine quality of their 1924 crop of peas. They are the first of the season's picking of Wisconsin peas and were grown when weather conditions were just right to produce sweet, tender, fine-flavored peas. Expert canning has preserved all of fresh "just from the garden" taste. They are uniform in size and you will not find any hard, tasteless peas among them. Be particularly careful in buying peas this year. To avoid disappointment always ask for "E" BRAND.

CONGRATULATIONS

THE CHEW PUBLISHING COMPANY extends hearty congratulations and sincere good wishes to the Jobe Brothers Company on the completion of their splendid new business home, which is a demonstration of the enterprise and progressiveness of the firm, and will prove in the years to come, a real asset to the entire community. May the investment made in Xenia for Xenia's upbuilding, be repaid with abundant success.

No other city of the size in the state has more energetic up-to-date, or progressive business men. The many local business firms that have recently remodeled and enlarged their stores, are not only enlarging their own possibilities but are adding to the wealth of the community. A city or community is judged by the public largely by appearance of its business places.

We wish to call the special attention of our readers to the advertising carried in this edition. The fine spirit of co-operation and good-will demonstrated by the local business men is a thing above price. It is an illustration of the new fraternalism which characterizes all big business of the present day.

We urge our readers to give loyal support to these business men whose daily efforts make possible the prosperity which our city enjoys. They have invested their money, their labor and their best thought for the betterment of Xenia and community. Xenia's debt to them can only be paid by the whole-hearted support of the entire community.
